

hat Body Of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

BED-WETTING — ENURESIS

An embarrassing condition which afflicts boys and girls is enuresis—bed-wetting. It is bad enough while they are at home but when they visit other people, it is necessary for them to carry a rubber sheet or some other device protecting sheets and mattress. Because the child does not suffer physically and the family doctor may advise the parents that the child will likely grow out of it, many boys and girls develop an inferiority complex...

ELLEN'S DIARY

By An Island Farmer's Wife

What fine letters we receive, all to set thoughts a-roving! A recent one was from a woman, come now to her sunset years. She grows old gracefully, young at heart, interesting and interested. She has retired from active work to bits of needle-craft, her books and writing, her Church and her memories. In girlhood, undoubtedly attractive she "could have married but didn't" being somewhat reluctant to leap the wide chasm between her prosperous home to one where many of those comforts would have to be foregone in the initial stages of building another. And has been, we believe, a little lonely ever since, though hers has been a busy life, devoted to the service of family and friends. James is of the opinion though possibly only in theory, that it is a very wise girl who stops to consider the financial aspects of a suitor. "Don't let your heart dim your sight" we heard him advise a sweet young thing only recently. "But never mind that," we countered "it all depends on the man. If he is ambitious and willing, of good habits and kind, given that you like him, supposing that he hasn't much of this world's goods, marry him!" And James laughed and said "That would work out fine, if folks didn't need to be fed and clothed. There's where the rub comes in. This sentiment of living on love is pleasant to contemplate, but if a person were hungry... well "When want comes in the door, love files out the window" — not but what there seems to be "bread and work" for all nowadays.

And one of our letters quite put us to shame — we that walk without effort and under James' insistence on occasion, run to head some foot-loose animal, but nevertheless sometimes grumble in mind if not aloud over the cares of our round. This Island woman is obliged to use a wheel-chair, has spent long years there, not in the spirit of any martyr, but happily, enjoying family and friends. She describes a trip she had taken by car, back to revisit scenes she had known well as a girl. The outing, all the better for being unexpected, began on a Saturday morning last November which took her, a son, a daughter-in-law and two grandchildren to Borden on the first lap of a journey to New York. "We stayed at Raymond's (a son) in Flushing and on our way to the big city we were able to view the United Nations' Buildings. Some of our party had never been to New York before so they must see the Woolworth and Empire State Buildings, the Presbyterian Hospital which covers eight city blocks, and other places of interest, then we drove through Central Park across the George Washington Bridge into New Jersey. I wanted much to visit the beautiful Palisades Park, one of my favorite holiday spots in days gone by...

Morning Smile

His Honeymoon

A housemaid gave notice because she was going to be married. But when the great day arrived, it was found that her successor could not take up her position for another fortnight. Her mistress asked her if she would not postpone the ceremony. "Change the date, change your fate, ma'am," the girl answered. "It's the flying in the face of Providence to alter wedding arrangements; but, if Herbert is agreeable, I don't mind getting married and then coming back for a fortnight." The young man was amenable to the arrangement, and half an hour after the ceremony the bride was back at her usual duties: "And has your husband gone back to work, too, Mary?" asked her mistress. "Oh, no, ma'am," she was shocked to reply. "Herbert wouldn't work on a great day like this, he's gone on his honeymoon."

Shown above is the first prize winning photo in the group class of Gray's Photo Service Beauty Contest. They are three children of A.B. J. Arnold MacPhee and Mrs. MacPhee, 18 Passmore St., City, namely: Heien Linda, aged four years; Sylvia Pearl, aged three years, and Arnold Gary, aged two years. It is interesting to note that the little boy won first prize in the baby contest a year ago. A.B. MacPhee, formerly employed with the Pure Milk Co., at the beginning of the year reinstated in the R.C.N. and at present is stationed at H.M.C.C. S. Cornwallis, Nova Scotia. —Photo by Gray

Modern Etiquette

By Roberta Lee

Q. Should a bride wear her engagement ring on the third finger of her left hand at her wedding? A. No; inasmuch as the engagement ring is worn over the wedding ring, she should either leave her engagement ring at home or wear it on her right hand, transferring it later to the proper finger on her left hand. Q. How should a divorcee sign her name so that she will not be mistaken for the second Mrs. Charles Wilson? A. By prefixing her maiden name to her former husband's surname, as, "Mrs. Joyce Gordon Wilson."

