U.P.E.I. DEBATING SOCIETY

One of the objectives of a University education is to develop in students the ability to organize information, to draw conclusions from organized information and to communicate such information and conclusions effectively.

Debating is an excellent means of acquiring such skills and of having fun at the same time. You need not have had previous debating experience; you need not be planning a career in the law or in politics! You need only have an interest in improving your skills in collecting, organizing and presenting information in a disciplined manner.

A U.P.E.I. Debating Society is being formed to bring together students with such interests. Membership in the Society does not require that you be a debater but it does offer you opportunities to speak in public and to debate at the intramural and intermural levels and to compete annually for a prize and trophies donated by the SDU Class of 1954, a class which produced an excellent debating team.
