

A COUNTRY GARDEN

Apple-blossoms, budding, blowing... In the soft June air;... with sunshine overflowing...

Here is fragile tuning, Here rhythm, all the leaves, The blossoms, all are crooning...

Then all about is light, And leaf and blossom throng; This seat beneath the bright Apple boughs is song!

It is a happy month and with all the trees blossoming... in the Cydonia or in flowering Quince is beautiful...

In spite of the wet weather the tulips are still lovely and some varieties seem to hold up better than others...

It is not always "sunshine and light" in a garden but there are always compensations...

In its honour prodigal nature waves A princely vestment, and princely showers...

This spring it has been difficult to get all the planting and mowing done because of the rainy season...

One nice garden visitor when he is at my crowded borders with some grass showing through...

WHY HAVE SORE FEET? JUST RUB W/ MINARD'S LINIMENT

the Geranium International Society telling of the growing of these plants around the world. In this bulletin we read that the fancy leaved geraniums are truly the jewels of the Geranium Family...

When the beds of tulips are lifted to be dried in an out of place with a covering of sand or heeled in, then the geranium slips so carefully kept through the winter will be planted for bloom and color until fall.

While we are working in our garden in the springtime it is necessary and pleasant to be planning for next year. The violets and Iceland poppies sown last year are lovely now and have never been better.

THE SONG OF THE SWEET BRIAR Wild-Rose, Sweet-briar, Eglantine, All these pretty names are mine...

The Sweet-briar in the garden here was pruned of the dead wood the other day and it is the thorniest rose I have ever pruned.

In this honour prodigal nature waves A princely vestment, and princely showers...

Strange but True

By F. H. MacArthur

Believe it or not, but a tree gets more food from the sun and the atmosphere than from the soil in which it has its roots. And every leaf breathes in life for the tree, and out health for mankind...
