ANXIOUS FOR A QUARREL

The United States Looking for Trouble.

Expressions That are Tantamount to a Declaration of War.

LONDON, July 22. The impression that the people of the United States are determined to pick a quarrel with somebody is gaining ground quite rapidly in Europe, especially within the last few days. It is represented that the whole policy of the United States is one of most hostile aggression. Recent episodes with Spain, Japan and England, and the general plan of the tariff bill of course furnish points on which this indictment is based. The point which counts most seriously, however, especially on the continent, is a mere matter of form. The use of plain language by Secretary of State Sherman instead of the circumlocution of diplomacy has beyond question given Europe the impression that the government of the United States is seeking a breach of the friendly relations. Everybody on this side and probably everybody in the United States understands that the same expressions between European chancellors would be accepted as tantamount to a declaration of war.

The Fast Atlantic Service.

MONTREAL, July 22.—The Star's London cable says: Though the admiralty officials refuse all information it is understood that they regard as unwarranted the statement made in the Canadian Parliament that they had approved of the turret style of vessels for the Canadian Fast Atlantic Line. They are only concerned with the fitness of vessels as armed cruisers. The responsibility for the general fitness rests with the Canadian Government. The tenders of the Petersons' call for both kinds, ordinary and turret.

MESSAGE TO MEN

Proving that True Honesty and True Philanthropy by Still Exist

If any man who is weak, nervous and debilitated, or who is suffering from any of the various troubles resulting from youthful folly, excesses or overwork, will take heart and write to me, I will send him confidentially and free of charge the plan pursued by which I was completely restored to perfect health and manhood, after years of suffering from Nervous Debility, loss of Vigor and Organic Weakness. I have nothing to sell, and therefore want no money, but as I know through my own experience how to sympathize with such sufferers, I am glad to be able to assist any fellow-beings to a cure. I am well aware of the prevalence of quackery, for I myself was deceived and imposed upon until I nearly lost faith in mankind but I rejoice to say that I am now perfectly well and happy once more and am desirous therefore to make this certain means of cure known to all. If you will write to me you can rely upon being cured and the proud satisfaction of having been of great service to one in need will be sufficient reward for my trouble. Absolute secrecy assured. Send 5c silver to cover postage and address Mr. G. Strong, North Rockwood, Mich. 135 p&w.

Before the Master of the Rolls.

Archibald J. Macdonald and another, Complainants, and John D. Steele and others, Defendants.

Whereas by an order made in this cause by the Court of Chancery on the 8th day of July, A. D., 1897, it was referred to me to take an account of what personal property Alexander Steele, late of Gasperaux, in King's County in said Island, and Mary Steele, late of the same place, or either of them died; seized and possessed of, and also what debts by way of specialty and simple contract are owing by the estates of the said late Alexander Steele and of Mary Steele or of either of them. Now, I do, in pursuance of said order give public notice that I do hereby fix Saturday the thirty-first day of July, inst., A. D., 1897, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon at my office in Charlottetown, in said Island, as the time and place for all persons having claims by way of specialty or simple contract against the estates of the late Alexander Steele and Mary Steele to come in before me and prove the same and any person neglecting to come in and prove his or her debt, claim or demand before me at such time will be excluded from the benefit of such order.

Dated at Charlottetown this 8th day of July, A. D., 1897. WALTER A. O. MORSON, Master in Chancery.

ON THE UPPER NILE.

Regions Recently Visited by White Men For the First Time.

At a recent meeting of the Royal Geographical Society an interesting paper was read by Lieutenant Vandeleur, embodying the result of explorations during the last two years in the region of the upper Nile, in Uganda and Unyoro and adjacent regions not hitherto visited by white men. Incidentally his paper reveals the activity of the English in this part of their African sphere and the need of the railway from the seacoast to Lake Victoria, for which an appropriation was recently made. Leaving Mombassa, on the coast, on Sept. 7, 1894, Lieutenant Vandeleur did not reach Lake Victoria till the end of November, the journey to Uganda thus taking three months, or six months for the round trip. Toward the beginning of 1895 he proceeded from Uganda with an armed force to descend the Nile and reached Dufle, being the first white man to revisit that place after its abandonment in November, 1888, on the approach of the Mahdists. What was done at Dufle is not stated, but it may be assumed that his visit had a military object in view—possibly its occupation by a British garrison—and that point on the Nile is probably now held by forces sent from Uganda.

During 1895 the whole of northern Unyoro, toward the Nile, was surveyed, including the course of the Victoria Nile from Lake Ibrahim to the Murchison falls and part of the Lango or Wakedi country. Mount Fumbi, in Unyoro, was found to be 6,640 feet above the sea and some 800 feet above the adjacent country, which is held by means of Fort Masindi. The valleys are fertile, producing great quantities of Indian corn, tobacco, bananas, castor oil, etc. The Wakedis were found to be an interesting people, living in conical huts in independent communities. Part of the lieutenant's task was to lead an expedition sent to attack Arab slavers in southern Unyoro, with the result of liberating many captives. The Misisi river was reached, and near that stream was found another British fort, 4,582 feet above sea level.

The climate in these uplands is described as "fairly good," being drier than that of Uganda. In July, the coolest month, the minimum temperature was 49 degrees, the usual night temperature being 60 degrees. The highest registered temperature was 80 degrees. Peace, enforced by the English, has led to great improvement of the economic condition of the people, who have settled down to agriculture and roadmaking. The cessation of war has resulted in a rapid increase of the population. In Uganda industry is becoming more common, and the people are beginning to carry goods and "perform a certain amount of work." Many have been taught to read and write. A port has been established on Lake Victoria and a silver currency introduced. As the people become more civilized and their wants increase, there will be, it is believed, an increased demand for foreign goods.

Of special interest from the point of view of intending colonists is the Nandi country, also visited by Lieutenant Vandeleur. This region lies at an average height of 6,000 feet above the sea and has a climate well suited to Europeans. The thermometer here rarely rises above 60 degrees, and the nights are cold. There is abundance of grass for cattle, and for the most part the soil is very fertile. Timber is to be had in great plenty, a circumstance which will have great importance for steamers on Lake Victoria and for the railway when completed to the coast. The lecturer mentions the curious fact that the language of Zanzibar is becoming the medium of communication between the various people in all this part of Africa.—Baltimore Sun.

The Queen on English Chessboards.

Some old time chess players who strolled into the judiciary committee room during the recent cable match, where the games were reproduced, were puzzled to see that on every board the king stood where the queen ought to stand and vice versa. This was readily explained, however, by the statement that this had been done for many years by British players in honor of Queen Victoria, the piece bearing the crown now representing the queen instead of the king, as in the days when the royal game had its origin. This has been done in England, it is said, ever since the time of Henry Stanton, a famous chess player, who first changed the pieces out of compliment to the then young and beautiful Queen Victoria. However, while the pieces have thus been changed, the play has not. The crowned head representing the queen does not stay at home near her castles for self protection, but skims with rapid movements the whole field of war, just as kings were wont to do, while the quondam queen, now the king, trembles as of old at the constantly threatening danger of checkmate.—Washington Post.
