Your gift will speak to the hearts of men through the Word of God and by your influence will go on for generations. In making a bequest, kindly do so through the F. E. I. Auxiliary or Branch. Gerald Waring Reporting

OTTAWA — A good many Liberal M.P.'s believe the time has come for Finance Minister Abbott to quit.

They're not critical of him. They accepted his budget last Tuesday with general approbation. They commend him for having done an excellent job in his five and one-half years as Finance Minister. But they believe that if he remains in that post, he may do himself more harm than good.

Abbott is only 51, and is considered to have an excellent chance to succeed Prime Minister St. Laurent when the latter retires.

If he aspires to the Prime Ministership, his Liberal friends argue, then this is no time for him to remain as Finance Minister.

As such, he must increase taxes: And Finance Ministers who do that do not endear themselves to the electors.

Abbott knows this very well. Only Monday night, when Resources Minister Winters greeted him with a smile, Abbott cracked: "You'd better do your smiling at me tonight, Bob. After tomorrow night not many will smile at me."

Assuming that Abbott is willing to give up the arduous and often thankless job of finance for an easier cabinet berth which he has well earned — and there is no reason not to make that assumption — the difficulty is finding a suitable portfolio for him.

Finance is a top flight ministry. Only a small handful of cabinet posts are on a par with it: External Affairs, Defence, Agriculture, Trade and Commerce and Justice.

So the choice in moving Abbott to a job of equivalent prestige is extremely limited.

In any reshuffle of these top portfolios, Agriculture must be disregarded from the start. The government has no one who could fill Jimmy Gardiner's shoes. Nor is it logical to disturb Foreign Minister Pearson at this juncture of international events. And Defence Minister Claxton is similarly entrenched by circumstances.

However, Trade Minister Howe has taken over the new Ministry of Defence Production. It is expected that he will be able to devote less and less time to his old department — and thus the way lies open to appoint someone else as Minister of Trade and Commerce.

It's not likely that would be Abbott. But it could be Justice Minister Garson, paving the way for Abbott's appointment as Minister of Justice, the same job which Rt. Hon. J. L. Ilsey took after his duties as wartime Finance Minister all but broke his health.

Whoever succeeded Abbott in Finance, it's reasonably certain, wouldn't be one of the present big six of the Cabinet. Howe can't be spared from Defence Production, and none of the others wants to be tapped as the tax man with the selection of a new party leader in the not too distant offing.

Provincial representations urging Abbott to leave liquor alone were largely responsible for his forebance. The Finance Minister will have to sit down at the conference table with the provinces this year and negotiate new tax surrender agreements to replace those expiring next March 31. Further liquor taxes now, which the provinces argued would interfere seriously with their revenues, might make the task of setting new tax agreements much more difficult.

The new President of the Students' Union, George Cameron, is said to be responsible for the rage that resulted in many of the rooms in Memorial Hall being scrubbed, polished, and waxed last week. For two or three days buckets, mops, and rolled up sleeves were the style. The idea spread from third corridor to the other floors and, while not all rooms have received the full treatment, the efforts to date are certainly worthy of attention. One fellow put it this way: "If some of us would only work as hard at our books, this going to college would be a cinch." That's how hard they worked.

Last Saturday evening, the senior basketball team successfully opened its semi-final series with the Summerside R. C. A. F., when they defeated the Airmen 59-48. Joe Mullally was high scorer for the Saints with 13 points. The Saints hope to finish the series this evening when they meet the Airmen in the second game of the series.

If they do, they will qualify to meet Prince of Wales, who hold two victories over them in the regular schedule.

A great many potential softball players received a disagreeable set-back from the weather man this week. Softball manager, Ralph MacQuaid, had everything in readiness for the opening of the season early in the week; but four or five days of wet weather put a damper (get it?) on the well laid plans.

From all reports, the St. Dunstan's Dramatic Society made a hit in Charlottetown when it presented the three-act drama, "Deep Are The Roots" in Queen Square School Hall on Thursday and Friday evenings. A large audience was present for both performances, and from almost everyone there was a general expression of approval.

One of the features of the week on the campus was the visit of Miss Carol Jackson, a senior editor of Integrity magazine, which is printed in New York City. Miss Jackson, who is on a speaking tour of the Maritimes, was brought to Prince Edward Island mainly through the efforts of Mr. John Eldon Green, M. S. W.

Miss Jackson's talk was devoted primarily to a consideration of the lack of spirituality in the modern world. She put the situation most bluntly like this: "If Christianity is right, then the world is wrong. If the world is right, then Christianity is wrong." By that statement she tried to emphasize just how much God and spiritual values have been taken out of daily living by the scourge of secularism.

The whole address, as the above illustration surely demonstrates, was surely thought-provoking, and, indeed, it was meant to be. For, if college students do not concern themselves with the problems that make living in this present-day world so insecure, then it is not to be expected that many others will bother trying to get to the bottom of the business. We were all convinced that Miss Jackson was mainly interested in that in which students are supposed to be primarily concerned; that is, TRUTH.

Now, until next week; from S. D. U., to all of you, health, and happiness.

The WEEK at S. D. U.

This week, merely to be different, we shall begin with a reference to another of our "great men." He is Cody Myers of Hunter's River, who was elected Secretary of the Students' Union for 1951-52. This was the office that was not decided on the first ballot in the regular voting on Friday, April 6, and which necessitated a second election last Saturday.

On Wednesday of this week, three more "great men" were recognized by the students, when the chief officers of the Athletic Association for next year were decided by the secret-ballot system. The President, Vice President, and Secretary of St. Dunstan's A. A. for 1951-52 are respectively, Walter Reid, Fred Driscoll, and Jack Weir.

With these elections over, the chief office for next year of the two most important student organizations on the campus are filled. The student body is quite satisfied with the results, and, although it is acknowledged that the positions they must fill entail a great deal of responsibility, it is felt that these "great men" are capable of accepting it.

It will be of much interest to our readers to learn that the preparations for the biggest social event of the year, the Junior Prom, are being finalized. The committee in charge of the affair is made up of members of the Junior class, and is under the chairmanship of Cody Myers. The committee is putting much effort into the preparations, mainly because the Prom is to be held in the new Alumni gymnasium-auditorium. The committee looks at it this way: "Now that the Prom is our very own, we shall have to make it top."
