FLATTERING

No doubt about it — the long, slim jacket can give the less-than-perfect figure a beautiful line.

Brown tweed, soft and supple, is used for this suit. It features a side-buttoned long jacket.

Especially attractive to set off the line is a separate scarf of matching fabric, to be worn many ways. Here it's shown draped horizontally across the shoulders, emphasizing the slimness of the jacket.

COVEHEAD C.W.L.

The minutes of the monthly general meeting of the St. Eugene's sub-division of the C. W. L. was held on Sunday evening, November 3 at the home of Mrs. Terrence Lamphier.

The president, Mrs. Leslie MacCabe, opened the meeting with the League prayer and the prayer for the Holy Father, recited in unison by the members.

The minutes of the previous monthly meeting were read by the secretary and approved. Roll call was answered by twelve members and the collection amounted to $1.45. One visitor was present.

The new correspondence was read by the secretary, it included a letter from the C.W.L. corresponding secretary, regarding the "Crusade for the Catholic Press."

Meeting to be held in Charlottetown, also a letter from Rev. Fr. Walsh, reminding all to send the contents of dime banks as a means of keeping the Sacred Heart program on television.

The treasurer, Mrs. Charles O-Brien presented the new financial statement. She reported new balance of $103.74 on hand.

The convenor of Education, Mrs. Kenneth Morrison gave the report of the night session of the C.W.L. conference held recently at Fort Augustus. Mrs. Louis Aylward, convener of Social Action reported she had received a donation of yarn from a Charlottetown firm, and shy members were asked to knit mittens or socks etc for the Catholic family Centre.

The meeting then dealt with unfinished and new business. There was considerable discussion on purchasing new Station of the Cross for Covehead Church but nothing definite was decided.

Fr. Wood inquired as to how many families were receiving and reading a Catholic paper in the home. He also reminded the ladies that now that Catechism classes are discontinued for the winter in the church, the parents should see to it that the children are instructed in the homes.

Mrs. Daniel Ready, an elderly lady of the League, gave a very informative talk on the history of Covehead church, which proved to be most interesting to all members.

It was decided that the members of the C.W.L. provide lunch for the contestants taking part in a step-dancing contest sponsored by the Holy Name Society of the parish to be held November 18th.

It was decided that the members bring some article of clothing to the next meeting for the Catholic Family Centre. It was decided that a thank you letter be sent to the donator of yarn to the C.W.L.

ELLEN'S DIARY

Peace Of Mind Comes In Many Different Ways

One of November's 'gray velvet days this—windless, gently clouded and still. Pleasant, though, we remember, lacking the warmth and delight of yesterday's sunlight. Yet it was so hushed that beneath its spell one could forget for a time, every ill and grievance, every sadness and worry of a world no longer at ease., prevailing, again "possess one's soul" with its peace.

Folks need such refreshment of spirit wherever they can secure it — in work, at play, in the quiet places of the earth or in the midst of noise and activity, for it is not given to all to find their peace of mind in the same way.

We notice that Granddaughter loves to appropriate some quiet corner away from the sounds of the workaday world. There, in reading, she can find enjoyment and rest.

And we have seen Mack suddenly forsake playmates and the lure of outdoor interests, the comfort and kindness of the house across the lane, to come to this almost deserted kitchen and with wrapt expression listen in to some program of music. Or maybe all else forgotten hum a little tune to himself as he rocked awhile in his great-grandmother's old rocking chair. And then obviously refreshed by the interval of quiet he would be off then on happy steps to resume his pastimes again.

They, as well as many of the other pupils in the school down the River Road have been victims of the Flu, which has laid more and less misery up and down the countryside of late. She "not ill once since I had the tonsilectomy" was obliged to spend today in bed, while he improving has spent an outdoor week. And we find we listen for the young voices out about and saddened to see them miserable wish in the words of a youngster whose family was similiarly afflicted not long ago, "If only we could be as well as we were before this, how good it would be!'

Presently at Alderlea, the last chapter of the field work will be completed for the year. It has been a lovely interval, that extent of time which like a rainbow arched between the Springtime and Fall.

And now with rain and dark against the windows, from it scenes of much enchantment return to mind, those dear remembered things we remembred to treasure: the Spring-pipers' tune lifting and falling in pretty cadences in the quiet dimness, the sun and breeze, the fragrance and poignancy of the haying, the spun-gold of the harvest, the gaysad fires of the Autumn-hills.

"I believe" the Mailman said driving by with his faithful horse and wagon today, bringing us nice missives, "this will be a fairly mild winter. Yes, the signs as I see them seem to point to it. After all, when we come to think of it, this has been an exceptional Fall. . . farmers harvesting their crops away on into November"

An exceptional Fall. And November continues still to give the farmers quiet "open," days.

Until tomorrow — — Diary — Goodnight. . . .
