LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Tall Grain.
SIR,—I see that you had quite a number of samples of long oats and tall wheat sent to your office. These, no doubt, were selected. But I have seen a ten-acre field on the farm of Henry Sanderson, Esq., Midgell, that will take the cake from all competitors. It would be impossible to give you any idea of what it is like without the whole crop was sent.
Yours truly,
TRAVELLER.

An Imposition.
SIR,—Many of the readers of THE EXAMINER, in this part of the country, are becoming disgusted with the stale trash which time and again appears in its columns under such headings as "Notes from Bull Creek," "Battle with a Bear," etc. I am perfectly aware, Mr. Editor, that in order to secure the insertion of such spurious articles, you have been grossly imposed upon by some wags, who in order to try their superfluous ignorance, and have a cowardly fling at innocent and respectable neighbors, wish to see their names curried among other superficial dabblers, but have not the honesty to scribble over their own names. But the screen from behind which they endeavor to fire their random shots, is too thin, and in order to warn the public against such imposition, I will just remove the mask and partially expose to view the authors of the above falsehoods.
They may be found in a certain Lobster Factory in this neighborhood, in the shape of two dudes, who think because they can put on covers and seal cans, and attend to other menial duties around the factory, they can insult decent persons, far more respected than themselves, though not so vain and presumptuous. If this community can afford a livelihood to such gentlemen in their capacity, then I would suggest that they should not soar so high as to ridicule their benefactors. In conclusion, I need hardly state that the items above referred to are utterly false and without the slightest foundation, merely the ravings of those two tinkers alluded to. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space, I remain,
Yours respectfully,
FAIRPLAY.
Bull Creek, Sept. 8th, 1884.

Notes from the Country.
Just now harvesting is fairly under way, and in every field throughout the country, may be seen men and boys hard at work.
In the villages may be seen harvesting machines, reapers, etc., with their agents beside them, each waiting the opportunity to prove to the satisfaction of all, (the other agents included) that he has or sells the best reaper or rake, etc., on the Island.
So that by the time the purchaser has made one round amongst the talking—not the mowing—machines he finds himself so confused that he is unable to decide, and finally returns to the most enthusiastic of these numerous agents. But notwithstanding this and the pressure of work, during the past week no less than three picnics took place in this vicinity. Two of the three were Sabbath School picnics, both of which were very largely attended, and although the heat was excessive, all seemed to enjoy themselves to the utmost.
The other, a Temperance picnic, under the auspices of Onward Division of the Sons of Temperance. It is only to be regretted that we cannot speak in terms of praise concerning the grand turnout; but, whatever may have been their day's sports and amusements, and so far as can be learned they were very pleasant—dancing and swinging in the lane—their conduct on returning was everything else but creditable, both to themselves and the Institution they claim connection with. Temperance should be attended by better results than mockery of religion and such like roudism. The crowd was small, but to measure it by the tumult and noise that preceded from it, one would suppose it consisted of hundreds, all drunk or mad.
Mr. Anthony Collett is just about completing the repairing of Government wharf at Victoria. It, to all appearance, is a credit to the place and the contractor, and, considering the short time since the work of repairing begun, Mr. Collett deserves the thanks of the community for his energy in thus pushing the work on so speedily.
I notice that our teacher at Hampton has been doing good work in his large school during the past year, and, notwithstanding he has all the work of this very large school to attend to, two very young pupils from his school have succeeded in passing a very creditable examination.
Mr. McPhail deserves a better support from the District than he usually gets, and the people will hereafter consider the fairness of rewarding true worth.
On the arrival of the boat last Friday evening we were agreeably surprised, and also exceedingly well pleased to observe amongst the visitors to Crapaud His Honor Chief Justice Palmer, whom we beg to congratulate on his hale and hearty appearance, and we hope he may long live to fill the important office for which he is so well suited by a long experience.
Also our newly-elected and very popular representative, J. T. Jenkins, Esq., M. P.
We consider we have succeeded in electing the right man in the right place. Dr.
Jenkins was, we understand, seeing after the interests of his constituents, thus putting himself in harness at once. We have no doubt our wants will be well and punctually attended to. We have every confidence in the Dr., and wish him every success.
Crapaud, 1884.

Stories about Marriage.

