HOW TO RUN A HOTEL

NEVER TAKE AN IDEA FROM ONE OF YOUR GUESTS.

The Sad Fate of Old Man McSweeney, Who Forgot That It Is an Utter Impossibility to Please Everybody in the World.

"I should think it would be a good idea for hotel managers to invite suggestions from their guests," said a young man chatting at the counter of one of the big hosteleries in the business section; "to put up boxes, y' know, the same as it is done in clubs."

"Great Scott!" exclaimed the clerk. "That was the very scheme that ruined old man McSweeney at the Prospect Lake House. Did y' ever hear of the case? No? Well, it was like this: The Prospect Lake was one of the finest summer hotels in the northwest, and old McSweeney got it on his hands through a loan. He knew nothing about the business, and naturally he introduced a lot of impractical ideas that caused continual kicking.

"One day the suggestion box scheme happened to pop into his head, and he immediately put one of 'em on every floor, conspicuously labeled, requesting advice from the guests for future guidance of the management.

"Say, I wish you could have seen how they jumped at the chance! Every crank in the house turned loose and wrote suggestions morning, noon and night. They had to make two collections a day to keep the boxes clear, and old McSweeney was tickled nearly to death.

"This is the prize safety valve for kickers," he said. "It relieves their minds without annoying anybody, and by the time they come here again they will have forgotten all about it."

"I don't know how it might have panned out, but about then he had a row with his bookkeeper and gave him notice to quit. To get even the scoundrel sat down on the quiet and answered every letter, thanking each writer personally for his valuable suggestions and assuring him it would be fully carried out next season, regardless of expense.

"I can't remember a tenth of the ideas advanced," continued the clerk, "but they were daishes. One crank wanted the house run on a strictly vegetarian basis, another wanted a vaudeville show every night in the parlors, a dozen or so insisted that the bar be entirely removed and a dozen more urged that it be kept open all night Sunday. One chap thought the dining room ought to be on the roof, several others advocated putting it in the basement, an astronomical gent desired a free observatory equipped in the tower, a sun cure idiot proposed inclosing the veranda with blue glass, a sporty guest advised attaching a bowling alley to each bedroom and every last one of the whole gang was solemnly assured that he would find things exactly as he wanted 'em next year.

"Well, as soon as the house reopened trouble began. The first man that arrived asked where the captive balloon was that he had suggested for the lawn. The next one raised a howl for the Hungarian band he swore he had been promised, and from then on the place was in one continual uproar.

"Almost all the former guests turned up, but as soon as they found out that none of their ideas had been adopted they went away again and abused the house all over the country.

"Seeing his trade disappearing, McSweeney got desperate and actually tried to put a lot of the idiotic suggestions into execution. He turned his best porch into a shooting gallery, bought a big music box for every bathroom and continued in his frantic efforts to follow advice until the sheriff finally came along and closed him up.

"I may have embroidered it a trifle, but in the main this is a strictly true story, and the moral is that it doesn't pay to encourage critics in the hotel business. It's very strange, but running a hotel is the one thing in the world for which every chump living thinks he has a special and peculiar aptitude."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

He Knew Playfair.

The manager of the phosphate mine was a Scotchman, tall, big boned, with the strongest Glasgow Doric in his tongue. At first he was obdurate and desired us to leave the ground and to drop the specimens which we had taken before he appeared. At last I addressed him in good Scotch and asked him whether he thought I was a mining adventurer. "Aye, that's just what ye are."

"No," I replied, "I am a Scotch professor."

"Then, if ye are, ye'll be havin a name."

"My name," I said, "is Playfair."

"Man," said my Scotch friend, "are ye Lyon Playfair?" I assured him I was, but expressed surprise that he knew the name, to which he replied, looking from his 6 feet 2 inches with compass on my 5 feet 4 inches, "Hoot, mon, yer name's traveled farther than yer wee legs will ever carry ye."—Letters of Lyon Playfair.

The sprinkling of railway lines with oil is valuable in that rain does not penetrate the oil-lined outer crust, and that vegetation along the line of the rails is destroyed.

Are You Bilious?

A sluggish liver fails to filter the bile from the blood, and when the poisonous matter goes through the body in the circulation, the whole system is tarred and drugged. This is called biliousness and can be completely cured by Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which act directly on the liver making it healthy and active. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box. The cheapest medicine in the world.

Don't Tear Down—Build Up.

The old-fashioned theory of tearing down disease was entirely changed by the advent of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food, which cures by creating new rich blood and nerve tissue. Through the medium of the circulation and the nervous system they strengthen and invigorate every organ in the human body.

An Interesting Case.

Mr. W. G. Phyll, proprietor Bodega Hotel, 36 Wellington Street East, Toronto, says: "While living in Chicago I was in a terrible state with itching and bleeding piles, I tried several of the best physicians and was burnt and tortured in various ways by their treatment to no avail, besides spending a mint of money to no purpose. Since coming to Toronto I learned of Dr. Chase's Ointment. I used but one box and have not been troubled with piles in any shape or form since."
