

Well Known Showman And Youth Work Pioneer Passes

Mr. Henry Gaudet, one of Summerside's most prominent business men and a central figure in the history of the town passed away at the Prince County Hospital early Thursday morning. He was 74.

The deceased was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Albert Gaudet. He was born in Summerside and from his earliest years took an active part in the business life of Summerside.

Along with his brother, Joseph J. Gaudet, he pioneered in the moving picture business in the town and was one of the founders of the present motion picture theatre. The Capitol now owned and operated by Mr. Harold Gaudet. Associated with several other Summerside men the two brothers operated several picture houses in the town, including the old Fairland and in more recent years the Happyland theatre which later became the Capitol.

A natural born showman, the late Henry Gaudet became interested in various other types of entertainment and many older residents of the province will recall his "Mechanical City" which he operated for the amusement of the public, not only in Prince Edward Island, but in many of the larger centres of Canada and the United States.

In later years he returned to his native town and opened the Olympia Restaurant and dance hall. Later he began the manufacture of the well known brand of Ice cream known as the Olympia brand. Several years ago he sold out his interest in the Olympia to the Canadian Legion and the property was converted into the present Legion Home on Water Street. He retained, however, his interests in the Olympia Ice Cream product and for the past several years operated from the plant of the Amalgamated Dairies under a joint agreement with organization.

He not only gave his time and talent to assisting local charitable projects but was prominent in a number of local organizations. He was a pioneer in such movements as the Catholic Youth Mens League as a director and also in the Summerside Youth Center Incorporated. Both organizations being devoted to aiding and assisting the youth of the town.

He was a member of the Summerside Council of the Knights of Columbus and a Past Grand Knight of the order in this Province. At the time of his death he was in the board of directors of the Prince County Hospital.

His wife, the former Christina Rochford, predeceased him a number of years ago.

The funeral will take place on Saturday morning at 9:00 o'clock to St. Paul's Church. Interment will be in the Church cemetery. S.

Theft Cases Before Prince Co. Magistrate

A woman from Tignish charged with theft of a sum of money exceeding $50.00 from Myrick MacIntosh Ltd., Tignish appeared in County Magistrate's Court Summerside yesterday morning and was remanded until Wednesday March 28 at 11:00 a.m. for preliminary hearing by Magistrate R.S. Hinton, Q.C. who presided. The offence allegedly took place between March 17th, 1955 and December 2, 1955.

A man from Malpeque charged with stealing a pump sleigh received a one year suspended sentence after payment of costs of $21.50. Two parties from Summerside were each fined $20.00 and costs for being intoxicated in a public place (Linkletter Road), while the case of a party from Borden facing a charge of entering a dwelling house with intent to commit a indictable offence was further adjourned for two weeks.

C. R. MacKENZIE

S'ide Chairman For King's Fund

HALIFAX — C. Ross MacKenzie has been appointed chairman for St. Mary's Parish, Summerside, in the $1,450,000 campaign for the University of King's College Development Fund. Other members of his committee are James Murphy, Ken Dorcey, Fifth Bowers and Wanda Wyatt.

While also accepting responsibility for a major share of King's financial needs for its Faculty of Arts and Science, members of the Anglican communion are assuming the entire burden of $400,000 needed for the School of Divinity, which is the official training school for the provinces of Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

The undergraduate student body is non-sectarian and predominantly non-Anglican and, therefore, is receiving support from corporations and individuals of all creeds.

"I am helping in this effort", Mr. MacKenzie said in accepting appointment, "because I feel that the opportunity must be given youth to pursue higher education in Christian surroundings. King's College, with its long history, must not only continue its effective educational program, but expand it to meet present-day and future requirements."

Operator and manager of M. L. Frank MacKenzie's clothing store, Mr. MacKenzie is active in church and civic affairs. He is warden of his parish, past president of the Y's Men's Club, vice president of the Summerside Board of Trade and a member of the Canadian Legion and the R.C.A.F. Association.

THE WEEK AT SDU

believe that the reason for this veritable boycott of the general meeting was prompted by any aversion to having one of the above-mentioned societies formally admitted to the Students Union, and even more remote is the possibility that the student body has lost interest so soon in the sweaters and crests over which they were bickering and battling but a few weeks ago. There remains but one alternative explanation for this lethargic cloud that has gripped the wheels of activity in such a vise-like hold — it must be the weather. There is a saying in certain circles, "third time lucky", and perhaps now that the first two attempts at mustering a sufficiently large number of students to constitute a voting quorum have proved unsuccessful, a third will not fare much better.

