HAPPENINGS

Miss Dora Smith of MacLeod Manor, New Glasgow, met with a painful accident on New Year's Day. Miss Smith slipped on the floor at her home and broke her wrist. She is a patient in the Prince Edward Island Hospital.

Her numerous relatives and friends throughout the province will be pleased to hear that she is resting as comfortably as possible. Miss Smith's niece, Mrs. Jay Edwards, is in Charlottetown to be with her aunt.

Mr. and Mrs. G.M. Avard entertained at a buffet supper holiday party at their home in honor of the Atlantic Wholesalers. They also entertained Sunday at a buffet supper.

Miss Sadie Gorman, teacher at Grand Tracadie, was hostess at a family dinner party Sunday at noon at the Queen Hotel. An interesting feature of this happy event was the fact that there were five sisters present.

Miss Marion Macmillan, who was a patient in the Prince Edward Island Hospital, was home for Christmas. She is again in the hospital but making satisfactory improvement.

Colonel and Mrs. Ivan MacArthur and their two children, Deborah and Scott have been here for two weeks during the holiday season. They were the guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar MacArthur, Birchwood Avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Geddie MacLeod, Kirkwood Motel.

Mrs. Harold MacInnis, Parkdale, entertained a few friends at a card party on Friday evening last. The guests were: Mrs. Frank Walker, Mrs. Rita Worth, Mrs. Helen Carmody and Mrs. Crossman. Mrs. MacInnis' home was very prettily decorated with the festive decorations. A delicious lunch was served by the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Ian MacLean, who spent Christmas here with their parents, the Rev. and Mrs. A.F. MacLean and Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Wood left just before the New Year for Halifax. Mr. and Mrs. MacLean were accompanied by Mrs. MacLean's sister, Miss Janet Wood, who is in her final year at Dalhousie University.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald G. MacLeod, Victoria, are leaving shortly by plane for New York City, to visit Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Burda and to see the new grand son, Donald Joseph Burda.

Mrs. Charles Howatt entertained at a holiday buffet supper party at her home "The Beacon" in Victoria in honor of Mrs. Arnold Taylor and Mrs. John Schiller and teachers in the neighboring communities.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Howatt entertained at another lovely party in the form of an evening supper party. This was held after the skating party at Cra-paud rink.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Carter, Montreal, P.Q., have taken up residence in Summerside where Mr. Carter is opening a branch office of the Niagara Finance Co. of which he is manager. Mr. and Mrs. Carter spent the Christmas holidays in Charlottetown with Mrs. Carter's mother, Mrs. Lawrence Hennessey, 73 Churchill Avenue.

Mr. Richard Carson, son of Dr. W.R. Carson, returned on Sunday to resume studies at Acadia University, after spending the season's holidays at his home in

L.A.C. David Doyle and Mrs. Doyle and young son Brian, have returned to the R.C.A.F. Station, St. Sylvester, Quebec, after spending the Christmas holidays visiting L.A.C. Doyle's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Doyle, 137 Pownall St., Charlottetown.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard B. Ross, Wollaston, Mass., U.S.A., are spending a two weeks vacation with Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Ross, School Street. The many relatives and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ross are sympathizing with them in the death of their daughter, Mrs. John Curran (Clara) of Boston, Mass.

Miss Eleanor MacGregor and Mr. Alden MacGregor returned to Toronto after spending their holidays with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lester MacGregor of Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Lloyd Goff returned to their home in Summerside on Monday after spending the Christmas and New Year holidays with their daughters and families, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Zimmerman, Burlington, Ontario, and Mr. and Mrs. Ken Thomas, London, Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. Brian MacBeath of Moncton, N.B. spent a few days during the Yuletide season with Mr. and Mrs. P.G. Clark, Summerside.

Mr. Alexander Campbell left Summerside on Monday for Halifax, N.S. where he will be admitted as a barrister to the Bar of the province of Nova Scotia.

Mrs. Albert Sharp entertained the East End bridge club at her home in Summerside on Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Phillips returned on Sunday to their home in Summerside after visiting in Buchans, Newfoundland, guests of the latter's mother, Mrs. Moore.

Mr. and Mrs. R.A. Horne, Summerside, had as their guest during the New Year's holidays, Mr. Bruce MacBeth of Campbellton, N.B.

