Short-Term Stock Traders Seen Too Large In Canada

By REFORD MacDOUGALL

MONTREAL (CP)—The number of short-term traders in Canada appears "uncomfortably large," says Dleap Hall, senior Montreal stock exchange statistician, in one of the first share transaction studies made in Canada.

"Perhaps present economic uncertainties account for this," Mr. Hall said, "and our next study may reveal a larger 'investing' group of public individuals."

Conducted on the Montreal and Canadian exchanges during three days last June, the study sought to determine investor participation in the daily trading volume of the two exchanges.

Members of the exchanges recorded their transactions for the three sparate days on specially designed computing machine cards.

The findings, published by the MSE in booklet form, have already elicited interest in England, the United States and throughout Canada.

For one thing, the MSE found the share volume reported by individuals much larger than that of institutions. In percentages, public individuals bought and sold 50.4 per cent of all shares, institutions and intermediaries 19.8 per cent and MSE and CSE members and others 29.8 per cent.

A similar survey by the New York Stock Exchange in 1961 disclosed that public individuals bought and sold 51.4 per cent of the total exchange turnover, institutions and intermediaries 26.2 per cent and exchange members and others 22.4 per cent.

The higher percentage shown for members and unknown traders in the Montreal study is attributable, in large degree, to the substantial participation in arbitrage transactions, the study says.

The MSE also attempted to determine the motivation prompting public participation. Noting the high percentage of unknowns the study says it appeared 35.2 per cent of public individual's purchases were for long-term investment — more than six months, 35.7 per cent for short-term investment—one to six months, and 29.1 per cent for trading—under 30 days.

CITE PERCENTAGES

The New York study found 62 per cent of public individual buying was for long-term investment, 23.6 per cent for short-term investment and 9.5 per cent for trading.

In the category of sex, males greatly predominated in transactions by public individuals. The study says a probable reason for this is the Quebec civil code, which stipulates that married women living in the province of Quebec cannot trade on the stock market unless they are separate as to property.

Total for males was 82.5 per cent as against 15.9 per cent for females and 1.6 per cent for joint accounts. The New York survey showed 71.7 per cent of trading by males and 28.3 per cent by females.

BREADALBANE

Mrs. William Hickox entertained at a dinner party Tuesday evening, Jan. 15 in honor of James Hickox' 78 birthday. A turkey dinner, with all th "fixings" and a lovely birthday cake were enjoyed by the 17 guests. Gifts were presented to Mr. Hickox with accompanying good wishes for many happy returns.

The monthly meeting of the Crawford Memorial Women's Missionary Society, was held on Thursday evening, Jan. 17, at the home of Mrs. James Craig. The secretary, Mrs. Allan Hickox read the minutes and called the roll to which the members responded with verses containing either the word "scepter," or the word "new". A new sick committee was appointed, namely Mrs. Craig and Mrs. John Hickox. As a new project for the coming month it was decided to contribute a book or several books toward the Library of Maritime Christian College in Charlottetown.

The devotional was led by the president, Mrs. Pomroy Murray, The Theme was "Three Steps to Personal Peace," the author is Dr. Norman Vincent Peale. Poems appropriate for the first meeting of the New Year were read by the following members. "On the Road to Emmaus," written by an Island lady, Mrs. E. Holden MacLure, and read by Mrs. Cuyler Matheson; "Into the Year," read by Mrs. Kenneth Graham; "Today", by Mrs. James Craig; "The New Year", by Mrs. John Hickox, and "Hymn of the Homemaker", by Mrs. Allan Hickox. Missionary lesson "In The Congo" was presented by the president assisted by Mrs. Matheson. Luncheon was served by the hostess and her daughter Sheila.

The little old schoolhouse beloved by many, and dreaded by others in the past, has forever disappeared in this area. The last chapter in its story was "written" last week, when one of our local carpenters, Fred Thomas, assisted in moving the building from the village site to the property of the purchaser, Jack Campbell, Springfield. Dr. Charles Stewart M.D. and Rev. Alfred L. Murray (ThD) received their initial education in the little old schoolhouse, Breadalbane Village.

Mr. Deans, Vulcan, Alberta, was the guest speaker at the Breadalbane Christian Church, Sunday evening, Jan. 20. The pastor, Mr. Merle Zimmerman, introduced Mr. Deans who gave a very inspiring message. Allan Hickox (Jr.) organist, accompanied the choir which sang as an offertory "I'll Go Where You Want Me To Go."

Mr. and Mrs.. Walter LePage, Montreal, are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie MacInnis.

James Hickox is a patient in Prince County Hospital, Summerside.

ROLLO BAY

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♥	Pass
[illegible]	Pass	3 NT

Opening lead — five of diamonds.

This hand was played in a team match. At the first table, South got to three notrump and West led a diamond, declarer winning the jack with the queen.

South could count seven tricks and had to build up two more to make his contract. The best source for additional tricks was obviously in hearts, so he led the ten of hearts and when West followed low, finessed.

If West had had the queen, South would have made the hand by this line of play, and, in fact, it would have assured him of ten tricks. But East won the queen and returned a diamond. This proved fatal, since West's diamonds became established and he had the ace of hearts for entry. So South went down one.

The bidding and opening lead were the same at the second table, but the declarer, adopting an ingenious method of play, made the contract.

He won the jack of diamonds with the queen, entered dummy with a spade, and played a low heart. East followed low, as most players would, and South played the ten. West permitted him to hold the trick, which was the best he could do, but South was not to be denied his victory.

Declarer led another heart, West playing low again, and, having already located the queen, went up with the king, felling the queen. Another heart lead forced out the ace and South wound up making four notrump.

Despite the unusual nature of South's play, it was well founded. He was willing to lose the ten to the queen if West had it, since he was assured of the contract if West won the trick, whether with the queen or ace.

The danger in the hand was that East had the queen. What the second declarer did, in effect, was assume that East had the queen. There was an excellent chance, if this was the case, that East would not go up with the queen if the first round of hearts was led from dummy.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
