READ TESTIMONIALS:

GOVERNMENT HOUSE, 1st June 1883.

DEAR SIR,—The eye-glasses and spectacles purchased from you in December last have given me comfort and satisfaction, and I never experience any strain upon my eyes after using them.

I remain, Dear Sir, your obedient servant,
T. HEATH HAVILAND,
Lieutenant Governor.

MR. B. LAURANCE.

I have been wearing a pair of eye-glasses purchased of Mr. Laurance four months since, and I can remark with truth that I see perfectly the smallest print, with ease and comfort, artificial light.

DAVID STERLING.

I purchased, in December last, a pair of Mr. B. Laurance's eye-glasses, and have much pleasure in stating that I have never had glasses that suited my eyes so well—in reading the smallest print without any strain on the eye.

W. E. DAWSON.

This is to certify that I have purchased from Mr. B. Laurance two pairs of eye-glasses, one for my wife and the other for myself, and we are both very much pleased with our purchase.

Grit Mendacity.

When it was announced that Sir Charles Tupper was to succeed Sir Alexander Galt as High Commissioner, the mendacity mongers immediately trumped up a story that Sir Charles would not sit in the same Cabinet with Mr. Chapleau, and that Mr. Chapleau would not sit in the House of Commons with Sir Charles Tupper. Before the session closed, however, Mr. Chapleau returned to Ottawa and occupied a seat in the Commons close to Sir Charles. And now, to add to the confusion of the fabricators of the story, Sir Charles does not pretend to leave the Cabinet, of which Mr. Chapleau is also a member. Time corrects many misrepresentations.—Mail.

The Alabama Award.

MR. KENNARD STILL DESIROUS OF VENTILATING THE SUBJECT IN PARLIAMENT.

LONDON, May 31.—With reference to his motion in relation to the disposition of the surplus of the Alabama award, Mr. Kennard, M. P., writes to the Times that he is still desirous of ventilating the subject. He says that his desire is fortified by a firm conviction that the American press and Government have evinced an honorable wish to have the question finally settled. The following is the resolution which Mr. Kennard intends to move in the House of Commons:—

"That in view of the public utterances of eminent American statesmen with reference to the destination of the undistributed moneys resulting from the Geneva award, the views is of the opinion that an exchange of views between the English and United States Governments on the subject would be conducive to the development of the friendly relations between the two countries."

Whipped Boys, Whipped Men.

The New York Evening Telegram says:—A very wise movement has been started in Montreal by the Rev. Cure Rouscote. If it is carried out on sound principles it will be attended by glorious results. The gentleman mentioned has purchased two thousand acres of land near St. Jerome for the education of boys to agricultural pursuits. Why cannot something similar be done in the United States. The future of the Republic is in the hands of its boys. They should be taught to be men and ought to be trained and disciplined rationally. Kindness is the greatest factor in the education of young people. Undue severity makes them cowards and breeds deceit and treachery in their minds. "A whipped boy becomes a whipped man," said a sage old Indian chief. He was right. Let us have farms for the training of our orphan boys, where they can be made self-sustaining, self-respecting men. At Metray, in France, there is a famous institution of this kind. We should, however, endeavor to do better than France. We breathe the air of positive liberty. We should raise our wards in the same atmosphere. An American model farm and school of this kind would teach the world a lesson and help to reduce the criminal classes in our great cities. Take care of the boys and they will take care of the country.

Blessings may appear under the shape of pains, losses and disappointments; but let a man have patience, and he will see them in the proper figure.

CURRENT NOTES.

New York has nine widows none of whom has a fortune of less than a million.

Five square-rigged vessels are being loaded at Pugwash, N. S., with lumber for England.

An addition is to be built to the convent at Memramcook this summer. It will cost about $5,000.

"Carriages and other conveyances, including a first class hearse," are among the attractions offered at a Scotch hotel.

The newest thing in weddings is reported from Louisville, Ky., where a young lady who is to be married in June will have what is called a "rainbow wedding," as the bridesmaids will wear prismatic colors of India silk.

Another encyclical letter will shortly be issued by the Pope to the faithful in all parts of the world denouncing secret societies. It will enjoin priests to refuse the sacrament to all persons connected with seditious movements.

The British Government is pushing the Agricultural Holdings' bill in Parliament in order to give speedy relief to English tenant farmers, as it is feared that unless this be done they may become active sympathizers with the Irish.

Serious anti-Jewish riots have occurred at St. Petersburg, and it has been found necessary to employ troops from a distance to quell the disturbances. During a street engagement many of the rioters were killed by the fire of the troops.

The Vatican is said to be preparing a special appeal to the Roman Catholic bishops all over the world urging the necessity of increasing the contributions to Peter's Pence, which have shown a great falling off during the last two years.

The agent at Galway of the Allan line of steamships has received a letter threatening him with death if he does not leave the country at once. This is supposed to be in consequence of his having been engaging factory girls to go to Massachusetts.

The Leeds Mercury says:—Of our own colonies, Canada, probably, takes the leading place with a display of the greatest variety and interest. In fact, it may be that our own share in the Exhibition will contrast unfavourably with the completeness of this collection from Canada.

According to Mr. Gladstone, the lump sums, to be granted to Lord Alcester, and Lord Wolsley, in place of the annuities of £2,000 a year for two lives, as proposed in the original bills, are respectively £25,000 and £30,000, the difference arising, of course, from the differences in age between the two Peers.

The prosecution of seal fishing at Newfoundland is now completed, and the results, so far as the Dundee fleet is concerned, have been ascertained. The catch of six vessels hailing from Dundee is 95,100 seals, an increase of over 32,000 as compared with last year, and a decrease of 45,000 as compared with 1881.

Mr. Wingfield Digby, who died at Sherborne Castle lately, in his eighty-fourth year, was a country gentleman of the good old type. He was just sixty when his maternal uncle, the last Earl of Digby, bequeathed him his vast unentailed property, the Dorsetshire estates, worth £40,000 a year, and some £600,000 in the funds.

The contest over the will of Lewis, the Hoboken miser, who devised his fortune to the United States to aid in paying off the national debt has ended in a decision by Judge Nixon upholding its terms. One of the last recorded acts of this eccentric millionaire was to remark, upon buying a cabbage for his table, "that will last two days." Could he have observed it, how afflicted his soul must have been to see the liberal chow-chow which the lawyers and the courts made of his estate in the matter of allowance and fees. The national man will now devour the remainder. It will probably last two days.—New York Telegram.

The Parisians are going to include among their entertainments from the 1st to the 22nd July, an insect exhibition, organized by the Central Society of Agriculture and Insectology. Among these entomological specimens will be included both the useful and injurious. The fabrics which insects produce, the transformations which the little animals themselves undergo, and the various processes which human beings employ for exterminating obnoxious insects will all be on hand; and the curious who maintain that the soul in lower animals differs from the human soul only in degree, will have an opportunity of speculating as to the place where soul ceases, and mechanical instinct begins.