If nothing else will serve to break the grip of the hibernation habit among the students here at S.D.U., we have received advance notice of something that will. The major calendars posted around and about the campus have been ticked off according to one system or another to indicate the number of days separating the students and faculty alike from the relief of the Easter holidays. If you sit back and make a calculation of your own, our holidays are slated to begin at noon on Wednesday, March 28. However, a closer look at these calendars will disclose a span of three days that are set off starkly from the rest, in all probability not in a kindly, gentle, or graceful manner, for into these three slots will be poured all the torturous trickery that our staff of professors can find the time and inclination to commit to paper. Yes, your next set of examinations is fast upon us, they are scheduled for next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, and as you read this account, you can feel quite certain that the majority of us, even the more polished of the vultures, are trimming our lamps and squinting in the light of the often-sung midnight oil. Thoughts of all the just reasons why Father So-and-so would be perfectly justified in wreaking his vengeance with a stiff exhortation to themselves exponentially until the poor struggling soul, with remorse in his heart for his past offenses and negligence, finds himself sand-bagging against the mounting amendments. Although this counteraction will return all to tranquility once more as each text is diligently scrutinized and then relegated to the stack of the "kills", experience shows that this correction is usually but a temporary one. But then, perhaps it is just as well this way.

Just think how monotonous college life would become if it were not for the stimulation provided by the regular rounds of examinations. How boring it would soon become, if everyone was at all times and in all places right up to date on all his subjects. Why, examinations would soon become as commonplace as hair combing, but then that isn't very universal here, let's say as common as brushing the teeth, and let's make it all inclusive; as common as sleeping. Now don't be deceived by all this into thinking that everyone here at St. Dunstan's fully appreciates the stimulatory value of examinations. Most of us have other ways in which we'd rather be stimulated. In fact, many here probably can't appreciate many or possibly any of the values of examinations; but then, those before us managed to put up with some cases even spectacularly surmount these necessary obstacles, shall not we?

Alpha Hi-Y Club

The weekly meeting of the Alpha Hi-Y Club was held Wednesday evening at seven o'clock with nineteen members present. The meeting was called to order by the president, Jim Norton while Ken Walker presided. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

A scrap book for the club was purchased during the week by Dick Rankin and Robert Holman. The basketball scores were also read at this time. The minutes of the executive meeting held Tuesday evening were read and it was decided that a budget would be drawn up. All committees are to give a detailed report at the next meeting.

For a while there was a turmoil on who was conducting the dance this Saturday night but it was found that it was not the club's turn. Plans to hold a big dance in one of the halls was also discussed. Ned Henthorn then moved that the dance be postponed, seconded by Charles Hickey.

MINIMUM WAGE

of the particular province concerned. "We would not want to compete with any other province in regard to wage rates," he said.

William A. Acorn (Liberal), said the matter of a minimum wage is long overdue in receiving the attention it should. He recalled that an outside contractor came to Souris Marine wharf and first made some enquiries regarding the employment situation.

The contractor said he was willing to pay the prevailing rate of pay which at that time was 60 cents per hour. He indicated, however, that they would be willing to pay more than that. The Town Council held a special meeting and passed a by-law establishing the rate at 75 cents per hour. The contractor told those in authority that they bid on the job on the basis of 60 cents per hour and that the contractor had 15 cents per hour on every hour that was worked on that wharf—money that should have gone into the pockets of the laborers of Souris," he said.

LABOR EXPLOITED

Mr. Acorn could not see how a minimum wage act could affect farmers. "We should have a minimum wage law so that labor will not be exploited and although we have made mention of an outside contractor, there are plenty of local ones doing the same," he said.

Hon. B. Earle MacDonald said he was in full accord with having a committee appointed. "It will take a lot of time and study by the committee, therefore the contractor had looked over the minimum wage act of some of the other provinces and could see nothing wrong with them.

Of good thing he noticed in the act was that it regulated the number of hours that a person must work. He said there were girls working in Charlottetown for 100 hours a week at a salary between $20 and $23.