Miss Harriet Campbell of Summerside has been spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. Gordon Kinsman, and Mr. Kinsman, Truro, N.S., before returning to resume her studies at Mount Allison University.

Mrs. Frank Daley was hostess at bridge at her home in Summerside on Monday evening.

Mrs. Mark Gaudet, accompanied by her son, Graham, left Summerside Monday morning for Montreal, where the latter will enter the Royal Victoria Hospital for treatment.

Chief Justice and Mrs. Thane A. Campbell, Summerside, had as their guest during the New Year holidays, Mr. Michael Meecher, of Montreal.

Sgt. and Mrs. Frank Prichard and son Robert James, left for Petawawa, Ontario, on Monday, after spending the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. James Cairns, Summerside.

Chief Justice and Mrs. Thane A. Campbell are leaving today on return to Ottawa, after spending a few weeks at their home in Summerside.

WE AND OUR NEIGHBORS

Human Nature Insights Discussed in New Year

By RUHAMAH S. FRANK

And so in this New Year we have the latest example of the stupendous possibilities of the human mind—a moon-rocket! There are few minds in any country—and no country has the monopoly of such minds! Great enough for such achievement but mind-power alone is not enough. The imagination staggers before consideration of the effort, the intensity, the patience and sacrifice of every other interest that went into such a project!

NO AGE BARRIER
To most of us, endowed with brain power of (shall we say) lesser quality, must come the question: How much effort are we putting forth to make the best of the minds we have? Each must answer for himself. But those who are giving up the idea of "working at" serious reading or neglected music, or language study, or new skills, because THEY ARE TOO OLD, will have to drop that alibi! Extensive research these past years had indicated that learning does not stop at a given age—fifty or sixty or seventy or eighty! We can continue to add to our knowledge and understanding as long as we live—if we do not allow our minds to rust with disuse!

TIME DOES FLY
While we are at it a few more gleanings in the field of human behavior may be of value: Do you know that Time Does Fly for the older person compared to the rate it moves for the child? It seems, according to authorities that there is a time mechanism within us that clicks as much as five times as fast in the later years as in childhood!
DALE CARNEGIE IS WRONG
Winning Friends and Influencing People are Not the Same in the opinion of a large group of salesmen interviewed by a leading sociologist. To influence people to buy insurance policies, the salesmen claim, "aggressiveness and hard-bitting persistence are needed. But to win friends the quite different qualities of sympathy, understanding and sociability" are required.

ELLEN'S DIARY

Farmers Read Funnies— Seems Strange To James

There is now sweet scent of burning maple sticks in the kitchen and a song of woodland dells is the tea-kettle's tune... lazy chuckle of summer zephyrs through green branches we hear, and notes of the thrushes' lays in the purpling dusk.

The black cat, warm-coated and handsome, smiles up happily from the depths of the old armchair, green, green, at a snicker.

"We have a Christmas gift—a missy of a car at the barns" he offers.

"Oh?"

"Yes—and she's the shy one!" he nods. "Not that I don't much admire demure femininity myself. Indeed, I can assure you I do, but not to the point of no communication! Up to this, she refuses even to speak. Though now that I think of it" he grins "when our paths chanced to cross in the cat's light, and I said a quick 'Howdy!' I'm sure I was rewarded with a fleeting smile."

"That neat cat, Ellen" James offers drowsily from the couch "seemed to be more friendly today. She ate the food we put out, for her and I'd say was more content."

James has been catching a nap, though not to sleep deeply. He always sleeps lightly, ear trained to catch any alien sound about: an off-key low, a plaintive bleat or chirch. This evening thoughts are with the pair of workmen in the cellar where repairs are being made to the pump which of late has been more or less out of tune.

The younger farmer, himself like Rob and Jamie: something of a handyman where machinery is concerned, has called in as his aide or more likely as his foreman, he that is "the young lad" from the house on the hill, a natural since a youngster with machine. James is content to feel such repairs to the younger heads and hands, born to this, to him, strange age of machinery they enjoy.

"You didn't buy 'Funnies!'" James exclaimed with a half-chuckle when Mack later displayed one of his purchases.

"Now tell me: Where do they fit in with the farming?"

"I can't say" the youngster grinned, "but I could name some farmers who read them."

"Not real farmers?" James said.

"Yes, real farmers" Mack noided.

"Then I bet their cattle are standing on their heads."

"No, their stalls are clean and well bedded."

