Stevenson's Last Poem.
(Written in Samoa)

Blows the wind to-day, and the sun and rain are flying.
Blows the wind on the moors to-day and now,
Where about the graves of the martyrs the whaups are crying,
My heart remembered how!

Gray, recumbent tombs of the dead in desert places,
Standing stonies on the vacant wine-red moor,
Hills of sheep, and the homes of the silent, vanished races
And winds austere and pure.

Be it granted me to behold you again in dying,
Hills of home! and to hear again the call;
Hear about the graves of the martyrs the pewees crying,
And hear no more at all!

Self-Mastery.

Self-mastery is one of the keystones of worldly happiness, but it is not every human hand that can touch it at will and awaken thereby the desired responsive chords. For instance, it is not an easy task for the shoulders everlastingly burdened with trials or sorrows to mentally rise up under them and become possessed with the idea of a temporary freedom therefrom. Yet there are some people who can and will, by dint of prayerful perseverance in the potent art of self-mastery, always hide and bear their trials under the mask of contentment. They however, are mainly of the limited class that borrow neither griefs from the past nor hopes from the future, so far as things terrestrial are concerned. They live on from day to day, submissive to the will of Providence, subduing every qualm of discontentment that may arise by striving to heroically adapt themselves to their surroundings, and to all illumine by faith the solacing light of hope, even when overshadowed by the densest clouds of mundane sorrows.—Annie M. Toohy.

Being Suspicious.

Being very suspicious of the motives and integrity of others is a sin indulged by many. Even among professed Christians much of it is to be seen. If a brother utters a word or performs an act that does not accord with the views of another, immediately his motive is called in question. "He is a time-server," or "He belongs to a ring," or "He is looking out for self." How directly is such a suspicious spirit at variance with that "charity which covereth a multitude of sins." How terribly the one given to being thus suspicious, violates the command "Judge not." How such a one does compel others to conclude that he himself is exactly the kind of a man he accuses others of being.—Ex.

Did you ever attend the funeral of an ordinary friend or even an acquaintance, not to mention those bound to you by closer ties, without more or less regretfully feeling how much kinder, gentler, more generous, more forbearing, more christianlike you might have been towards him. There were so many helpful and encouraging words you might have said that you left unsaid, so many little acts of kindness you might have done which now alas must for ever remain undone. On the other hand how much you have said and done that a thousand times better had been left unsaid and undone. We experience this at the funerals even of our ordinary acquaintances. But how incomparably more so are those of our "nearest and dearest."—Church Work.

Dr. Arnold, of Rugby, taught us that in this wonderful world no boy or man can tell which of his actions is indifferent and which is not; that life is a whole, made up of actions and thoughts and longings, great and small, noble and ignoble; therefore the only true wisdom for a boy or man is to bring his whole life into obedience to Him whose world we live in; and that whether we eat or drink, or whatever we do, we are to do all in His name and to his glory.—Thomas Hughes.

DISEASED KIDNEYS

Are Rebuilt and Restored by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

No Kidney Diseases are Found Where Dodd's Kidney Pills are Used—New Brunswick Testimony—Cure of a Prominent Public Man.

Ottabog, N. B., May 12.—Some little time ago, a report appeared in an Ontario newspaper, stating that Kidney Diseases, (including Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Dropsy, Rheumatism, Gout, Lumbago, Urinary and Bladder Trouble, Diseases of Women, and all Blood Impurities) were decreasing rapidly, in all sections in which Dodd's Kidney Pills were used.

This statement was read by thousands of our people, and by some (who did not know the magical virtue of Dodd's Kidney Pills) it was doubted. The discussion grew warm, and it was decided to investigate, in some locality here, where the pills are in general use, to ascertain whether or not, similar results attended their use in this part of Canada.

A committee appointed to hear evidence concerning the point in dispute, got together a list of names of persons who had been afflicted with Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Dropsy, or other forms of Kidney Disease. These people were questioned and they all testified that they had been cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills. One gentleman answering a question as to whether or not he knew anyone who had Kidney Disease, and had not used Dodd's Kidney Pills, said, "I do not. They are all dead."

The evidence of Commissioner G. J. Worden, of Wickham, who was cured of Kidney Diseases, by Dodd's Kidney Pills, after twenty-five years' suffering, carries conviction with it. It cannot be doubted. It is the solemn declaration of one of our most popular public men.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are sold by all druggists at fifty cents a box, six boxes $2.50, or they will be sent, on receipt of price, by the Dodd's Medicine Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

The Afridis were supposed to be cowed by the recent frontier campaign, but they are still carrying on the war in their own peculiar fashion, not in a body, but individually. The relatives of the men killed by the British troops consider they have a blood feud against all white men, and they cross the frontier one at a time to avenge their kindred by the murder of someone wearing the Queen's uniform. As they are not afraid of detection after the deed is done, they are not easily deterred from carrying out their time-honored traditions, and the British regiments near the frontier are not in a very comfortable frame of mind. Recently the outrages have taken place almost every week.

First Symptoms of Heart Disease often appear at the head and feet—parts farthest from the heart.

The heart pumps less strongly—possibly pressed upon by an enlarged stomach—then sluggish blood swells the veins, inflames the feet, liver, kidneys or other parts where there are many veins. Various diseases so arise.

The reasonable cure is provided in Howard's Heart Relief. It removes the cause. It never fails to help—will cure where cure is possible. So says Mrs. Henry Wolz, Hartford, Ont.: "I say a multitude from Vancouver to Halifax who have been cured in the last three months. At druggists or by mail at 50c. per box or 5 boxes for $2.00. S. W. HOWARD, 71 Victoria St., Toronto.

Sometimes they are also agreeable, as the following quotations from a few of our customers show:

Am delighted with our soap.

"Second to none"

I am thoroughly satisfied with the soap received at your factory this day, and beg to thank you for your prompt attention.

And so we might go on AD INFINITUM.

One can very properly divide belts into three classes: Belts of rank or knighthood, which were much in vogue among men from the time of Edward III to the end of the reign of Henry VI. Belts of utility, such as the belts as originally were used by women to preserve the symmetry of their forms, much as the corsets are now used; and fancy girdles, which have purely a decorative purpose. Paton & Co., have 1000 belts, the utility kind, all colors all qualities all prices, call and get a belt. 3 in dy 1 wky.
