THE QUEEN

'Confederation' Enters Service

The MV Confederation was surprisingly put into regular service Saturday on the Borden to Cape Tormentine run the CNR despatcher reported in Charlottetown.

The announcement came as some surprise, as only Friday night a CNR spokesman said in Moncton that the Confederation would be carrying out familiarization trips "for several days" before she would see regular service. She made one trial run Friday.

The new $3,000,000 ferry, plagued with troubles since her launching in September, 1961, made her first trial run Friday after a delay of two weeks, caused by rudder damage suffered on her first trial trip out of Borden two weeks ago Saturday.

53 MINUTES OUT

On Saturday, the speedy ferry left Tormentine at 7 a.m. and made the trip to Borden in 53 minutes. She is working opposite the SS Prince Edward Island. The Scotia II is also seeing service, the CNR spokesman said, but will be relegated to the carrying of freight. There is no backlog of freight either at Borden or Tormentine now, he said.

The Confederation and P.E.I. will be making 10 round trips daily, and when the MV Abegweit returns from her annual refit in Halifax June 1, the CNR expects to set an all-time record for daily crossings on the summer schedule.

Last year three ferries, the Abegweit, P.E.I. and Scotia II made 28 round trips daily.