"Doesn't sound right to me. There's something astray somewhere in this farming, I'm thinking!"

"There!" he rouses now stirred by a sound from the cellar. "Yes he smiles rising 'she's pumping—and almost noiselessly now. They're handy lads, aren't they?" he comments. "They'll be cold and tired. Better he smiles 'stir the fire, Ellen and let's all have a cup of hot tea!"

Until tomorrow—Diary—Good-night

MARY HAWORTH

Intuition Was 100% Please Forget This Man

Dear Mary Haworth: I spent much time for several months with a man some years my senior, who tends to be an intellectual. He gave me a terrific rush and I wasn't too impressed, until finally he got tired of the way I treated him and left me alone.

When we met again I volunteered that I'd made a mistake and cared for him more than I had realized. I tried to be nicer thereafter, and thought I was.

When I told him later how much I cared, he brushed it aside, saying I didn't know what I was talking about. Yet he was flattered and delighted. I denied him dates for two weeks and he stopped calling. A month or so passed, and I asked him to dinner thinking I'd been at fault.

NEVER CHASED
Again I said frankly that I was wretched without him, and again he was skeptical. Also, though warm and affectionate, he protested there was too much of the physical, and not enough other companionable elements in our relationship. In parting, he said husbands? Not money but good health, good heredity, intelligence, honesty, emotional maturity! They certainly Want a Lot! But they deserve a lot. They are willing to marry young and share the family responsibilities, financial and all. (And as you know, divorce rate is going down, size of families is increasing).

PRETTY WIVES
Remember, we used to think that the gifted child was usually less handsome, less healthy, less adjusted than the average child? We now know that the contrary is true. We have persisted however, in believing that pretty girls are more flighty, less willing to "settle down" than their not so attractive sisters. Sorry, but research indicates that "attractiveness in a wife helps in marital adjustment." So much for Sour Grapes!

we both had better "think it over."

Never before have I worn my heart on my sleeve for anyone—which makes me sure I really love him very much. I feel ready to devote myself fully to making him happy (I could have done it better earlier, except that I didn't trust him—but, to be perfectly honest he claims he's doomed to bachelorhood).

I've learned from friends that a previous romance of his fizzled, a few years ago. When the girl finally got fed up and announced her engagement to someone else, he panicked and proposed. I figure he was very hurt and fears getting hurt again... It is awful waiting to hear from him: Can a man turn on and off his affections. Just like that? Please advise. — L.Y.

FIRST REACTION
Dear L.Y.: As I see the picture vividly apparent both on and between the lines of your letter—your first reaction to this chap was sound. Your intuition was batting 100 per cent. As a courtier of women, he is a phony.

You've panicked in respect to him, because he has gutted your self-esteem. He has caused you to feel bankrupt of femininity—and that's why you are wearing your heart on your sleeve, trying to win a genuinely masculine responsiveness from him, when he hasn't got it to give.

Having lost your self-confidence in association with him, due to his essentially empty, false and pretentious dalliance, you now feel compulsively that only he can repair the damage—by loving you wholeheartedly, if only you can persuade him to do so. You construe this anxiety as proof that you love him truly; when actually it is symptomatic of sick emotional confusion on your part—a price you pay for trying to share psychological intimacy with him.

This is a customary net result, when a psychologically maturing, emotionally normal woman takes stock in a man whose emotions are fixated at the pre-adolescent or homosexual level of development.

SEA VIEW W.I.
The regular monthly meeting of Sea View W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Douglas Woodside on Wednesday evening, Dec. 3. The meeting opened by singing "Silent Night" and repeating the "Mary Stewart-Collect" in unison. The minutes of the last meeting were then read, approved and signed. The roll call was answered with an exchange of Christmas gifts by thirteen members.

During the month of November a card party was held in the hall in aid of the "Springhill Disaster Relief Fund" and another at the home of Mrs. Earle MacKay.

The sick committee reported that two treats had been sent. Correspondence was read and it was decided to send $5.00 to the T.B. League and $3.00 towards paying expenses to send a delegate to the Triennial Conference of the Associated Country Women of the World. Collection amounted to $1.30.

Programme consisted of a Hoop contest, the prize being won by Mrs. Charles Adams. Mrs. Leland Campbell filled the role of Santa and presented the members with presents.

