EDUCATION DRIVE

Need 46,000 Teachers During The Next 10 Years

By BILL BOSS Canadian Press Staff Writer OTTAWA (CP)—With "Education—Everybody's Business" as their theme, 14 major organizations with coast-to-coast memberships plan a drive to get teaching standards raised in Canada. A Canadian Education Week, March 3 to 9, is sponsored by an imposing list of industrial, labor and educational associations, headed by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, the Canadian Labor Congress, the Canadian Manufacturers Association and the Canadian Home and School and Parent-Teacher Federation.

tion, says: "There is much talk these days about the shortage of teachers but not nearly so much about the need for raising teaching standards." GROWING SHORTAGE Canada's estimated needs during the next 10 years are for 46,000 new teachers, additional to the 125,000 now teaching the country's 3,350,000 primary and secondary school students. Mr. Crowsley says a growing shortage is attributable in part to poor salaries (the 1956 average was $2,950), insufficient buildings and unattractive conditions. "Further, there are approximately 8,000 persons serving as teachers in Canada without any professional training and nearly 10,000 others whose education and training are below the prescribed minimum of the province in which they teach. "Raising teaching standards will help to reduce, not increase, the teacher shortage. This seeming paradox is explained by the fact that teacher drop-out is more responsible for the present shortage than an actual lack of recruits. "If entry standards were higher, misfits and those who use teaching as a temporary means of employment would be kept out. "The teacher in today's world has a big job. Nothing but the best is good enough for this vital responsibility." GREATER DEMAND Foreseeing a greater demand for higher education, the sponsors say that of 100 Canadian children now in Grade VI only four will continue to a university degree. A greater premium on university education means a premium on the training leading to it—more and better teachers. It also means, they say, "more scholarships and bursaries to enable bright boys and girls, who cannot afford their own resources to go to university, to continue their studies." Industry and commerce, together with federal and provincial governments, could combine to provide them. To meet the teacher shortage, they say, "better salaries and better teaching facilities will help to attract better teachers." Education Week programs are under local arrangement, and suggestions for programs have been issued by the national committee here.

Let's Talk It Over

They say that the late American president, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, had cultivated his powers of concentration to the extent that he could think about a problem with people talking all around him. He was able to shut out all external distractions. Unfortunately very few of us have Roosevelt's powers of concentration; most of us require quiet in our moments of meditation. The new library at our Civic Auditorium in Summerside should develop some Rooseveltian thinking if practice really makes perfect. If you go into this library to read, you will be accompanied by a constant jarring sound made by a bouncing basketball. This is customary sign in libraries is "quiet places", but putting this high in our new library would be about as much use as putting it up in a blacksmith shop. We're not sure that anything can be done about this condition, but at any rate, it is an unfortunate one. We attended a meeting on the ground floor of the auditorium recently and it was difficult to hear the speakers because of this same jarring noise. We believe in sports facilities for youth, and we have always advocated an adequate supply of them, which, it is gratifying to know, we now have. But there should be a sensible system of programming that would prevent public meetings being held at the same time as basketball practice. Saltpeper, charcoal and sulphur are docile elements, but mix them together, and pouf!

S'side W.M.S. Meeting Held

The Summerside Church of Christ W.M.S. met at the home of Mrs. Wallace Harding Thursday, February 21, with 12 members present. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Metherall, who related the story of how the hymn, "Must I Go and Empty Handed" came to be written. Miss Olive Murray led the devotional with the theme, "Christ the one door", showing that all men have been offered redemption through Jesus Christ regardless of race or color. Mrs. James Essery read an article along the same lines. Mrs. Arthur Enman then led in prayer. During the business period "Lig was the word used for roll call. A motion was passed that the secretary be reimbursed for the expense of study material purchased. After some discussion on the world's Day of Prayer on March 8, the missionary study was given by Mrs. Weale, who emphasized the importance of reading good literature, and the need of personal evangelism. She also gave an account of the missionary work being carried on in Italy. The meeting closed with the Missionary Benediction.

