Knowing How

is as much an element of success in the Wall Paper business as it is in politics. The "knowing how" on the part of the makers to design handsome papers makes it an important industry. Our "knowing how" to procure just the Wall Paper you want, has made this the biggest Wall Paper business in the province. Come in and let us show you that we "know how" to please you.

THE FALL OF PREVESE.

In 1798 the Turks, under command of Ali Pasha, "the tyrant of Janina," captured the Greeks and the French the stronghold which the Greeks are bombarding today. A frightful massacre followed and men, women and children were put to the sword indiscriminately. In one of the stanzas of "Child Harold," Lord Byron speaks of the slaughter in satirical verse:

Remember the moment when Prevesa fell, The shrieks of the conquered, the conquerors' yell; The roofs that were fired and the plunder we shared, The wealthy we slaughtered, the lovely we spared.

I talk not of mercy, I talk not of fear; He neither must know who would serve the Vizier; Since the days of our Prophet the Crescent never saw A chief ever glorious like Ali Pasha.

Dark Monkar his son to the Danube is sped, Let the yellow-haired Giaours view his horse fall with dread. When the Delhis come dashing in blood o'er the banks, How few shall escape from the Moslemite ranks!

Selictar! unsheath, then, our chief's scimitar, Tambour! thy harum gives promise of war. Ye mountains, that see us descend to the shore, Shall view us as victors or view us no more.

THE WARWICK CASE.

SIR,—I was rather amused at reading a paragraph in a recent issue of the Guardian regarding the fact that the Hon. L. H. Davies had, in an "elaborate judgment," reversed the decision of Captain Smith, R. N., exonerating the captain and officers of the steamer Warwick from blame for the loss of that vessel on Grand Manan a few months ago. This "elaborate judgment" of the Minister of Marine found Capt. Kemp and his second officer guilty of culpable negligence, and suspended the Captain's certificate for six months and the second officer's for three months.

Now, sir, it appears to me a rather irregular proceeding for the Minister of Marine to interfere in a decision of this kind, and something almost unheard of that after an official investigation has been held before a competent official, recognized as such by Courts of Admiralty, in so much that in all competent marine trials the assistance of Capt. Smith appears to be almost indispensable, and he is asked to take a seat on the bench and take evidence and give his opinion in such cases, and this high-handed act of our Minister in thus interfering with the rights and duties of capable officials in the performance of their duties is more in line with the conduct of President Kruger, and cannot be too strongly condemned by all right-thinking and justice-loving people; and I trust that Capt. Kemp and his second officer, who have been so unjustly dealt with by an incompetent official, will take their case to the Board of Trade in London, where they will receive British justice unimpeded by political intriguers.

OBSERVER.

FORT AUGUSTUS CHEESE FACTORY.

SIR,—I little thought when I wrote a letter to THE EXAMINER some months ago advising a cheese factory to be erected in Fort Augustus parish, that through inopportune advice given in a critical time when all were unanimous for a factory and had three hundred and twenty cows, and upwards of one thousand one hundred dollars of stock taken in the parish, local jealousy on the part of one or two persons would cause the business to dwindle down to a factory at Duffy's Creek. Magnificent insignificant. The result will be worthy of the means taken to kill the Fort Augustus Cheese Factory.

Respectfully Yours, J. E. LAVERTY.

Fort Augustus, April 24.

A SUGGESTION.

SIR,—In consequence of the number of entertainments, that were being held in this city, on the evening of the lecture on the Tenant League movement, it has been suggested, that Mr. Ross re-deliver the same lecture at an early date in the Market Hall. We have heard several persons express their regret at not being able to attend a lecture containing so many interesting reminiscences of that exciting and important period in the history of P. E. Island.

MUNYON

TALKS ON DYSPEPSIA

How to Cure Yourself

In all kinds of stomach trouble Munyon's Dyspepsia Cure will promptly cure where there are such symptoms as pain or soreness in the stomach, indigestion or distress after eating, pressure and fullness in the stomach, shortness of breath, poor appetite, coated tongue, sour or bitter raising from the stomach, heartburn, wind on the stomach, constipation, dizziness, faintness and lost energy.

When these symptoms are associated with biliousness, yellow coated tongue, nausea, bitter taste in the mouth and sallow skin take Munyon's Liver Cure in alternation with the Dyspepsia Cure, an hour apart. Where there is obstinate constipation keep the bowels open once a day by using Munyon's Constipation Cure until they become regular under the effect of the Dyspepsia Cure. When there are troublesome heart symptoms alternate Munyon's Heart Cure with the Dyspepsia. If there is great nervousness or inability to sleep, alternate Munyon's Nerve Cure with the Dyspepsia Cure. If the blood is poor in quality alternate Munyon's Blood Cure and Dyspepsia Cure. By this plan of treatment one can eradicate the worst forms of stomach troubles and their complications, and make the cure permanent.

A separate specific for each disease. Sold by all druggists, mostly for 25 cents a bottle.

Personal letters to Prof. Munyon, answered with free medical advice for any disease.

JACKSON'S INAUGURATION.

A Mob Followed Him From the Capitol and Invaded the White House.

Mr. Joseph B. Jackson, in his article on "Inauguration Scenes and Incidents" in The Century, says of President Jackson's inauguration:

An eyewitness, who took a somewhat jocose view of the day's events, wrote that the most remarkable feature about Jackson as he marched down the aisle of the senate with a quick, large step, as though he proposed to storm the capitol, was his double pair of spectacles. He habitually wore two pairs, one for reading and the other for seeing at a distance, the pair not in use being placed across the top of his head. On this occasion, says the eyewitness, the pair on his head reflected the light, and some of the rural admirers of the old hero were firmly persuaded that they were two plates of metal let into his head to close up holes made by British bullets. When he appeared on the portico, we are told that the shout which arose rent the air and seemed to shake the very ground. The ceremony ended, the general mounted his horse to proceed to the White House, and the whole crowd followed him.

"The president," says a contemporary writer, "was literally pursued by a motley concourse of people, riding, running helter skelter, striving who should first gain admittance into the executive mansion, where it was understood that refreshments were to be distributed." An abundance of refreshments had been provided, including many barrels of orange punch. As the waiters opened the doors to bring out the punch in pails the crowd rushed upon them, upsetting the pails and breaking the glasses. Inside the house the crush was so great that distribution of refreshments was impossible, and tubs of orange punch were set out in the grounds to entice people from the rooms. Jackson himself was so pressed against the wall of the reception room that he was in danger of injury and was protected by a number of men linking arms and forming a barrier against the crowd. Men with boots heavy with mud stood on the satin covered chairs and sofas in their eagerness to get a view of the hero. Judge Story wrote that the crowd contained all sorts of people, from the highest and most polished down to the most vulgar and gross in the nation. "I never saw such a mixture," he added. "The reign of King Mob seemed triumphant. I was glad to escape from the scene as soon as possible."
