Strange But True

By F. H. MacArthur

A new type of treasure recently came to light in the desert foothills and mountain areas near Victorville. The treasure, an old poem, was found in a tin can by B. H. Schwartz of 372 Lucerne Blvd.

The poem bore the title "Silver Wedding," and a notation on the front page gave the dates, "August 14, 1850 — August 14, 1875" and the words dedicated to Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Brown, Riverside, California.

The poem opens with the verse: "We live in the present, philosophers say, The future and past are but dreams. And all that's gilt by the sun of today Is a phantom that truly but seems."

The closing verse wished a bright future for the couple to

NEW HAVEN W. I.

The monthly meeting of the New Haven Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Duncan Gas, on June 2, with an attendance of 15 members.

Some discussion took place regarding the new constitution, also the district convention to be held June 17 at Cornwall. Plans were made for a picnic at the school closing.

Correspondence was read and discussed including a letter from Miss Jean MacGaughey regarding the school report; one from T. Roy Cudmore regarding the Red Shield appeal; one from the Women's Voluntary Service, Montreal, regarding the knitting of squares to make blankets for the Greek earthquake victims; one from

They fish with wagons and ladders at Minundie, Nova Scotia, where the tides in the Bay of Fundy are the highest in the world.

When the tide goes out at Winslow, N. S. ships set high and dry on the harbor bottom but the tide will come in with a rush — 40 feet of it!

Funny tides are responsible for thousands of acres of our sister Province's most fertile lands being well below the level of the sea. The ocean is kept out by dikes, like those in Holland.

While clearing off the graves of his parents, in a cemetery in McKenzie, Tenn., E. W. Hilliard was stricken by a heart attack and died on the spot.

Catfish! The word usually is spoken scornfully, but the catfish is a delicious dish when fried brown. Those long "feelers" that sprout from the sides of the creature's jaws are harmless. They help guide the fish in its search for food. The spines that can inflict painful injuries are part of the fins which protrude from both sides of the fish at the point where its head and body join.

A Summerside fisherman could hardly believe his eyes when he hooked and landed a pair of gold-rimmed spectacles he'd lost in the Dunk River last spring.

Thousands of people in Canada have telephones but no bathtubs. It's a pity so many people are talking when they should be taking a bath. What is the most named spot in Canadian history? It's the Isle d'Orleans in the St. Lawrence River just below Quebec City.

The Indians called it Minigo. Jacques Cartier named it the Island of Bacchus, Samuel de Champlain, seeing it for the first time, called it "delightful." The missionaries always referred to it as Isle de Saint Laurent. Finally it got back to Isle d'Orleans. So it
