Minister Says Work Only Source Of Social Security

ALGONQUIN PARK, Ont., Sept. 5 (CP)—Health Minister Martin said tonight that when Canadians "think of social security we should always think also of work."

"Work is the only source of social security that we have yet discovered," His statements were contained in a speech prepared for delivery at the annual conference for Manitoba, Ontario and Quebec of the Young Liberal Federation of Canada.

Possibly referring to recent requisition of some provinces and some organizations for a national health insurance plan, Mr. Martin said: "Everyone who asks that Canada's expenditures on social security should be raised beyond present level must realize that each additional unit will be paid for—just as present measures are paid for—out of the efforts of our working force."

"We must not expect magic from governments—that they should distribute more than they receive. In our time, in other countries, revolution and reaction have failed signally to provide for their peoples' welfare; but here in Canada, by trial and error, and by patient democratic process over the years, we have been advancing to a fairer life than we have ever known."

Mr. Martin added: "In our time, in other countries, revolution and reaction have failed signally to provide for their peoples' welfare; but here in Canada, by trial and error, and by patient democratic process over the years, we have been advancing to a fairer life than we have ever known."

Arrangements Made For County Plowing Match

The Queen's County Plowing Match Association are rounding out their programme with a view to making the annual event which takes place on September 17, at Pownall, the best ever attempted in the district.

The contest has been arranged for on the farm of J. Layton Jones and son, which was the birthplace and early home of Premier J. Walter Jones, and is regarded as one of the most modern and well equipped establishments of its kind in the Province.

The plowing match features are to be supplemented by two other attractions, either of which, in itself, would be well worth attending. The Garden Clubs of Mt. Mellick and Pownall are coming to the Experimental Farm, to show of "Achievement Day", while the Alexandria Calf Club will also be holding their Achievement Day, as a contribution to the success of the show.

Prizes will be awarded to winners in both flower and calf contests, in addition to the plowing match victors.

Premier Jones will officially open the contest at 10:30 a.m., followed by Hon. C. C. Baker, Minister of Agriculture and Mr. R. R. Bell, in brief addresses, all three of whom are deeply interested in agriculture and associated activities.

Mr. D. C. Schurman, recently retired assistant to the Superintendent in forage and field crops at the Experimental Farm, has been selected to judge the plowing matches, assisted by Mr. Louis Roper, both of whom have had considerable experience in judging such contests.

The sports programme, which gives promise of being interesting, will be carried out under the direction of Mr. Morris Denison, B.S.A., agricultural representative, Provincial Department of Agriculture. A group of ladies from Cherry Valley will be in charge of the refreshment booths.

Entries for the plowing matches will be closed on September 13th. Mr. Elliott Robertson, President of the Association, assisted by Secretary H. P. Smith, and a strong executive are finalizing the arrangements.

Stormy Annual Convention Closes

HALIFAX, Sept. 5 (CP)—Shaky but intact, the Union of Nova Scotia Municipalities ended its stormy annual convention today with the new president attempting to restore harmony within its ranks.

Mayor P. G. Mulse of New-Waterford cracked a proposed back-room move to abolish the union and have the province's two cities and 40 incorporated towns organize under a separate body. But there was still dissension.

Mayor Owen Hartigan, Sydney Mines, said he felt his town would fare better "going it alone" than sticking with the union. Earlier, he refused to act on the executive council because the nomination committee was named by the chair instead of the floor.

Wharf Project Now Nearing Completion

Long delayed by difficulty in obtaining the necessary steel, the frost-proof shed on the Railway Wharf is now expected to be completed later this month. Work was started last year, but shortage of materials held up proceedings.

Thought to be one of the best of its type in Canada, the new building is expected to provide complete protection against sudden changes in temperature to shippers who have products in storage awaiting shipment. It is constructed on 20-inch square concrete piles driven down to solid rock base and the floor is of reinforced concrete with an insulating concrete top covered with planking two inches thick.

There are no supporting columns in the building which is 50 feet wide by 381 feet long, as the roof is carried on steel trusses. There are no air spaces in the walls which are constructed of speed tile with a stucco facing. The inside finish of the walls has a two inch foam-glass insulation covered with plaster three-quarters of an inch thick. Doors are of the overhead roll-up type, specially insulated, and have glass block windows above. Insulating concrete with an asphalt covering provides the roof.

Special features include electric ventilators, fire-fighting water supply, fluorescent lighting and electrical heating with ceiling suspended blowers.

Conservatives Favor Revision Of Election Act

Going on record as favoring a thorough revision of the Provincial Election Act which would embrace the preparation of a Provincial Voters List on the basis of one vote only for each person, the annual meeting of the Second Queens Progressive Conservative Association passed a formal resolution to that effect.

The largest attended meeting was held Thursday night at Broad-albaine Hall under the chairmanship of President Arthur Stewart, Sea View, who briefly reviewed the work done during the past year. In the absence of the secretary Mr. Angus MacKinnon was appointed to the position.

During the evening brief addresses were given by Messrs. R. R. Bell, M.L.A., Leader of the Opposition, W. Chester S. McClure, M.P., J. Angus MacLean, M.P., Frank Myers, M.L.A., Mrs. Helen Dunbar, president of the Women's Progressive Conservative Association, Philip Matheson, Oyster Bed Bridge, largest grower who spoke on behalf of the Young Progressive Conservatives Association, and Professor Heath MacQuarrie.

