

in that time. The United States have clearly obtained the supply of many of the articles formerly obtained from this country.

The Queen and her illustrious consort have honoured the University of Cambridge with a short visit.

Downing Street, 3d Aug., 1843. Sir—Having on my assumption of the seals of this Department, found in my office a Report drawn up by the Commissioners appointed by the late Lord Sydenham, to enquire into the system on which the Post Office in British North America was conducted;

At a Meeting of the Governors of the Academy, held on Friday se'night, Mr. Alex. Brown, one of the late Masters, was, we are glad to learn, provisionally appointed to the Second Mastership in that institution, in the room of Mr. Frederic Gore, who has accepted the Mastership of a Grammar School in Upper Canada.

It always affords us pleasure to record any instance of liberality on the part of the Proprietors, to meet the desires of the deserving and industrious tenant. We are informed that David Stewart, Esq., of London, has given his Agents here instructions and power to remit to such tenants as they may think deserving of such favour, all back rents up to November, 1840.

FATTENING CATTLE.—The following judicious remarks on this important subject we recommend to the attentive perusal of our Agricultural readers:—

WINTER STALL FEEDING is the only profitable mode of fattening cattle for the shambles in winter. Were they suffered to roam in the yard and field, exposed to the wet and cold, it is very evident they could take on flesh but slowly, and but ill compensate the owner for the expense of high keeping.

As to the relative advantages in the economy of feed, of having fattened cattle tied up, we have the declaration of Mr. Ellman, well known as a distinguished herdsman, "that nine oxen, fed loose in a yard, have, by eating as well as destroying, consumed as much as 12 when tied up."

"The first point is the comfort or accommodation; for in whatever way they may be placed, whether under sheds or in close ox-houses, they should have the security of perfect shelter from the weather, with a certain degree of warmth; that is to say—if in open trammels, the sheds should be broad, the roof low, and the floor covered with an abundance of dry litter.

"The next is strict regularity in the administration of food—both as regards the stated quantity and the time of supplying it. The periods may be afterwards altered. The ox is a quiet animal, and those which are fed in the house soon acquire a precise knowledge of the exact hour at which it is usually given: if that be transgressed, or the customary quantity be not furnished, they become restless; but if the time and quantity be strictly adhered to, they remain tranquil until the next period arrives.

"Some persons serve it out as often as five times in a day; but the most prudent, and, we think, the better practice, is to give it as soon as possible after daylight, at noon, and sometime before sun-set; which enables the animals to fill their bellies, and to have time sufficient for that quiet digestion which is interrupted by too frequent feeding.

"The last is thorough cleanliness. The ox-house should be opened before day light and well cleaned by pail and broom, from every impurity.—After the animals have been satisfied with food, whatever may remain should be immediately removed, and the cribs and mangers should be carefully swept out, and washed if necessary; water should then be given without limitation."

As to the food, we will add, that fattening animals should have in winter, grain, or roots, or oil-cake. Beef cannot be made on hay alone. In Great Britain, where they boast of their beef, turnips are generally employed; in the United States, the coarse grains are mostly used. As our turnip-culture progresses, and progress we are confident it will, we shall be able to make cheaper, if not better beef.

It will be seen, on referring to our first page, that Capt. Swabey has published a disclaimer of the imputation upon his conduct, made by Mr. Maclean, in his address to the Court on the Libel case on the 2d inst. It is due also to Mr. Hutchinson, the Jailor, to state, that being in Court when the remarks with reference to himself were made, he made a public and positive denial of the truth of the assertion; and took the first opportunity after the court rose, to demand of Mr. Maclean the name of the author of the aspersion.

GRATITUDE OF A NEGRO KING.—The captain of a Portuguese schooner was lately captured on the coast, and taken before an Ashantee chief, as one who had aided in kidnapping one of the chief's wives, a beautiful white African girl, from the mountains. The captain acknowledged his guilt, but desired the chief to examine a signet-ring, which he (the captain) wore. It was inscribed with these words, "In remembrance of 'Holloway's Ointment and Pills.'" It appears, that two years before, the chief had been afflicted with bad legs, and that the captain had sent him a few pots of the Ointment, and half a dozen boxes of "Holloway's Pills," and that the alternative and tonic qualities of the latter, as a powerful auxiliary to the former matchless ointment, had completely restored him.

PERSONAL ORNAMENT.—A highly-interesting work might be composed on the various and dissimilar modes of Personal Embellishment practised among different nations, and the chapter devoted to the Teeth could not prove one of the most attractive in the volume. Among many savage nations, the practice is well known to prevail of dyeing the teeth black, which is esteemed a high degree of ornament; while, on the contrary, our Fair Beauties, relying on nature for their attractions, seek only to preserve the charms which she has so richly bestowed on them, and endeavour simply to preserve the white and pearly character of the Teeth. Among the various means suggested for this object, we would select the celebrated "ODONTO," prepared by Messrs ROWLAND, of London, as the most admirable and perfect Dentifrice yet submitted to the Public.—See Advertisement.

THE BRITISH AND FOREIGN REVIEW. THIS Periodical has existed for nearly Eight Years, during which time it has maintained a leading character among the English Quarterly publications for independence, a high and enlightened tone of criticism, and a consistent advocacy of liberal principles, unfettered by mere party interests. In carrying out these views, the BRITISH AND FOREIGN REVIEW has devoted a large share of attention to promulgate and enforce such a liberal system of policy as would tend to draw the interests of England and her Colonies into still closer connexion, and thus promote their mutual interests. All the great questions of importance, both in Great Britain and abroad, are treated of in a consistent spirit of liberality and justice, maintaining the position that all good government must be founded upon these principles. The literature of England, of Europe generally, and of America, has a full share of attention paid to its review, and subjects of the greatest interest in all departments are carefully selected for notice in the pages of this Work. MOFFAT'S VEGETABLE LIFE PILLS AND PHENIX BITTERS. THESE superlative Family Medicines have long since acquired an established reputation for direct and invariable efficacy in all the prevalent and ordinary diseases, as well as in many others of a peculiar and aggravated character. Their virtues are proved by the voluntary testimonials of the persons they have cured, and who accompany their certificates with their names and places of residence. These certificates now amount to thousands, being hundreds to each particular kind of disease. They embrace the most frightful and inveterate cases of Scrofula, Piles, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Bilious and Liver affections, acute and chronic Rheumatism, Asthma, Bronchitis, Scrofula as well as Mucous Consumption, habitual Costiveness, Worms, Stomach and Bowel complaints of all kinds, headache, giddiness and nervous debility, eruptive diseases, and the clouded, sallow, unhealthy appearance of the skin, arising from various causes of ill health, Fever and Ague of every variety, settled pains in the side, back, organs and limbs, humors, ulcers, foul breath and inward fever, night sweats, and general weakness and loss of appetite, the mumps, swollen face and gums, affections of the bladder, kidney, spleen and pleura, and the sickness incidental to females, together with very many other maladies which cannot be here enumerated. The certificates of cure in all these diseases are immense in number, and clear, direct and explicit in description, and coming as they do, in every case, from the persons cured, they are indisputable and conclusive in authority. They are singularly mild and agreeable in their operation, and though perfectly efficacious, never occasion even the temporary prostration and nausea which always follow the use of coarse drastic purges, and the use of emolument.
