Interprovincial Trade.

THE National Policy has already given an impetus to Interprovincial Trade; and if the policy be continued the volume of Interprovincial Trade will increase year by year to the mutual profit of all concerned in it.

In coal and flour there has been already a successful and profitable interchange. Cape Breton coal has been laid down in Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal and Quebec by means of vessels, which brought to the Maritime Provinces cargoes of Ontario flour and other commodities. We are informed that Messrs. Howland are conducting a profitable trade in bringing coal from the Little Glace Bay Mine to Toronto, and shipping flour as return freight. Sailing vessels have been thus far engaged in the trade, the freight to Halifax being forty cents as against sixty or sixty-five cents by Grand Trunk railway. Among the schooners which have brought, or are bringing Nova Scotia coal to this port, are the Herbert Dudley, Cavalier, Foster, Erie, and Elgin. That a successful trade has been established is no longer matter for speculation, and indeed the profits aggregate from $1,000 to $1,500 per cargo. The development of the trade will enable the Ontario people to obtain Cape Breton coal at still lower rates.

This information is borne out by the following letter recently published in the Toronto Globe:—

(To the Editor of the Globe.)

SIR,—As the representative of the "Glace Bay Coal Company," I beg you to publish the following, contradicting statements in your editorial entitled "Complete Failure of the Coal Tax," of yesterday's issue.

The Dudley's cargo was placed in this market as cheap as the cheapest quality of American bituminous coal, and at a good profit.

No American coal equal to it can be purchased in Toronto for less than $4.90 and $5 per ton.

Capt. Parsons has offered to re-charter his vessel for less than former terms, but his offer was refused.

Thanking you,
I am, yours, &c.

JOHN LITHGOW.

Toronto, July 25, 1879.

It is noteworthy that, though this profitable and beneficial trade—beneficial to Ontario and beneficial to the Maritime Provinces—has resulted from the imposition of a duty of fifty cents per ton on coal, coal was never before so cheap in Prince Edward Island as it is now! The prophetic sage of the Patriot prophesied falsely.

Rumors Without Foundation.

IMAGINATIVE INDIVIDUALS, in the cool shades of opposition, have been reporting contemplated changes in the personnel of the Dominion Cabinet. There is no tangible ground whatever for such a report. The rapid and wonderful changes which took place in the McKenzie Cabinet are not likely to prove a precedent for Sir John A. McDonald. The Toronto Mail—a good authority on the point—says:—

"We are strongly of opinion that Sir John will continue to be Premier and Minister of the Interior for some time to come. We are equally confident that Sir Charles Tupper will remain Minister of Railways till he has succeeded in proving to the country that his reforms were real and his plans well founded. We are strongly of opinion that Sir Leonard Tilley will remain Minister of Finance long enough to render Sir Richard Cartwright unhappy by a series of surpluses and the success of the National Policy, and that the Government, having committed itself to a great policy, will hardly change its composition seriously till that policy has been in as great a measure as possible fulfilled to the gratification and applause of the country. We are of opinion that the Minister of Justice will retain his portfolio long enough to appear tedious to the Grit inconstants. It is said that the Chief Justice of Nova Scotia is to 'superannuate.' It may reassure our Grit friends to know that there is no power to superannuate the Chief Justice of Nova Scotia, who is of a disposition to cling to work in which he takes great delight, and for which he is so eminently fitted. In conclusion, we may observe that in our opinion the very last thing on the cards is a change in the Ministry at present, and our Grit contemporaries will find it pure waste of space to discuss the matter."

The Japanese are now making kerosene from petroleum wells of their own, but they have not yet discovered its usefulness in kindling the kitchen fire.

The Vice-Regal Visit.

PREPARATIONS IN ST. JOHN.

THE St. John Telegraph says:—

"As the date of the arrival of our distinguished visitors draws near, preparations are quickened and we begin to see what is likely to be accomplished. A new feature, occasionally mooted, was decided upon yesterday, namely, a torchlight procession, to be got up by the City and Portland. This, of course, will come off on the night of the 6th of August, which will, we should think, be that of the illumination by request of the Mayor. A torchlight procession, when well managed, always proves an effective and imposing demonstration. While Drawing Rooms are for the few, torchlight processions and fireworks are for the many.

"As the Press of other cities, as well as our own, will be represented at the public appearances that will take place, it has been arranged that a committee consisting of the Mayor, Mr. Willis and Mr. Elder, will take such steps as may be necessary to secure the entree and proper accommodation of the Press.

"It would seem that the arches which, at first, for economic reasons, were hardly contemplated, are growing in favor, and that we are likely to have quite a number. Carleton seems determined on an arch; Portland is of the same mind; the merchants of Dock and Charlotte streets are followed by those of King street in aiming at the same kind of festival demonstration—possibly the entrance to South Market street may be graced in the same way. The tendencies are in that direction at present. Then there will be an arch at the freight station, if no change is made in the plans, and decorations of some kind at the New Brunswick Cotton Mills.