Paralyzed But He Runs Successful Sales Business

WINNIPEG (CP)—A public accountant who is able to move only his neck and two fingers of his left hand has gone into business—selling by telephone. Burt Burman, 32, was stricken with bulbar polio in September, 1953 and spent three years in hospital, most of it in an iron lung. A slight 105 pounds, Burt has a strong will. "I may be paralyzed but I'm healthy," he says. His office is in a room of his home in suburban St. Vital. Friends and relatives built it with materials donated by Billinkoff's Ltd., the lumber company where he used to work. In the room is his rocking bed, which replaced the tubular confinement of an iron lung last August, a special wheel chair, an electric typewriter, an unusual telephone and earpiece and an unguiltily headstrap with two thin bars protruding from it. The headstrap takes the place of his hands. His wife, Joy, fastens the strap and inches his wheelchair to precisely the right distance from the typewriter. With the wheelchair locked in position he can type by punching the keys with a rod curving down from the headstrap. He dials the phone by means of a rod sticking straight out from the headstrap. Burt undergoes therapy to strengthen his neck for it is still weak. He is unable to hold his head up for more than a few seconds at a time. But he plans to make the headstrap his tool of trade by using it for soliciting by telephone such things as magazine subscriptions. The Society for Cripples Children and Adults, through the March of Dimes, paid for the special equipment. International Business Machines supplied the typewriter at a nominal charge and the Manitoba Telephone System installed his special phone. Burt served in the army from 1942 to 1946 and gets an allowance from the department of veterans' affairs. While in his iron lung, he sold magazine subscriptions and Christmas cards to the hospital staff and found it profitable.

SUM-HI-NOTES

Saturday was Sports Day for teams from Summerside High and Queen Charlotte High School of Charlottetown. In the afternoon two basketball games were played between the Queen Charlotte High girls and boys teams and the Summerside High School girls and boys teams. Queen Charlotte won both games but the boys' game was evenly matched. In the middle of the game Queen Charlotte High was leading 25-9 but at the last Summerside High School had come up to them with a close score of 7-24 for Queen Charlotte High. Our girls should be given every credit for the attempt they made in their first basketball game. The girls only have had a very few practices and have a lot to learn but if they continue as enthusiastically as they have so far they are sure to become a smart playing basketball team. ICE SPORTS At the Ice Sports on Saturday night the Sum-Hi School team defeated the Queen Charlotte team by a score of 11-7 and also won the relay race between the two teams. On Thursday morning, the day before Thinking Day, an Assembly program commemorating the 100th birthday of Lord Baden-Powell founder of Scouting and Guiding was held in the Auditorium. Pupils from Grade 3-8 as well as visitors watched the Brownies, Girl Guides, Cubs and Scouts present a very interesting program of what these movements are like. The program showed the Scouting and Guiding and paid tribute to the late Lord Baden-Powell. Mr. Mercer announced that Assembly programs for the senior grades will close on March 7 in preparation for the spring. Examination which will be held in the third week in March. FASHION SHOW On March 7 the girls taking Home Economics from Grades 10-12 will present their annual Fashion Show under the direction of Mrs. R. MacLean and Mrs. Lidstone. The show will be held in the auditorium and an admission will be charged. Music selection will be sung as well as piano selections for the audience. Be sure to reserve this date to see the fine work these girls have done in selecting fashions and sewing them for themselves.

90TH BIRTHDAY

Mr. John Noonan, of Indian River, recently celebrated his 90th birthday. Although along in years he still enjoys the best of health and has all the use of his faculties. A few friends and neighbours gathered at his home on the evening of Feb. 7th, to congratulate him and wish him many more years of good health.

Mr. Saville

(Continued from page 1) get it right until Island farmers can buy their grain direct from Western farmers," said Mr. Saville. "Something must be done. We are now bringing turkeys in from the United States." Mr. Saville said the rural electrification program started by the present Government was one of the greatest factors in keeping people on the farms of the Island. "It is one of the most popular things that has ever struck this Province," he said. ROAD SIGNS The placing of signs along the roadside which would indicate the best fishing places and bathing beaches was strongly urged by Mr. Saville who noted that tourists were often obliged to make inquiries regarding this matter. He said Kings County had many splendid bathing beaches which were not patronized because of this reason. Mr. Saville expressed satisfaction with the road improvement program of the Government. He noted that last Spring had been very hard on roads and predicted that this year would be equally as bad. He emphasized the importance of road drainage to prevent ice from forming underneath washed out EARLY REPAIRS He also urged the filling of bad spots early in the spring, noting that a large proportion of the hauling for both farmers and fishermen takes place at that time. "We cannot wait until the road dries up completely," he said. "A minimum must be made possible as early as possible." Speaking on education, Mr. Saville said that during his lifetime it seemed there had never been a suited system of education. He felt a good educational system should give a minimum of good knowledge of the English language, history and arithmetic. Above all of these he felt the child should be imbued with the burning love for his native Province. PUPILS' OPINIONS In referring to the Committee on Education, he felt that all aspects of education should be studied. He said that the opinion of the pupil in the school should not be overlooked in this investigation. "Providence has blessed us bountifully in this Province," said Mr. Saville. "If things are not as they should be, the trouble must be in ourselves."
