

$1 Million Bogus Bills Printed

VANCOUVER (CP) — About $1,000,000 in counterfeit money was printed by Canadian criminals in 1965, says a booklet introduced here today at the conference of the Canadian Association of Chiefs of Police.

While two-thirds of the phoney money was seized by police before it could be placed into circulation, some Canadians still took heavy losses because they couldn't detect counterfeit banknotes.

Yet fake notes can be easily spotted by the general public once it is aware of the high quality of genuine Bank of Canada notes as opposed to their imitations, says the booklet.

It is the eighth in a series of booklets put out by the RCMP aimed at acquainting Canadians with ways they can help police combat crime.

PRODUCT IS CRUDE

Despite the skills and equipment they might possess, counterfeiters still produce a crude product as compared with the Bank of Canada bills printed by the British American Bank Note Co. and the Canadian Bank Note Co.

Genuine bills are printed under a steel-plate engraving method which gives them a three-dimensional quality.

"The counterfeiter cannot duplicate this method—all he can do is simulate it in two dimensions."

Since the same portrait of the Queen appears on all denominations, the booklet recommends that any suspect bill be compared with a clear $1 note.

"It is not likely that the $1 note will be counterfeit," says the booklet, indicating that counterfeiters don't waste time on such small denominations.

HAIR DISTINCT

On genuine bills, every hair on the Queen's head will be distinct. On phoney bills, the hair will be too light or too dark, and the hairs merge together.

There's also a life-like expression in the Queen's eyes on the real thing that can't be duplicated by counterfeiters. On bad bills, the eyes will lack sparkle.

Counterfeiters also can't match the natural flesh tone on the Queen's portrait on genuine bills.

Rubbing the ink on a suspected bill to determine whether it's the real thing isn't recommended. Some of the ink used on genuine notes will smear. And while real bills have a crackle, all their own, paper isn't a good test either.

If you can't see or feel the difference, a genuine bill can be spotted by the green-color planchettes scattered on it.

Planchettes—circular discs of paper much like confetti—are placed in the pulp during the paper-making process in a way to ensure a few will appear on each bill.

They are visible only when the note is held up to the light. On a genuine bill, planchettes can usually be picked off with a fingernail or pin.

"Counterfeit planchettes are just dots of ink of the same color as genuine planchettes which have been printed on the counterfeit note," says the booklet.

"They cannot be picked off like genuine planchettes."

Canadians should know the main colors of the different denominations, that genuine bills never contain a water mark and the names of Louis Rasminsky and J. R. Beattie, governor and deputy governor, respectively, of the Bank of Canada. Their signatures appear on all bills.

If you think someone is trying to pass fake money to you, says the booklet, don't return it to him. Delay him and contact the nearest police officer.

If you are victimized, don't try to recoup your losses by trying to pass the bad bill to someone else.

"Anyone knowingly passing such a note is liable to 14 years imprisonment," warns the booklet.

So your ability to detect a good note can be important. You're the loser if someone fools you."

Appointments Announced

MONTREAL (CP) — The Bank of Montreal announced today the appointment of Donald R. McCallum as assistant general manager for the United Kingdom and manager of the London branch, and C. E. Noblet as assistant general manager for continental Europe, resident in Paris.

The appointments follow the retirement of John A. Hobson, general manager for Europe, after a banking career of 43 years.

Mr. McCallum formerly served at the head office in Montreal and at branches in Canada. He has been manager of the principal London office since 1963.

Mr. Noblet, who formerly served at Vancouver and in eastern Canada, has been the bank's senior executive officer for the continent since early 1965.

Mr. Hobson served at branches in Ontario and Quebec and at main branches in Halifax and Ottawa and as senior agent in New York.