Mr. MacDonald said he was absolutely against the policy of the Dominion Government granting contracts to outside firms for local work. "I do not like the idea of having a group of outsiders having the authority to hire and fire our men."

ALBERTON

Mr. and Mrs. John Oliver, Alberton, attended the Dairyman's Association banquet in the Charlottetown Hotel last Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Michael A'Hearn, Alberton, is confined to her home by illness.

Miss Sophie Ramsay, Alberton, is visiting relatives in Charlottetown.

NO CITY PLASTERERS

He said no plasterers from the City were allowed to work on the Federal building but men from Quebec get $1.80 per hour. "I believe we have Islanders who can do the work just as well and they will not ask for $1.80 per hour," he said. "I will stand behind this resolution so long as I know that the majority of the people want it — if they don't want it then we are wasting the time of this House discussing it," he added.

The committee named to inquire into the Minimum Wage Act consists of A.A. MacIsaac (chairman), Morley Bell, Summerside; E. P. Foley, Summerside; R. B. Bell, Charlottetown and William A. Acorn, Souris.

TOWN SELLS LAND

A special meeting of the Summerside Town Council on Thursday night accepted the offer bid received from tenders offering for sale 9-10 of an acre of town owned land bounded on two sides by Harvard Street and Town Lane. This land was purchased by Canada Packers Ltd., for $2,500 and will be used, at least for the present, in providing a roadway leading to their fertilizer plant.

THE MEETING WAS PRESIDED OVER BY MAYOR CURRIE

The meeting was presided over by Mayor Currie, and all members of the Council were present.

(whom we referred to some time ago) are now busily engaged in a do-or-die effort to make our program a success. There is a booklet, "The Wheels of this endeavor, or, seem to have become somewhat mired in that between some sluggishness that we referred to above. At this writing, the necessary materials for the final compilation of the booklet are on their way here, and the covers bearing the inscription "Memories 1955-56" have been ordered. Meanwhile, the operation here has shifted into high gear in an effort to have all materials in readiness when the page layouts arrive. Just about every photo-source has been tapped, many albums rifled, and a recent barrage of flashbulbs and the nosing around of camera lenses, it looked for awhile as though Hollywood had a corner on Saint Dunstan's. Now things have tapered off pretty well back to normal and the cameramen have retreated to their various hideouts, waiting for the necessary pictures for the forthcoming presentation. It will soon be in the hands of the publisher and then everyone can relax or turn to another project.

If the publisher is able to fulfill his agreement, the finished booklet, a photographic record of the year's activities and those who took part in them, should be available just before we all depart for our home soil in May. Since none else seems to have thought of doing it, we would like to take this opportunity to extend a pat on the back to those laboring on this project, not as applying the good, but as extending sincere "Thank you."

Now that spring is with us, according to the calendar at least, the familiar cry "There's activity in the bull-pen" is once again cracking over the air waves from sunnier climes. Here on the campus, the closest that we have been able to come to this sort of situation is taking place behind the lattice-enclosed "pen", the choir stall. In an effort to usher in the recent changes in the liturgy for Palm Sunday with all the ceremony possible, our choir director, Father Larkin, is now busily leading his charges over the quagmire path of the Gregorian notation, drilling the choir in the execution of the trickier tonal intervals, and polishing their style in such a way as to make this forthcoming performance one such as is seldom witnessed here.

Although the task looked insurmountable at first, frequent practices have lent sufficient familiarity with the various pieces so that even should the palm-bearing procession take the group out of the range of the organ, as is at least tentatively planned, there should be no difficulty encountered in the rendering of the chant. Just as we are all looking forward to witnessing the drama of the revised liturgy which will bring it more in keeping with the customs of the early Church and with the events which it is intended to commemorate, so too we look forward with eagerness to witnessing the choir's rendition of the music prescribed by the Church for the celebration of this event. Perhaps if you should happen to be out this way tomorrow morning, you would like to break off a sprig of palm and join in the triumphal march on the Holy City, if so, you are most welcome. One more place would hardly be felt; one more "Hosanna" would mean so much.

It looks as though the march of Armed with a soldering iron and sundry other tools and a recent batch of components, he has set up his room until he had performed the two-hundred or so operations laid out by the Heathkit Co., and emerged the proud owner of a Hi-Fi set.

