THE DAILY EXAMINER.

JULY 18, 1891.

Notes and Comments.

The Massachusetts Legislature has passed a very stringent law against the selling of oleomargarine for butter.

There are 140 counties in the six New England States and New York. Of these no less than 44 show a decrease in population in 1890 compared with 1880.

A new menace to the wheat crop has appeared in parts of North Dakota, in the shape of pepper grass or wild mustard. In Barnes county the reports show the alarming condition of wheat on account of the growth of pepper grass, the new weed of the mustard family, which has appeared this year for the first time. Many fields are already entirely ruined, and thousands of acres of wheat that were most promising, being chiefly on summer fallow, will not be worth harvesting.

The British consul-general at New York, Mr. Booker, reports to his government in the following significant words: "Influenced by the new and higher duties afforded for the benefit of the American manufacturing interests, new life has been imparted to the cotton, worsted, woolen and knit underwear industries. Everywhere, especially in the Southern States, new textile mills have been going up with surprising activity and all the old corporations have been operated on full time."

Montreal True Witness: "Both the Senate and House of Commons have had their debates on the Prince Edward Island Tunnel question. Hon. member for Toronto, Mr. Cockburn, no doubt feels by this time that he would have been wiser to have remained silent on the subject. His sneering speech met with such prompt, vigorous and merciless handling from the Prince Edward Islanders, more especially Mr. McLean, M. P., who is the most able of the deputation from that quarter, that the lesson is likely to be long remembered by the Torontonians."

We learn from the Vancouver World that there is a proposition on foot in that city to form a company for the purpose of exporting good milk cows from British Columbia to Japan. At present there is a splendid demand for good cows in Japan. All the native cattle are of very poor breed and give only about one-third as much milk as the ordinary Canadian milker. Last year there were imported into that country 228 cows. China sent 19, the United States 80, Korea, 115, France 6, Russia 1, England 2, and Canada 5. The average price was $300; some were sold for much more.

Chili is a spectacle before the world to-day. Enjoying apparently the "liberties" of republican government, the people were so despotically dealt with that their representatives in Congress could not afford to wait the expiration of the President's term of office. They rebelled. The civil war has dragged along, and now both sides are on their last legs, and tottering at that. The president, with the newly elected congress at his back, is levying and extorting money from the people to carry on the war. Those who can't pay are, according to insurgent accounts, shockingly ill-treated. Prices are so high that famine stares those in the face who before the war were grumbling about excessive taxes. The insurgents are too weak to fight any more, and so the nation is in a helpless and exhausted condition.

According to the news from the southwestern provinces of Russia the Germans residing in the Czar's territory may prepare for treatment little better than the Jews are receiving. They will either have to become naturalized citizens or quit the country. In view of the triple alliance and Russia's interest in its effect, this is not surprising. The Germans will have to sell and get out, for while they remain they are regarded with suspicion. This is the barbarous rule of the Czar, to be sure, but look nearer home at the free, independent and enlightened citizens of the United States of America, who, in convention, have passed a resolution advocating confiscation by the State of all property held by aliens. And to hear these good Christians passing resolutions of indignation against the Czar's methods the very next night, one would think that they were the best qualified on the face of the earth to throw stones.

The London correspondent of the New York Tribune gives a good deal of attention to the subject of the Jewish persecutions in Russia. He says: "Whatever the truth of this may be, it is evident we are only at the beginning of the Jewish persecutions. During the present week a warning has been confidentially circulated among leading Hebrews here that the emergency will soon arise which will claim from them the literal scriptural title of their possessions to save Israel in Russia from extinction. They are admonished that this title will mean not a tenth of their income merely, but of their capital. What grave extension of existing trouble is thus foreshadowed we are in ignorance of here, but it is evidently going to be something terrible. I learn, too, that in a quiet way the great Jewish bankers of St. Petersburg and Moscow and the big Jewish Merchants in Riga, Revel and Odessa are making hasty arrangements to settle their affairs and get out of the country."

From statistics gathered by the Railway Age of Chicago, it appears that during the first six months of the year sixteen completed railways, with a mileage of 2,590 miles and representing in their bonded debt and capital stock $106,531,000, besides many millions of unpaid interest and floating debt, were sold out to satisfy the claims of the creditors. The largest of these lines was the Chicago, Kansas & Nebraska, owning 1,471 miles of railway in Kansas and Nebraska, and representing in securities the vast sum of almost $54,000,000. The other most important property sold was of the Texas Central company, representing 229 miles and nearly $6,000,000 of securities. The length of the other lines varied from 261 to 7 miles, the total capital stock represented and practically wiped out being $106,531,000. Besides this, 1,512 miles of road, most of it new, has passed under the control of receivers, which is generally the first step towards the proprietors losing their property. This is not an encouraging state of affairs for investors, who see the country through which their lines run reaping practically the only benefit they produce.

The leading governments of Europe are expending vast sums in preparing to kill people and small sums to educate their own citizens. The figures which have recently been collected by a writer in the Revue Libérale shows how much is being done for barbarism and how little for civilization. The German government expends $10,000,000 annually for schools and $185,000,000 for the army and navy. Austria-Hungary gives $64,500,000 for army and navy, and $6,250,000 for schools. Italy pays $4,000,000 for schools and $90,000,000 for military and naval purposes. France makes the best showing in the matter of supporting schools, giving $21,000,000 a year. The expenditure for army and navy, however, is enormous, $151,000,000. Russia makes a good showing with $17,000,000 for education, but her expenditure for war is $200,000,000. Poor, benighted Spain gives $1,600,000 for education and $100,000,000 to arms. England does more for education than her neighbors across the channel, but is still waiting for free public schools. She gives about $24,000,000 for schools, and $150,000,000 for army and navy. The century will probably close with the greatest standing armies in Europe ever known, or with millions of graves on the awful battle-fields of history.

Ladoga Wheat.

Professor Saunders says in the course of his latest report, "the Ladoga wheat, which was one of the first varieties of grain distributed in this way four years ago, is growing very much in favor in the Northwest. During the past year the inquiries for that wheat have been very numerous from settlers who desired to purchase it in quantities, and all we could supply from the Experimental Farms has been disposed of in that manner. A farmer at Griswold, Manitoba, Mr. Hanna, who received a 3-lb sample four years ago from the Experimental Farm wrote to me during the winter to say that he now had 1,500 bushels of this wheat from that sample, for which he was finding a ready demand for seed at a higher price than he could get for ordinary grain. I have with me, Mr. Chairman, a sample of Ladoga wheat which was grown at Prince Albert in 1890, to which I would like to call special attention, as I think it is the finest sample of spring wheat I have ever seen. It weighs 66 1/2 lbs. to the bushel, 6 1/2 lbs. over the standard, and is very uniform in size and of the highest quality. Specimens of this grain have been sent to prominent millers and grain-buyers in Canada, the United States and Great Britain, and they all agree in the opinion that it is one of the finest samples of spring wheat that they have ever seen. This being grown so far north as Prince Albert in such perfection seems to indicate that there is a large area in that district for wheat culture, and which in all probability this variety will help to fill.

Henry George is hard at work on the Pope's recent encyclical dealing with the Land question and socialism. Mr. George's answer will probably make a considerable pamphlet, or possibly a small book. It will probably be translated into French and Italian. It will be addressed in terms respectful to the Pope, and will urge anew the argument contained in "Progress and Poverty."
