

Brag Literature.

A distinguished Southern lady, who is the wife of a noted and extreme Radical, residing in one of the Northern States, while engaged in plucking the gray hairs from her husband's moustache, was asked by him, "What are you doing, my dear?" "Only carrying out your own policy, sir; exterminating the whites for the benefit of the blacks," was the witty reply.

A wife asked her husband if druggists kept dyestuffs for sale. He replied, "Most druggists keep little else but dyestuffs."

Adam had a great advantage, in one respect, over every other husband known to earth; his wife couldn't threaten to go and live with her mother.

An old lady says that two things which were very common in her youth have gone entirely out of fashion now-a-days—sunshine and silver money.

A Jocosse Arkansian playfully says that it is not uncommon in that State to see men with three ears each; one on each side of the head, and a third between the teeth.

It seems as though I'd never get square with that ere grand-jury," remarked a disconsolate rogue; "they never gets together without bringin' in a little bill ag'in me."

An incorrigible loafer, being taken to task for his laziness, replied, "I tell you, gentlemen, you are mistaken, I have not a lazy bone in my body, but the fact is I was born tired!"

There is one kind o' ship I always steer clear of," said an old bachelor seaman, "and that's courtship, cause on that ship there's always two mates and no captain."

"The greatest source of weakness to every nation under Heaven," said a philosopher, "comes from the fact that women have so little to do and so much to say." That man was a donkey.

When Marshal Narvez, the blood-thirsty Spaniard, was on his death-bed, he was advised by his companion to forgive his enemies. "I have none," replied the marshal; "I had them all shot long ago."

"Are you alarmed at the approach of the King of Terrors?" asked a man of a dying neighbor. "No," was the emphatic reply—"no; I've lived six-and-thirty years with the Queen of Terrors, and the King can't be worse'n she, I'll be bound."

Fat cook (with conscious blushes) to the lady who wants to engage her: "As to there being no followers allowed, mum, you might recollect as you've been single yourself; and a gal as is rather showy in figger can't well help 'em comin' about."

A professor in the Dublin University has lately discovered that Homer's name was originally O'Meagher, which became abbreviated to O'mer, which was erroneously pronounced Ho'Mer by the English cockneys, and finally came to be written Homer.

"What are you kicking my dog for?" demanded a traveller of an express agent, who had just kicked a snarling terrier out of the baggage-car. "Because he's mad." "No, he isn't mad." "Well, I should think he'd be; I'm sure I'd be mad if anybody kicked me that way."

"Do you say your prayers regularly every night and morning?" asked a sympathetic lady of a little bootblack, to whom she had just given a trifle. "I aluz sez 'em at night, mum; but any smart boy can take care of hisself in the day-time," was the little rogue's reply.

"Nancy," said a girl to her companion, "which railroad train do you like the best?" "That one," replied Nancy, "which furnishes a spark catcher!"

A newspaper having spoken of the "priests, deacons, and lady members" of the Episcopal Church, corrected itself the next day by saying that lady members are not lay members, except of the hen family.

"Nigger, who am de fust mar dat interduced salt perwishins into the navy?" "Dar, now, you's too hard for dis colored individual." "It was Noah, nigger, when he took Ham board his ark."

Agricultural.

Docking the tails of horses is a needless cruelty. Nature knew what she was about in equipping them for fly-time.

Cream can be kept several days in hot weather without spoiling, by putting a tea cup of salt in a gallon of cream. So says an exchange.

If you want small potatoes hoe them frequently, so as to cause new tubers to set. If you don't, don't.

A dead horse is worth more for fertilizing purposes than three loads of common manure; and a dead dog more than a live one, on the average.

Mules as a farm team are tougher than horses, longer lived, will do three times the work on the same food, and are less liable to disease.

"They say" that hams or bacon will keep nicely all summer if packed in a plenty of sawdust. Another way is to wrap in paper and pack in ashes.

A Tennessee sheep-breeder who has collected samples from wool producing countries for thirty years past thinks that warm climates produce finer wool than cold ones.

If you wish to teach the boys to do good work and love work give them good tools, not the worn out ones that have been laid aside in the invalid corps.

The best preventative of rust in wheat is silicate manures, like lime, ashes &c., and good drainage.

Raspberries thrive best on northern slopes. They love a cool and shady location.

The cauliflower deserves a more general cultivation than it has yet begun to receive in country gardens. It is an excellent vegetable, and is grown with the same culture as the cabbage.

Evergreens should not be watered except in very dry weather, and then only at night. A thick mulch around the tree is better than water.