In its formal resolutions the association expressed faith in the leadership of the Federal and Provincial parties and approval of the work of the members of Parliament from Queens and that of the representative for Second Queens in the Provincial Legislature.

Urges Equality In College Grants

HALIFAX, Sept. 5 (CP)—A resolution urging more equitable distribution of federal grants to colleges and universities was unanimously adopted today by the Union of Nova Scotia Municipalities.

Nova Scotia received the lowest grants in Canada because, delegates said, the distribution system was based on population instead of the proportion of eligible students.

The province was granted $92.45 per student last year, compared with $126.28 in Ontario, $180.73 in Saskatchewan, and $483.16 in Newfoundland.

"The disparity is all the more unfair when you consider that universities are performing a national service, inasmuch as a student who graduates in Nova Scotia may go to work in another province," said Alderman J. E. Lloyd of Halifax, who introduced the resolution.

Egyptian Cabinet Is Reshuffled

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 5 (AP)—Premier Aly Maher reshuffled his long-stalled cabinet today ousting two cabinet ministers and bringing in five new men. He retained for himself the key posts of foreign affairs, interior, war and navy.

Two new cabinet ministries emerged from the shake-up. These are reconstruction, expected to have a strong hand in the government's disputed land reform program, and rural affairs, which formerly functioned under the municipalities ministry.

Maher had wanted to shed all duties except the premiership, informants said. But Maj.-Gen. Mohammed Naguib, the army's strong man, prevailed upon him to keep the other four posts until Egypt's domestic affairs are untangled.

It was Naguib who boosted Maher to power July 24 and two days later forced King Farouk I to abdicate in favor of Farouk's infant son, Faud.

Maher named a non-party cabinet when he took over but said at the time he planned to reshuffle it. One of the five newcomers, Nureddin Tarraf, has been a member of the small, anti-British National Party. The party opposes all negotiations with Britain until its troops are pulled out of Egypt.

Tarraf was made Minister of Municipalities.

Christie-Mitton Wedding

The following account of a wedding in Truro, N. S., from the Halifax Chronicle-Herald will be of interest to many in this Province as the bride had formerly resided in Summerside with her parents while her father was manager of the local branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia.

"St. Andrew's United Church, Truro, was the scene of a wedding Monday afternoon when Nora Jane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Mitton, Truro, became the bride of George McKee, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Christie, Truro.

"Rev. C. Earl Gordon performed the ceremony and nuptial music was played by Miss Helen Embree, church organist.

"Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of eggshell slipper satin with a deep bertha and panel insets of guimpe lace, falling gracefully into a cathedral train. A row of tiny satin covered buttons formed the back closing and the long, tight fitting sleeves tapered over the wrists. A priscilla-cap and finger tip veil of tulle illusion completed the costume. The bride wore heirloom cameos and carried a cascade bouquet of gardenias.

"The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Mary Joe Mitton, as maid of honor, Miss Mary Palmer, Summerside, as bridesmaid, and Miss Robin Reid, niece of the groom, as junior bridesmaid. R. Louis Christie was best man for his brother.

"The bride's mother wore a floor-length gown of midnight blue chiffon, with a beaded yoke. She wore a matching velvet hat and a corsage of Mrs. Finch roses. The groom's mother wore a delf blue lace gown with navy accessories and a corsage of Pink Delight roses.

"Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

"The couple left on a wedding cruise and on their return will live in Montreal. For travelling the bride wore a gold printed shantung suit with gold mesuline pearls and a cranberry accessories. Her corsage was bronze poms."

Important To Obtain Swine Entries For The Royal Fair

A possibility exists that Prince Edward Island which has always been successful in winning trophies for swine at the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto may not even have an exhibit this year.

The Swine Breeders Association, which handles the entries, is having a great deal more difficulty this year in lining up prospective entries than for several years past. There apparently are two reasons for this, according to Mr. H. W. Clay, Senior Livestock Fieldman of the Dominion Department of Agriculture.

One of the reasons is that the well known exhibitors of the past have materially reduced the number of swine this year. The other is the difficulty in obtaining hogs of the right age. To be fit for the big show they must have been born in late April or early May in order to reach the right weight at the right time.

The only hope of the Province having as strong an exhibit as in recent years lies with breeders who have never shown at the Royal before. Mr. Clay feels certain that there is a sufficient number of good hogs in the Province to enable the selectors to make a choice capable of upholding the reputation of the Island.

Might Affect Prestige

One possible result of a failure to even exhibit this year might lie in the belief of breeders in other Provinces and States that Prince Edward Island breeders were no longer producing the top-grade hog which won it international fame. This might lead to loss of the many orders for breeding purposes received here in recent years since the Island-type Yorkshire became famous.

There are about 75 hogs needed for the Toronto fair and unless they are received officials will have no choice but to cancel the exhibit for this year. Since time is becoming short, entries must be filed before September 30. Mr. Clay is appealing to all breeders of the Province to list their animals for selection purposes. Only the fullest cooperation of the breeders, he states, can assure the Island its usual representation.

The famous Brethour Trophy came to this Province twice in three years, with Mr. Willard Proud, Kingston, winning it in 1949, and Mr. William Lund, Tracadie, capturing it in 1950. The equally famous Todd Trophy was won here two years in a row by Mr. Sterling Willis, Kingston, who took it last year at Toronto after winning it in 1950.

It is felt by officials that the splendid record set in past years should not be allowed to go by the boards at a time when the reputation of Island swine is so high.