Household Scrapbook

By Roberta Lee

Salads If you are serving molded salads, don't try to place it on top of lettuce leaves in a precarious position. It is better to place the mold on the salad plate first and then arrange the leaves of lettuce around it. Gold-Decorated China Wash the gold-decorated china in lukewarm water containing soap flakes in moderation. Never rub directly upon the gold, as it will dull it and eventually cause it to rub off. Leather Gloves Unwashable leather gloves may be cleaned perfectly with a flannel cloth which has been soaked in milk, squeezed nearly dry, and then rubbed on a bar of soap. miles down Broadway, just to see the moving mass of humanity at its peak at that time of day. By nine-thirty Wednesday morning we were on our way back to The Island, arriving home the following night at eleven. Tired? Not a mite — not even a headache, having enjoyed every minute of the trip! Until tomorrow — — Diary — Good-night...

The Stars Say

By Genevieve Kumble

For Tomorrow IT may take some mighty astute thinking, some arduous manipulation, and unswerving purpose in order to get around rather difficult and challenging situations on this day. While it may be unwise to attempt the side-stepping of sordid snares, and setbacks, at the same time it might be as well to have the course well-charted and planned as to detail, conduct, etc., for possible emergencies or undermining oppositions. For the Birthday Those whose birthday it is, are urged to have a well-mapped course of action for the year ahead, since there may be sudden recharting, radical change of ideas. With shrewd management of emergencies or sudden change of objectives. Hard work, manipulation with a sound purpose of hewing to the line is recommended, even when things seem to be going awry. Build routines and programs on sound principles, integrity and with realism. A child born on this day, has great adaptability, versatility, clever ideas and aspirations, yet may be impressed by fantastic ideas and reversals.

How Can I!!!

By Anne Ashley

Q. How can I push back the cuticle without causing hang nails? A. If pushing back the cuticle causes hangnails, massage it with a good cuticle cream, or Vaseline jelly, to soften it. Then push the cuticle back gently, using an orange stick with cotton wrapped around it. Q. How can I exterminate roaches and water bugs? A. Mix two parts of boracic acid with one part of powdered sugar, and sprinkle this around the haunts of roaches and water bugs. It acts as a poison to them. Q. How can I prevent the iron from sticking to starched goods? A. A small quantity of turpentine added to the pot of starch will prevent the iron from sticking to the goods.

Greet Spring with a smile that won't wear off! New "Stay-Long" lipstick contains "Indelbase".

Dramatic glitter pins and over-size earrings in solid white denture stones with imported diamond-cut simulated precious stone centers.

CRESCENT CARNIVAL

FRANCES PARKISON KEYES

(Continued)

Breck had told the truth. He felt no fear whatsoever as he stepped into the pirogue and squatted down in it, and his self-evidence was wholly justified. A sense of power and freedom swept over him, and with the awareness of these came a return of the triumphant conviction that he could not only rescue Drew but win Celeste, in spite of every obstacle. Above the sound of the river he seemed to hear her singing — not the "Ave" which had mystified him, but those lilting songs of love whose meaning she guessed only by instinct. Still exalted, still confident and triumphant, he paddled up through the easier water along the levee, listening intently to the sound that the river made. If he could see, through the darkness, the outline of the silice of oaks leading to the house, he could follow it. He felt the current catch him, and sweep him back, faster than he could battle against it. But at the same instant he saw the outline of the house, itself. He knew he could not be far from the quarters then, and he believed he could force his way to them. Feeling himself in the grip of the current, he still did not fear it. He had kept the pirogue on an even keel so far. The water was choked with flossmat that went hurtling by him in the darkness, poles and planks to judge by the half-caught glimpses. He could feel the slackening of the current. Soon he would be through the worst of it. The rest would be easy. It was only a matter of minutes before he would reach Drew.

Cook's Corner

DATE SQUARES

One cup sifted flour, 1/2 teaspoon baking soda, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 cup butter, 1 cup brown sugar (sifted), 2 cups oatmeal. Sift flour, baking soda and salt. Rub or cut in butter. Add sugar and rolled oats. Mix well. Spread 1/2 inch crumbs in greased pan, 8 inches square. Pat to make smooth. Cover evenly with cooled date filling (see below). Cover with remainder crumbs. Pat to make smooth. Bake in slow oven (325 deg. F.) for 30 to 40 minutes. Leave in pan until cool. Cut in squares.