"Candles will be a great deal used in illumination. A water street merchant disposed of his entire stock of that article, which is now controlled, as well as other material suitable for the purpose, by a Charlotte street dealer. Chinese lanterns will be used in stores. In many private dwellings it is believed gas will be used, and the blinds drawn up so as to give the dwellings a festal appearance."

PREPARATIONS IN CHARLOTTETOWN

THE local Government have appointed the following gentlemen a committee to prepare a reception to the Marquis of Lorne and Princess Louise:—Hon. Messrs. Sullivan, Ferguson, McLeod, DeBlois, A. A. McDonald, and Messrs. Yeo, Farquharson, Wm. McGill, William Murphy, R. R. FitzGerald, and Donald McKinnon. We are informed that neither balls nor banquets will take place on the occasion of the vice-regal visit. The committee will meet this evening at three o'clock to arrange preliminaries.

It is suggested that Her Royal Highness be asked to formally open the Asylum for Insane which is now nearly completed. The suggestion is worthy of consideration. The Princess would, doubtless, be gratified to have her name coupled with this charitable work of ours.

The public buildings, including Government House, are being painted and put in order.

A Brave Girl.

AN INTERESTING CEREMONY.

Miss Johanna Smith lived as a servant girl with Mr. McDonald, Bedeque Point, and was industrious and saving. A fine looking young fellow named William James McDougall was also hired, and in course of time managed to gain Miss Smith's affections, and then deserted her, and at a tea party took up with another girl. Miss Smith applied to a lawyer for redress, and McDougall was arrested under a bailable writ, for damages and breach of promise, and lodged in Summerside Jail, and a stop, for the time, put to his courting, and the blissful enjoyment of having a stroll at moonlight with his girl of the tea party. But although Miss Smith had her heartless lover caged, she did not feel happy, and passed sleepless nights thinking about his hard fate, about all those handsome and manly attractions of his that had found a lodgment in her heart, and about her own forlorn condition, and to the jail she went to see him. Through the wicket they talk, and inside the prison doors he promises that, if she sets him free, he will marry her. Neither of them has the two dollars required for the license, but some generous friends go round with the hat and the money is gathered in, and a generous Justice of the Peace consents to perform the ceremony free gratis, and inside the jail all is bustle as the fellow-prisoners of McDougall help to rig him out, and to polish him off fit for the great occasion. But now comes a cruel disappointment and delay—the lawyer must have $12 for his costs. The heart of the girl is like to break, and inside the jail all is quite and sadness; but love laughs at bolts and bars of iron, and she whispers through the wicket: "I've got a little cow, and I'll sell her to get you out."

The cow was twelve miles away, and none will ever know the toils and hardships that dear girl endured in driving the cow through the woods and swamps, before she got her sold and the lawyer satisfied. Last week once more all was right, but not yet, the Sheriff wanted $1.75. Fancy the anguish of the young girl, she had no other cow, had now nothing left in the world, and a silent prayer went up, and the heart of a stranger was touched and the Sheriff paid, McDougall set free.

A large gathering of the people of Summerside, with several of the leading barristers of the Province, were now met in the Court Room. The bride, beautifully arrayed, and leading the bridegroom by the hand, to their places, and the Justice, having on a lawyer's gown, ascended the desk, with the book of common prayer, and the Westminster Confession of Faith. The License was then read by one of the Barristers, and the marriage ceremony duly performed by the Justice, when the company separated, the brave girl and the husband that she had caught and conquered, receiving many congratulations.—Journal.

The Letellier Dismissal.

OPINIONS OF THE QUEBEC PRESS.

[Le Canadien.]

M. Letellier is dismissed. Chastisement has waited long, but, by the force of things, it has at length overtaken the guilty. Law and justice have been trodden under foot. They are now avenged.

[Le Nouveau Monde.]

This act avenges the violated constitution, and saves the autonomy of the Province. It signifies that the Lieut.-Governor ought to hold impartially the balance of power. As between the rival parties which divide in the Legislature, he ought to avoid partizanship, and submit their quarrels to the arbitration of the popular will.

[Courrier de Montreal.]

At length this important question has been settled to the satisfaction of those who believe in responsible government. We rejoice at it, not because we see in it the chastisement of the author of the coup d'etat but because we are happy to find that responsible government is more than an idle expression in this province.

Now that the rights of the people are triumphant, the friends of the Lieut. Governor, those whose interest it is to uphold the coup d'etat, throw fuel on the flames. The loyal subjects of yesterday represent authority as a Moloch at whose feet the most sacred rights are sacrificed, and demand annexation, because they are no longer permitted to tyrannize in their own manner.

[La Patrie.]

There is no room for doubt the commission of the Hon. Luc Letellier de St. Just as Lieut.-Governor of the Province of Quebec, has been cancelled by the Federal Governor-General. The Governor-General thought otherwise than we supposed, and he, we believe, under the difficult circumstances was obliged to follow the advice of his Ministers. We submit to the dismissal. He has no doubt considered that it would not be a wise policy to have another general election in the present state of affairs, and has therefore conformed to the desire of those whom the popular voice has called to form his administration.