Since that time, a bewildering array of records of every persuasion have been settled over the spindle on the player, and many of the students and faculty alike have been given the opportunity to enjoy that magic moment when they listened for the first time to a recording played with "presence". The next task seems to be to provide a suitable cabinet to house the precious machinery, and to that end several suggestions have been submitted by interested individuals. We are hoping that soon there will be provided a worthy repository for the equipment that has brought so much real enjoyment to so many.

The advent of Hi-Fi on the campus has had many effects on the students themselves, and here and there there is evident a certain amount of dissatisfaction with radios and record players that formerly were quite well thought of. In an effort to improve their own equipment and bring it more into accord with the new norm that has been established, some of the students can now be seen constructing external speaker enclosures for their existing sets, purchasing new needles for their players, and mopping the dust from their collections of records. It seems that Hi-Fi has sharpened and made more critical the listening ear of nearly everyone that has come in contact with it here at the college, and it would seem that the only thing that is preventing a widespread rash of high fidelity audio applications is the steep price tags on this type of equipment. It is the hope, however, that in the not too distant future, at least the Glee Club will be able to see their way toward purchasing just such equipment for use in conjunction with their music appreciation program.

Until next time, Greetings from Saint Dunstan's, and in your daily toll, try to keep in mind the words of Chesterton, "Christianity hasn't failed, it has been found difficult, and left untried."

LABOR EXPLOITED

Mr. Acorn could not see how a minimum wage act could affect farmers. "We should have a minimum wage law so that labor will not be exploited and although we have made mention of an outside contractor, there are plenty of local ones doing the same," he said.

Hon. B. Earle MacDonald said he was in full accord with having a committee appointed. "It will take a lot of time and study by the committee, therefore the contractor had looked over the minimum wage act of some of the other provinces and could see nothing wrong with them.

Of good thing he noticed in the act was that it regulated the number of hours that a person must work. He said there were girls working in Charlottetown for 100 hours a week at a salary between $20 and $23.

Mr. MacDonald said he was absolutely against the policy of the Dominion Government granting contracts to outside firms for local work. "I do not like the idea of having a group of outsiders having the authority to hire and fire our men."

PROGRESS HAS REACHED S.D.U.

at least one lifted from the ranks of purely technical language and has been given a place as a standard household work—High Fidelity, has become a common term here at Saint Dunstan's. Sometime during the Christmas vacation, the Hi-Fi bug, that little rascal that can raise the devil with one's pocket-book and tickle the ear of all but the completely tone deaf, chanced to meet Father Landrigan some where in Boston and from that meeting has evolved an array of equipment that has become the Mecca for all the music lovers on the campus. Armed with a soldering iron and sundry other tools and a recent batch of components, he has set up his room until he had performed the two-hundred or so operations laid out by the Heathkit Co., and emerged the proud owner of a Hi-Fi set.

Since that time, a bewildering array of records of every persuasion have been settled over the spindle on the player, and many of the students and faculty alike have been given the opportunity to enjoy that magic moment when they listened for the first time to a recording played with "presence". The next task seems to be to provide a suitable cabinet to house the precious machinery, and to that end several suggestions have been submitted by interested individuals. We are hoping that soon there will be provided a worthy repository for the equipment that has brought so much real enjoyment to so many.

The advent of Hi-Fi on the campus has had many effects on the students themselves, and here and there there is evident a certain amount of dissatisfaction with radios and record players that formerly were quite well thought of. In an effort to improve their own equipment and bring it more into accord with the new norm that has been established, some of the students can now be seen constructing external speaker enclosures for their existing sets, purchasing new needles for their players, and mopping the dust from their collections of records. It seems that Hi-Fi has sharpened and made more critical the listening ear of nearly everyone that has come in contact with it here at the college, and it would seem that the only thing that is preventing a widespread rash of high fidelity audio applications is the steep price tags on this type of equipment. It is the hope, however, that in the not too distant future, at least the Glee Club will be able to see their way toward purchasing just such equipment for use in conjunction with their music appreciation program.

Until next time, Greetings from Saint Dunstan's, and in your daily toll, try to keep in mind the words of Chesterton, "Christianity hasn't failed, it has been found difficult, and left untried."