DATE FILLING

One half lb. dates (stoned), 1 tablespoon brown sugar, 1/2 cup water. Boil together until dates are soft enough to be mashed with a fork, adding sufficient water to prevent scorching. Bois Fleuri, might have come over to Abbeville himself that afternoon, Stella reflected. He could have taken her out while Cousin Omer and Cousin Allain were rambling on and on about Louisiana politics with that funny old Dr. Anconi they had come to consult. There was something to do with a young Cajun lawyer who was in the State Legislature, who had done so well during his first term in the House that they thought they might run him for the Senate. So Stella, who was almost desperate at the prospect of sitting aimlessly on the gallery at Bois Fleuri for another long, hot Summer afternoon, had said she would be very pleased to go to Abbeville herself, and wouldn't they drive over in her car? The two elderly men had accepted her invitation with alacrity, but by the time she had come to a sudden stop in front of Dr. Anconi's door, both her passengers were convinced that they were far more likely to require his services in his capacity of coroner than in that of mentor. They climbed out and went into the house. Presently they came out again, bringing Dr. Anconi with them. He was completely bald, and had a white mustache which probably had once been sandy. He said he would get in with them and drive over to Raoul's office. He spoke agreeably to Stella, and directed her to a stark-looking building that stood wedged into the middle of a block, with a drugstore on the ground floor, and a separate door on the side, flanked by a black sign lettered in fading silver. Old men got out of the car and opened the second door, disclosing a dusty wooden stairway, which they laboriously climbed, leaving Stella sitting outside alone in the glare. (To be continued)

Better English

By D. C. Williams

1. What is wrong with this sentence? "Grapefruit is one of the healthiest fruits there is." 2. What is the correct pronunciation of "hysteria"? 3. Which one of these words is misspelled? Acetylene, achievement, accumulator, acquisitive. 4. What does the word "formative" mean? 5. What is a word beginning with pr that means "unreasonably absurd"? ANSWERS 1. Say, "Grapefruit is one of the most healthful fruits there are." 2. Pronounce his-ter-ia, both 's' as in ill, e as in here, a as in ask unstressed, accent second syllable. 3. Achievement. 4. Giving or having the power of giving form; plastic. "These experiences date back to the formative period of my life." 5. Preposterous.

Cook's Corner

DATE SQUARES

One half lb. dates (stoned), 1 tablespoon brown sugar, 1/2 cup water. Boil together until dates are soft enough to be mashed with a fork, adding sufficient water to prevent scorching. Bois Fleuri, might have come over to Abbeville himself that afternoon, Stella reflected. He could have taken her out while Cousin Omer and Cousin Allain were rambling on and on about Louisiana politics with that funny old Dr. Anconi they had come to consult. There was something to do with a young Cajun lawyer who was in the State Legislature, who had done so well during his first term in the House that they thought they might run him for the Senate. So Stella, who was almost desperate at the prospect of sitting aimlessly on the gallery at Bois Fleuri for another long, hot Summer afternoon, had said she would be very pleased to go to Abbeville herself, and wouldn't they drive over in her car? The two elderly men had accepted her invitation with alacrity, but by the time she had come to a sudden stop in front of Dr. Anconi's door, both her passengers were convinced that they were far more likely to require his services in his capacity of coroner than in that of mentor. They climbed out and went into the house. Presently they came out again, bringing Dr. Anconi with them. He was completely bald, and had a white mustache which probably had once been sandy. He said he would get in with them and drive over to Raoul's office. He spoke agreeably to Stella, and directed her to a stark-looking building that stood wedged into the middle of a block, with a drugstore on the ground floor, and a separate door on the side, flanked by a black sign lettered in fading silver. Old men got out of the car and opened the second door, disclosing a dusty wooden stairway, which they laboriously climbed, leaving Stella sitting outside alone in the glare. (To be continued)

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

NO HOUSEWORK

This Fiance Embarrassed To Be Caught With Dish Towel

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: In a short time I am going to marry a very fine young man. I love him very much and I know that he loves me. Never in the world would I think of embarrassing him, but he is terribly afraid that I might some day do so by asking him to do some domestic task at which he might be discovered by others. On one occasion I handed my fiance a dish towel and he was horrified and begged me never to do it when anyone was around. Is that such a disgrace? Does that make a man seem effeminate? I do not expect to make my husband a housemaid, but I cannot see how a man would be degraded by helping his wife. I think it would be a lot more manly than just standing around and letting her do it all. What do you think? ALVIRA

