

Tobacco Production To Increase

It appears that Prince Edward Island will be the early Maritime Province that will substantially increase its tobacco production this year, according to Agriculture Minister Andrew MacRae.

Monday, Mr. MacRae met in Moncton with the ministers of agriculture of the Maritimes to discuss tobacco production prospects. "Last year," he said, "New Brunswick produced about 100 acres, and Nova Scotia 170 from 225 to 250 acres, while we had about 300 acres in production. While this province will probably plant 500 acres this year, the other provinces do not plan to increase their acreage to any great extent."

PROPER GRADING
According to Mr. MacRae, emphasis will be put on proper grading of tobacco. "It has been the experience in Ontario," he said, "that poorly graded tobacco does not sell well, and exporters must be put this year on quantity and grading."
At Monday's meeting, representation of the Maritimes on a proposed national advisory committee on the dairy industry was discussed. One of three Maritime representatives on the committee will be provincial, Assistant dairy superintendent, E. W. Adams.

PUBLIC FORUM

speaking, the state is obligated to provide means of education, only when those of the parents prove to be inadequate. This, in the field of social ethics, is called the principle of subsidiarity, i.e., the state being allowed to take over the duties of the lesser community, only when the latter is unable to achieve its own ends.
The honorable gentleman even goes so far as to mention the Ecumenical Council and appears to believe that the elimination of separate schools will make for Christian unity. This is a matter of the end justifying the means, which is a very false way of justifying one's stand. Before Mr. Matheson makes any more statements of this nature, I suggest that he consult an ethics book, and remember that in four year's time he will be seeking the support of Island Catholics in our election campaign.
