CAUSE OF ALARM —In yesterday's Guardian, in a report of a call to which the Summerside Fire Department responded at the home of Mr. James MacLean, Schurman Avenue on Wednesday evening, was in error in reporting that the fire originated from live coals left in the basement. The explosion of an oil heater used in heating water was the cause of the alarm. Mr. MacLean, who happened to be working in the basement at the time, was only a few feet away from the heater when it exploded. He received painful burns to the face and arms which required medical attention.—S.