ANSWER:

I am with you heart and soul, Alvira, and I would be a trifle hesitant about marrying a man who shied away from a dish cloth the way your boy friend does. I would be afraid he would make one of the superior husbands who leave all of the hard household chores, like stoking the furnace, to the wife, who think it is all right for Mother to push the parrot while Father twirls a cane when they take Junior out for a ride on Sunday and for a woman to pack home the groceries from a cash and carry store, but that it would be beneath a man to so demean himself. HIS IDEA ARCHAIC

At any rate you can tell your young man that his idea that there is something disgraceful in being caught in a kitchen with a dish towel in his hand is as archaic as pegtop trousers and brass buttons and socks, and has no place in this modern era when cooking has become a feat with men.

Considering that men get just as much pleasure and comfort out of the home as women do, considering that they are just as keen on a good dinner and as glibly about the state of the bathroom and raise a ruckus if the floor hasn't been properly swept, there is no good reason why they shouldn't do their part toward helping to achieve the results they enjoy so much.

If a man makes the money that supports his family and if his wife is a strong and able-bodied woman, then he should not be called upon to do housework. He should not be expected to buy the bacon and fry it, too. But if the wife is delicate and frail, then it is certainly up to the husband to help her with the housework. And whether the wife is sick or well he is a poor sport if he won't pinch-hit for her in any emergency.

DEAR MISS DIX: Some time ago my younger brother secretly married against our parents' wishes and brought his wife home for us to support. They have settled down to a life of ease and idleness and his wife will not even help my mother with housework. I have a good job and had looked forward to marriage, but this is now impossible with this added burden on my shoulders. What is the correct solution of the problem? JOHN

ANSWER: The correct solution of the problem is to throw your brother and his wife out of the house, and make them support themselves. That is the best thing for them as well as for you, because it's the only way to turn them into decent, self-respecting human beings. Otherwise they will develop into parasites, and which there is no more comfortable thing.

Why should you deny yourself the happiness of marriage in order to support your brother's wife because he is too good-for-nothing to work for her? Answer that question honestly, and you will have the answer to your problem.

DEAR MISS DIX: What are some examples of character? A YOUNG MAN

ANSWER: A young man shows character when he refuses to drink when everybody else is having one more; when he refuses to buy the automobile he can't afford; when a young man shows character when he lives up to his conviction of what is right and proper, instead of taking the easiest way and going with the crowd.

-Needlecraft-

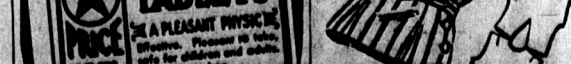

FOR THE HOME

TOPS FOR SPRING

No. 2111 trio of separates to top off Spring suits and skirts, is cut in sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44. Size 16 Weskit, 1 1/2 yards 35-inch. Blouse, 1 1/2 yards 35-inch. Belted Jerkin, 1 1/2 yards 35-inch (One pattern).

Send 35c for each PATTERN which includes complete sewing guide. Print Your Name, Address and Style Number plainly. Be sure to state size you want. Include postal unit, or zone number in your address. Address: Pattern Department, The Charlottetown Guardian.

Pattern No. 2111 Name Address City Province

Advertisement for Lux Toilet Soap featuring Joan Fontaine. Text includes: "Be Lux Lovely!" says Joan Fontaine. "First I smooth on Lux Soap's rich lather, work it well into my skin," says Joan Fontaine. "Then I rinse with warm water, pat with a soft towel to dry. Now skin looks radiantly fresh!" Try this daily care the screen stars use. You'll delight at the quick new beauty Lux Soap gives your skin!

Advertisement for Salada Tea. Text includes: Outstanding quality has made Salada Canada's largest selling tea. "SALADA" TEA. Drew, who was also visiting at ver with the words: Raoul Bienvenu, Attorney at Law. The three

Advertisement for Chamberlains Tablets. Text includes: don't be DULL CHAMBERLAIN'S TABLETS. A PLEASANT PHYSIC. 35c. Easy-to-Make

JOAN FONTAINE co-starring in the Hal Wallis production "SEPTEMBER AFFAIR" A PARAMOUNT PICTURE 9 out of 10 Screen Stars Use Lux Toilet Soap