Gov't Urged To Overhaul Unemployment Insurance Act

OTTAWA (CP) — Two members of the CCF-New Democratic Party group here urged the government to overhaul the Unemployment Insurance Act which, they contended, was designed for a full-employment society.

"The original purpose is no longer adequate," said Murdo Martin (CCF—Timmins). The fund now was a form of welfare.

The House, in committee, was considering an item in the supplementary estimates to bolster the fund by a loan of $25,000,000.

Walter Pitman (NDP—Peterborough), said that whenever the Unemployment Insurance Act is discussed the government treats it with "a great sense of urgency . . . but for some reason it can't seem to break through the thought barrier and do something about it."

He said the plan, designed to cope with short-term unemployment and to help workers between jobs, has ceased to be insurance at all. It had to be dealt with as a national social problem.

He knows of workers, he said, who regarded their insurance payment as "a kind of charity."

The House was told by Richard Thrasher, parliamentary assistant to Labor Minister Starr, that the unemployment insurance fund at the end of February contained $104,618,000.

Paul Martin (L—Essex East) said the fund is dwindling because the government can't handle the unemployment problem effectively.

Before the Conservatives took power in 1957, there was $928,000,000 in the fund.

W. Pickersgill (L—Bonavista-Twillingate) said the Conservatives have not placed one single seasonal worker under the Unemployment Insurance Act benefits.

This was contrary to a party pamphlet issued by the Conservatives. Mr. Pickersgill said the writers "are either ignorant or supplying false information—they can take their pick."

H. J. Robichaud (L—Gloucester) said the Liberals fear that the balance in the fund "may not be enough to carry it until the end of May."

Medical Training Views Are Given To Health Probe

OTTAWA (CP) — Do Canadian medical schools place too much emphasis on the training of specialists, at the expense of general practitioners?

The question arose Wednesday when the Hall royal commission on health services heard a brief from the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada, which speaks for the country's 8,500 specialists.

Chief Justice Emmett Hall of Saskatchewan, commission chairman, said Manitoba general practitioners complained at commission hearings in Winnipeg "that the GP is the forgotten man in medical education." He asked for comment from the Royal College.

Dr. Lennox Bell of Winnipeg, the college's immediate past president in medicine, replied that the job of medical schools is to produce "undifferentiated, well-trained young men without bias in any direction."

Chairman Hall asked whether there might not be "some germ of truth" in statements made to the commission Tuesday by an organization representing medical students.

The Canadian Association of Medical Students and interns had suggested that there is so much emphasis on specialities in medical schools that students are oriented "very early" towards them, and to that extent the training of general practitioners was inhibited.

Dr. Malcolm Brown of Kingston, Ont., president of the college, said in answer to commissioner Dr. Arthur van Wart of Fredericton he suspected the students' criticisms would come as a disappointment to their instructors. He insisted that medical instructors provide good courses in both general practice and the specialties.

Parliament Is Given Bill For Deficit From CNR-TCA

OTTAWA (CP) — Parliament has been asked to foot the bill for a CNR deficit of $67,307,772 last year and a record Trans-Canada Air Lines deficit of $6,450,032.

They were among the main items in a total of $122,778,731 in spending appropriations tabled in the Commons by Finance Minister Fleming to wrap up the government's spending program for the fiscal year ending March 31.

The final supplementary estimates bring the total budgetary spending estimates put before Parliament to a record $6,602,425,025 for the year. On top of this is $606,570,000 in old age pension costs—a non-budgetary item which isn't counted in regular outlays.

Government spending in the coming fiscal year appears headed towards a new peak, with $6,276,211,594 in basic budgetary estimates and $736,700,000 in old age pensions already before the Commons. This normally expands during the year with the addition of a few hundred millions in supplementary estimates.

LOSSES HIGHER

The TCA deficit for 1961 was well above the previous peak deficit for the publicly-owned airline of $4,300,000 in 1949, and was about 2½ times higher than the 1960 deficit of $2,607,350.

The CNR's deficit was only a shade—$189,005—below its previous record deficit of $67,496,777 in 1960.

Another big item in Monday's estimates was $23,139,333 to cover the 1961-62 fiscal year costs of agricultural price supports and deficiency payments for a wide range of farm products supported by the agricultural stabilization board.

This was down sharply from the $69,504,548 cost of farm price supports in 1960-61.

The appropriation requests included a variety of items to cover last - minute financial needs of some 20 government departments and agencies.

In the list were such items as $3,300,000 for extra operation and maintenance costs for the navy, an added $2,000,000 in hospital construction grants, and $2,500,000 for civil service salary needs.

Red Leaders In U.S. Facing Court Action

NEW YORK (AP)—The government has filed suit in federal court here against the Communist Party of the United States and four of its principal leaders for $381,544 in income taxes, plus penalties and interest.

The taxes were assessed against the party in 1956 for the tax year 1951. With interest to date, the government's claim exceeds $500,000.

Communist leaders named in the complaint are Gus Hall, 51, general secretary; Benjamin Davis, 58, national secretary; Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, 71, national chairman, and Philip Bart, 59, organizational chairman.

U.S. Attorney Clarence Dunnaville said the Communist Party never has filed any income tax returns. If the government is successful in this action, it may proceed to collect taxes for the years subsequent to 1951, he added.

Benedict Arnold Chair Obtained

OTTAWA (CP)—A chair used by Benedict Arnold, the American general who defected to the British during the American Revolution, has been obtained by the National Museum of Canada, it was announced here.

The chair, originally in Gen. Arnold's household when he lived as a merchant in Saint John, N.B., from 1785-1790, will be among early Canadian furniture on display in the new Canadian Museum of History scheduled to open in 1967.

The bidding:

Opening lead—two of spades.

When to win a trick and when not to is frequently a question of good judgment. The point is that you shouldn't necessarily take a trick, even on defense, merely because the opportunity presents itself.

For example, look at this hand where East refused a trick at the right time to bring about declarer's defeat. East made a light opening bid, overcalled by South with two hearts. West raised spades on thin values and North, showing great respect for his partner's vulnerable overcall, jumped to four hearts.

West led a spade. East took the ace and returned a spade, won by the king. Declarer had only a diamond loser to take care of, outside of trumps, so he decided to ruff a diamond and play for the trumps to be divided favorably, in which case he would make the contract.

Accordingly, he played a diamond to the king, another one to the ace, and then ruffed his last diamond with the jack.

East could have overruffed, of course, but he reasoned that his two trump tricks could never get away from him, and there was the chance, besides, that West might have the eight, nine or ten of hearts, in which event East would acquire an additional trump trick by not overruffing.

So East discarded a club on the third round of diamonds. Declarer now cashed the ace of hearts, West's eight falling, played a club to the ace, and then led the ten of hearts. East won with the queen and exited with a spade, and his K-7 of hearts later took two tricks so that South went down one.

If East had overruffed the jack of hearts, declarer would have made the contract. East would have taken another trump trick later, but no more.

South could have made the hand by a different line of play, but the one he adopted was not unreasonable. Against less sturdy defense, the method of play he chose would have succeeded.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three I's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