BLUNDERS OF CARELESS OFFICIALS AND UN-KNOWING BRIDES AND GROOMS
(From London Society.)
There was a clergyman who married a couple, and at the wedding breakfast, one of the bridesmaids expressed a wish to see that mystic document, a wedding license, which she had never beheld in her lifetime. The request occasioned a fearful discovery. The clergyman had quite forgotten to ask for the license; the bridegroom had left it to his "best man" to procure it, and this the "best man" had forgotten to do. Of course, the marriage was no legal marriage at all. The wedding party broke up in dismay, and the ceremony was performed again next day. The poor clergyman man, however, never got over the effects of his blunder.

On another occasion a clergyman got himself into considerable trouble; he was of the type known as ritualistic, and persuaded a worthy couple who had been married at a nonconformist chapel that they had not been ecclesiastically married at all, and that it was necessary that they should be married over again at the parish church. This was very much resented by the nonconformist interest, and the clergyman was put upon his trial at the Oxford assizes. The judge took a very lenient view, and said that as the parties had already been legally married, any further service was illusory and mere child's play, and that "he might just as well have read Chevy Chase over them."

In one of his novels, Charles Reade makes his hero, a clergyman, wonder whether he might not legally marry himself to the heroine, especially as they were both cast upon a desolate island. It may be as well that novelist and novel-readers should be aware that for a clergyman to officiate at his own marriage is utterly illegal.

I have known brides, when the grooms have failed to make the proper responses, prompt them immediately and with the greatest facility. As for the men, they commit all kinds of blunders and bungles.
I have known a man, at that very nervous and trying moment, follow a clergyman within the communion rails and prepare to take a place opposite him. I have known a man, when a minister stretched out his hand to unite those of the couple, take it vigorously in his own and give it a hearty shake. Sometimes more serious difficulties occur. Some ladies have had an almost unconquerable reluctance to use the word "obey," one or two, if their own statements are to be accepted, have ingeniously constructed the word "nobody." The word, however, has still to be formally admitted into the language. There was one girl, who was being married by a very kindly old clergyman, who absolutely refused to utter the word "obey." The minister suggested that, if she were unwilling to utter the word alone, she should whisper it to him; but the young lady refused even this kind of compromise. Further, however, than this, the clergyman refused to accommodate her; but when he was forced to dismiss them all without proceeding any further, the recalcitrant young person consented to "obey."

The difficulty, however, is not always made on the side of the lady. On one occasion the bridegroom wished to deliver a little oration qualifying his vow, and describing in what sense and to what extent he was using the words of the formula. He was, of course, given to understand that nothing of this kind could be permitted. There was one man who accompanied the formula with sotto voce remarks, which must have been exceedingly disagreeable to the officiating minister. He interpolated remarks after the fashion of Burchell's "Fudge!" "With this ring I thee wed; that's superstation!" "With my body I thee worship; that's ideology!"
"With all my worldly goods I thee endow; that's a lie." It is a wonder that such a being was not conducted out of church by the beadle. This puts one in mind of an anecdote that is told of a man who in his time was a Cabinet Minister. There was a great discussion on the question whether a man can marry on £300 a year. "All I can say," said the great man, "is that when I said, 'With all my worldly goods I thee endow,' so far from having £300, I question whether, when all my debts were paid, I had 300 pence." "Yes, my love," said his wife, "but then you had your splendid intellect." "I didn't endow you with that man," sharply retorted the right honourable husband.

When the bridegroom has returned thanks, after the parson's speech, in these days of feminine oratory there is sometimes a tendency on the part of the bride to make a little speech of her own. "I call you all to witness," said a bride within our hearing, that I have no intention of obey-ing." "Ah, madam," replied Frederick Denison Maurice, who was present, "you have yet to learn the blessedness of obedience."

Horsford's Acid Phosphate

INCOMPARABLE IN SICK HEADACHE.
Dr. Fred Horner, jr., Salem, Va., says: "To relieve the indigestion, and so-called sick headache, and mental depression incident to certain stages of rheumatism, it is incomparable."

SOMETHING NEW.—There has always been great difficulty in getting water-proof coats to fit satisfactorily about the neck and shoulders, for stout and round-shouldered men. You can avoid this and have a perfect fit by leaving your measure with us. We have made arrangements with an English firm to have these coats made on our own patterns, so that we are in a position to warrant a good fit. We can show over 100 samples of the goods from which the coats will be made, ranging in price from $5 to $24. Every coat warranted to come to the same as sample of goods shown. You can have better material and cheaper than buying ready-made goods.—
