Explosion Stamped As Sabotage

LONDON, July 26 - (CP) - Prime Minister Attlee today stamped as sabotage the explosion in Portsmouth harbor 10 days ago of nine ammunition barges loading explosives reported to be for Korea.

A fire in one of the barges set off a blast which injured 19 persons, destroyed a pier and damaged nearby houses and buildings. Attlee told the House of Commons the fire which caused the explosion was set "maliciously." He added:

"Enough is known about the means employed to show that they were based on considerably scientific knowledge and were carefully calculated for their effect. The incident thus constitutes an act of sabotage, though it has not yet been possible to establish by whom it was committed."

Charged With Killing Fishermen

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, July 26 - (CP) - The murder trial of Boyse Singh and four co-defendants, charged with killing four fishermen, who have been missing since May, was resumed in assize court today following a week-end recess.

Anthony Singh, alias Chumkee, meanwhile, was remanded in magistrate's court to stand trial for attempted armed robbery. Anthony is Boyse's son and his arrest closely followed that of his father. A companion will stand trial with him on a charge of trying to rob fisherman John Aquan.

The arrests followed a pirate scare in the Caribbean during May, when several fishing and cargo boats and some 17 persons were missing at one time. Ten of the persons since have turned up safely.

For a time fishermen were afraid to ply their trade because they said modern pirates with fast launches were stopping small craft, looting them, and drowning the crews.

Card Of Thanks

"Fashion Queens" Use Borrowed Togs

JOHANNESBURG, July 26 - (CP) - Johannesburg has a growing clique of "phony fashion queens" - people who appear at parties in chic ultra-fashionable new outfits but who are really decked almost from head to toe in borrowed plumes.

Fashion salons and departmental stores are alarmed at the way women are getting costly hats, gowns and shoes sent to them on approval and returning them a few days later with the excuse that they are not suitable or do not fit.

The shops suspect that some customers have no intention of buying clothes but are making a practice of getting the "loan" of a new outfit for a social engagement by subterfuge and without cost.

The manager of a large departmental store said: "The trouble is that we cannot prove that any of the clothes have been worn when they are returned after having been taken out on approval."

"And, of course, we dare not suggest such a thing to customers in case we offend those who are not guilty."

"Sometimes when we send out a selection of clothes most of the garments come back creased, occasionally soiled and even torn. But customers always claim that they received them in that condition."

The only thing the firm can do, he said, is to cut its deals to the minimum.

The suspected "phony fashion queens" operate by telephoning to say that they are indisposed and want a selection of clothes sent to them. They usually promise to return what is "unsuitable" within a few days.

Rapid Organization Of French Defenses Expected

PARIS, July 26 - (Reuters) - The French Government is prepared to respond rapidly to demands for stepping up the rearmament of the country within the framework of the Atlantic defence pact plans, circles close to Premier Rene Pleven announced. Discussions at the meeting of the Atlantic Pact deputies starting Tuesday in London are expected here to provide decisions on a suitable division of labor between the pact members in their rearmament drive. Immediate plans in France include a reform of the system of mobilization, to meet the conditions of modern warfare including defence-in-depth. This new system "will be realized rapidly," Defence Minister Jules Moch told the assembly last Friday. It will provide not only for the classical type of front-line army but will set up semi-autonomous regional defence areas in the country which can conduct operations on their own should the front-line be pierced by the enemy. Five-year rearmament programs for the air force and navy are shortly to be debated in parliament, but the time limits may be shortened and the production effort intensified in the light of the international situation. It is possible that the second half of the 1960 class of conscripts, due to be called up in November, may be called several months earlier.

More British Aid For U. S. In Korea Discussed

LONDON, July 26 - (Reuters) - Prime Minister Attlee and his cabinet today discussed in special session how Britain can increase concrete aid to the United States in Korea. Final plans will be drawn tomorrow. An even more crucial problem facing the cabinet is how far economic recovery demands must be subordinated to general military preparedness. The immediate task of the ministers is to determine how to carry out Attlee's pledge to do all possible on the Korea issue to match "the high purpose" of the United States as expressed last week by President Truman. Attlee is expected to announce his proposals in parliament's defence debate Wednesday. During the week-end service ministers and departmental experts prepared special reports for the cabinet indicating what they consider Britain, with her heavy commitments in Hong Kong, Malaya and elsewhere, can do. Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin is scheduled to resume charge of the Foreign Office Thursday. He has been holidaying since a recent operation. The cabinet defence committee - on which the chiefs of staff and service ministers sit - is meeting this week to develop further the ideas it has already put forward to the cabinet on Korea and the more general aspects of defence. There was wide speculation that one move might be to extend the draftees' period of service from 16 months to two years. But ministers are said to be hopeful of avoiding what, in view of industrial manpower needs, would be a drastic step. Another question demanding immediate cabinet decision was a reply to the request of Trygve Lie, United Nations Secretary-General, for ground forces for Korea.

IN MEMORIAM MRS. THOMAS TROY The death of Mrs. Thomas Troy, Greenfield, occurred at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Daniel O'Donnell, Avondale, on June 10, 1950. Mrs. Troy had been convalescing at her daughter's home following an accident. Her unexpected death brought great sorrow to her husband and family and to her many friends. Those who knew and loved her will always remember her cheerfulness, generosity, and genuine hospitality. Her happy disposition and pleasant smile will often be recalled. In her death, her husband has lost a devoted helpmate; her children a true and loving mother. The late Mrs. Troy was seventy-two years of age. She was one of a family of eleven, the daughter of Bernard Kearney and Mary Lanigan, Sturgeon. She would have celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of her wedding in July of this year. Besides her husband, four children survive. These are Emma, Mrs. Daniel O'Donnell, Avondale; Florence, Mrs. Frank Hynes, Alberry Plains; Frank, Somerville, Mass.; and Fred, who lives with his father at Greenfield. Two sisters also survive. They are Mrs. Arthur Kenny, Kids; 2. Doris Dears. Leap Frog Relay: 1. Doris Dears; 2. Butterflies; 3. Water Frolics. Potato Relay: 1. Water Frolics; 2. Doris Dears. On Tuesday night there was a special campfire program at which many parents and friends were present.

Card Of Thanks

The family of the late Mrs. Thomas Troy extend sincere thanks and appreciation to kind neighbors and friends who were so helpful in their bereavement, and graciously acknowledge the many Masses, Spiritual Bouquets, and Messages of Sympathy received.

In Memoriam

MRS. G. H. HOLBROOK Friends were grieved to learn of the passing away of Mrs. G. H. Holbrook, July 17th, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Wilfred P. Taylor, Kensington, where she suffered a fractured hip, sustained in a fall, from which she never recovered.

Mrs. Holbrook was formerly Emma May Wright, daughter of the late W. G. Wright, Charlottetown, and Sarah Dennis, of Devonshire, England.

She was a lady of exceptionally fine character, a lovable disposition and a lover of home life. She had many friends and it was always said of her, that she had no ill to say of anyone, and she was loved and respected accordingly.

She was a life-long member of the Methodist Church, now Trinity United Church; a life member of the Woman's Missionary Society, and was active in any work for the welfare and uplift of the community.

There are left to cherish her memory two daughters, Winnifred, Mrs. (Dr.) J. Y. MacFadyen, Charlottetown; Beatrice, Mrs. Wilfred Taylor, Kensington; one son, Harold S. of Toronto, and one brother, Louis C. Wright of Charlottetown.

The sincere sympathy of the community goes out to the family in their bereavement.
