There are many changes on the campus this year, beautiful buildings with magnificent lights and nice pavement have been constructed. The parking lot is really an act of goodness to be appreciated and admired. Now, chances of getting parking tickets from security officers have apparently diminished. Each student, teacher, worker and office girl seem to be coming up in shape.

Last year I don't think anyone could complain about snow, (everyone enjoyed the big fluffy balls), while going from class to class. Don't you recall instances when you "booted" my car and extended your timely help along with four other students to that poor fellow who was trying to remove his car from the mounds of snow with that funny noise of his wheels?

What about this year? Parking lots are not close to campus. Do you want that unhappy burden of an $8.00 to $10.00 towing fine each time you park illegally? Poor, hardworking university student.

Let's come forward and through this media, suggest something workable based on voluntary help for each other.

Students;

I've been at U.P.E.I. for over a year now and in that time the prevalence of two pleas constant through each publication of the CADRE has disturbed me. The These pleas are of course the request for material for the CADRE and appeals to the student body for a lack of apathy on their part. These two general trends have, of course, been served up with petty rivalries on nasty language snide remarks as to the efficiency of our security police and direct insults to the Student's union. The result of this seems to me to be that we have enjoyed (?) a paper which is at best revealing a rather depressing view of our University. This is not the fault of our paper itself, rather the hardworking people who put it together, have presented with a great deal of accuracy, the picture at U.P.E.I. The reason for this letter is to help fill a page of the CADRE and also to assuage at least some of my feelings of depression on reading the paper this Friday.

When I entered the University there was a saying which went - "Mom, Dad, University, Good Times"- Perhaps the best part of the saying was believing it. Unfortunately this innocent bliss lasted for at best six weeks of Hearts and Gin Rummy playing in the Barn. There was as much excitement on campus as is generated by a new litter at the City of Toronto Dog Pound. It mattered not how much a team won, how much a person drank, or how weirdly they dressed, it seemed that nothing could be done to generate even a feeling of excitement or school spirit. We listened to pleas for cheering, beering and clearing(out the Americans) but answered with the aforementioned Hearts and Rummy.

On the whole, perhaps partially because of me, my social life on campus in my freshman year was quite poor if not downright terrible.

However for some reason which can perhaps be attributed at least in part (80%) to the lowering of the liquor age. I feel that the picture painted by the CADRE is not necessarily the total picture at U.P.E.I. anymore. I've noticed this most in the past three weeks. The first time I ever noticed a Junior and a Freshman not only talking but laughing, dancing, and spilling beer all over each other was at the Pig and Whistle with Ryan's Fancy. This was without a doubt one of the better times that I've had on this campus, and to think that I got by without the necessity of being drunkenly oblivious to "down-to-earth" stares from people "more mature than" myself. Admittedly everyone was a little wet outside as well as in, however, it was still a new sight for everyone to be having such a good time at a Pig and Whistle.

On Saturday of the same week approximately 200 students travelled to Sackville to watch our Panthers mop up the Mounties. Again with the aid of a few ales etc., there was not only a victory but also support in the first degree which was very much noticed by the football team. This was evidenced in the last edition of the Cadre when one and possibly two of the Panthers dropped the ball long enough to write the Cadre and thank the fans who supported them. They showed that they were not only playing for themselves but also for our university.

The following Saturday I was at the game against the Red Bombers and although somewhat disappointed after the first half the second half more than made up for it. Under the capable leadership of our new cheer leader that whole section of people in the stands got to their feet and roared their heads off. Result of the game was another victory. You never know, our cheering might have helped.

One thing about this game, I felt it revealed the ridiculousness of the "Yankee Go Home" theory supporters. Not a person said a word about "damned Americans" when one was being carried off on a stretcher, or one was leading the cheering. They play to win as hard as us and nobody complains when they help us win. I say enough of this "go home" crap.

The same night the forum was just about full to watch what was supposed to be a bunch of rookies, fight St. F.X. to a one goal loss, which was reversed the next day. I feel that this is a team which will improve markedly especially if well supported.

In closing I'll say that I for one plan on going to the Hallow'een Dance, the football game at Acadia and as many other functions as possible involving U.P.E.I. I hope more students will make a resolution of this to start and keep the trend, which I feel has already started, going. Three short comments to make:

- 1) Administration - put out some damned money to keep our hockey team together - they'll be great in two years.
- 2) Let's see some more girls making a little more noise at our functions.

3) God, this is a windy letter.

Kacey; An Island Soph who's planning to go places.

Let's make this eve of Christmas a real splendid, magnificent and melodious one, as a Nation we will have a real sympathetic Prime Minister, who will try his best to uplift and unite Canada as a solid rock. And as christians a child is born to us, a son is given and the government be upon his shoulders and his name will be called Wonderful Counsellor, mighty God, everlasting father, Prince of Peace, who blessed Nations and brought peace settlements in the most unfortunate and troublesome areas of the world.

Praise him, for his mighty acts. Praise him according to his excellent greatness. Come everyone, join together as a member of Heavenly Kingdom in the first of December in the U.P.E.I. chapel with stringed instruments and organs. International students will mark this happy and peaceful Christmas with their respective tunes and languages.

Try to contribute with your local carrols.