Mrs. Heber MacLellan gave very interesting demonstration on making home-made chocolates. Meeting then adjourned and lunch was served by the hostess and committee.

ment. That's your problem in a nutshell.

BASED ON LONELINESS
So what's the remedy? Simple to prescribe; perhaps a bit more difficult to apply. Namely, cut your losses and forget him. Don't play the fool, chasing an illusion. Get psychiatric help, in establishing a real and rewarding interchange with normally disposed young persons in your environment.

Your humble pursuit of this fellow, after he began to introduce instability and severity into his courting routine—typical torture devices in the deviate's repertoire—means mostly that you are lonely as the usual thing.

If you weren't, you wouldn't have accepted his suit in the first place, after sensing something amiss in his personality—nor grabbed so fortitously, when he finally saw fit to put you through the wringer of his particular brand of sadism. Sure he can "turn his emotions off and on," since nobody matters to him—but himself. — M.H.

MR. AND MRS. ALEX MOLNAR

Island Girl Is Married At Fort MacLeod, Alberta

Holy Cross Church in Fort MacLeod, Alberta, was the scene of a recent very pretty wedding when Frances Gorman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.E. Gorman, South Melville, Prince Edward Island, and Alex Molnar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Molnar of Fort MacLeod exchanged vows at a nuptial Mass, with Rev. Father J.W. Morrow officiating.

Presiding at the organ was Mrs. May Steiner with Miss Jenny Steele as soloist.

The lovely bride, given in marriage by her cousin, Mr. Basil Monaghan of Balgonie, Sask., was gowned in a ballerina-length white nylon chiffon dress with lily point sleeves.

Her finger tip veil cascaded from a pearl crown and she carried a white prayer book covered with rose carnations with bud streamers.

Miss Eileen Molnar, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, and wore a blue nylon ballering length dress, with matching headpiece and gloves. She carried a hoop of picotte carnations.

Mr. Basil Gorman, R.C.A.F., Saskatoon, brother of the bride, was groomsmen and Mr. Norman Clarke of Fort MacLeod was usher.

The reception, following the ceremony was held in the Palmina dining room. The toast to the bride was proposed by Father Morrow and responded to by the groom. Out of town guests were present from Calgary and Commenara, Alberta, Balgonie and Saskatoon, Sask.

Congratulatory telegrams were received from the following people. Mr. and Mrs. J.E. Gorman, Miss S.E. Gorman, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dopahue, Mrs. J.D. McGuigan, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard McDonald, all of P.E. Island; Mr. and Mrs. J.C. Gorman, St. Johns, Newfoundland, Mr. Bill Molnar, Chatham, N.B.

For travelling to Great Falls, Montana, the bride wore a scarlet suit with beige accessories. The couple are making their home in Fort MacLeod.

Wood Islands Is Setting For Very Pretty Wedding

Wood Island's Presbyterian Church was the setting of a pretty wedding on Nov. 29th, 1958, when Janet Montgomery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur MacMillan, Wood Island, became the bride of J. Don Eua, son of Mr. Mrs. Malcolm MacKenzie, Montague, P.E.I.

Rev. Donald Nicholson, Belfast officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. Johnny Cook, Charlottetown, was organist and played "O Perfect Love" and "I Love You Truly" during the ceremony and signing of the register.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a floor length gown of white net and lace over satin with matching headpiece and veil. She carried a white Bible garlanded with red roses.

Miss Marie MacMillan, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a ballerina length gown of turquoise blue nylon and carried a nosegay of white and pink carnations.

Mr. Stanley MacMillan, brother of the bride, acted as best man and the ushers were Edwin Musick, cousin of the groom, and Alan MacMillan, brother of the bride.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents for fifty guests. The toast to the bride was proposed by Rev. Donald Nicholson and responded by the groom. Mrs. Duncan MacKenzie was in charge of the guest book.

After the reception the bride and groom left on a honeymoon trip through the Maritime provinces. For travelling the bride chose a royal blue banlon wool dress with white accessories and blue Harris tweed top-coat and a corsage of red roses.

Previous to her marriage the bride was tendered a shower by Wood Island West Women's Institute and a miscellaneous at the home of Mrs. Cyril Singleton, Charlottetown, and a shower at the residence of the bride by the friends of the groom.

Following the honeymoon the couple took up residence in Charlottetown where the groom is employed with Maritime Electric Company Limited.