The Irish University Bill.

By the passing of the Irish University Bill, a troublesome question has been removed from the arena of British politics. Queen's University will be replaced by the Irish University, which will consist of a chancellor and a senate of sixty-six, who are empowered to hold examinations and grant degrees to properly qualified students without regard to their religious belief. Up to this time, neither Dublin nor Queen's University has been allowed to grant degrees to non-residents, and no Catholic student was permitted to become a college resident. Although the measure has not met the entire approval of the Irish members, it will remove the anomaly of having two well equipped universities in Ireland at which Catholics, although comprising three-fourths of the population, were unable to obtain degrees.

HORSE MACKEREL AT MIMINGASH.—Last week the crew of one of the boats owned by John A. Matheson, were greatly annoyed when fishing mackerel, by a large horse mackerel. As soon as they would get their fish near the top of the water, this monster would bound past the boat, taking fish, jigs, and part of the lines in one scoop. After a time they bated a cod hook, and succeeded in hooking him. This honor fell to Mr. John Wedge—Yankee Jack. They then paid out line until they were able to weigh their anchor. This horse mackerel started for the south at about the rate of 17 miles per hour, taking the boat in tow. The day being calm the crews of the other boats on the ground, could not account for the speed at which their friends were going. Every one had a theory of their own, accounting for the phenomenon as best they could. Some said "Angels," some "Devils." After towing the boat about three miles he became exhausted, when the boat's crew succeeded in towing him ashore. This fish measured 9 feet 9 inches in length, and its girth was 6 feet 5 inches. When packed he filled a puncheon. This, we believe, is the first horse mackerel ever caught at Mimingash.—S. J. Journal.

THE Wesleyan Methodist Conference of England is now in session. The President is Rev. James H. Rigg, D. D. The secretary is Rev. M. C. Osborn. The Conference represents 2,132 ministers, 14,600 local preachers, and 400,826 members. It has 6,476 chapels. It maintains a fine college at Richmond, with 14 professors, 4 tutors, and 2 training institutions at Westminster and another at Battersea. A fraternal greeting from American Wesleyans was presented at the Conference, and was affectionately answered. A resolution condemning the practice of raising money for Church purposes by bazaars and raffles was adopted by the Conference.

DANIEL ENMAN, Esq., an old and highly respected resident of this town, left here on Tuesday morning for the United States, which country he intends making his home. Mr. Enman for many years carried on a mercantile trade in this town, but owing to the hard times and adverse circumstances, he closed up his business a few months ago. He was a gentleman of sterling integrity, and was greatly esteemed by all who knew him. The town has lost, in Mr. Enman, a good citizen. We sincerely hope that wherever his lot may be cast in the future, he will meet with success.—S. Journal.

LAWLESSNESS IN NOVA SCOTIA.—A correspondent of the Moncton Times writes concerning the frequency of acts of theft and violence in various parts of Nova Scotia. Depredations by tramps are especially common, and numerous small stores and dwellings in different parts of the province, especially in the eastern end, have been burglarized. One day this week a tramp made off with a passenger's baggage from Hopewell Station, Pictou Co., in broad daylight. The scoundrel was followed and captured by Mr. McLeod, a railway official, and safely landed in the New Glasgow jail.

Civic Matters.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

SIR,—In a late issue of your paper you express the wish that a cordial welcome be accorded to His Excellency the Marquis of Lorne and the Princess Louise. As far as the welcome extends, all citizens are in unison with the sentiment; but, if this welcome is to be made the excuse for the waste of one or more thousand dollars of citizens' taxes, I, for one, must protest. To his credit, be it spoken, the Governor General requested the citizens of St. John not to indulge in any considerable expenditure to do him honor, and, if St. John can't afford to waste, it is well known we can't, in view of the fact that we have a funded debt of about nine dollars a head for every man, woman and child in the city limits, that our drainage and sewers will require a large outlay in the immediate future, that our water supply is entirely inadequate, that our sidewalks require a large annual outlay, that our streets sadly require repairs, and last but not least, that, owing to the poverty of many taxpayers, a large amount of the present and past year's assessment will have to be remitted. Under these circumstances, our city rulers will do well to be economical.

Yours, truly,

H. COOMBS.

The Meat Fizzle.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

SIR,—The letter of Mr. Bridges, published in your issue of yesterday, leaves out of sight an important fact. Mr. Bridges has not the honesty to state that it was when the complaint was first made that he called upon me. Nor does he state that the meat I said I was satisfied with was that furnished for my own table. Moreover he misrepresents what I said about the meat furnished the inmates of the Poor House, doubtless it is so long ago that Mr. Bridges has forgotten. But I distinctly told Mr. Bridges at that time that the inmates had made complaints about the meat furnished by him, and I may further state that I complained to Mr. Bridges' man and requested him to tell his master, and that was after my interview with Mr. Bridges. With regard to my receiving any reproof from Rev. G. W. Hodgson, it is quite untrue.

I am sir, yours &c.,

JOHN ALLEN.
