MacGuigan - MacLellan Nuptials

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Dunstan's Basilica on Tuesday morning, Sept. 5th when Miss Vivian MacGuigan of Charlottetown was united in the Holy Bonds of Matrimony to Mr. Charles MacLellan of Sydney, N.S.

The wedding ceremony and nuptial mass was celebrated by Rev. Gavin P. Monaghan, D.D. The bride was given away by her father Dr. J. D. MacGuigan and was beautifully gowned in white lace with a graceful train; her veil of embroidered net was capped with a tiara of seed pearls and she carried a shower bouquet of pink roses and lilies of the valley. She was attended by her sister, Genevieve, who wore pink lace with shoulder length veil of tulle and carried cornflowers and snapdragons. Little Mary Farmer as flower girl was charming and handsome in a gown of pale blue tulle and carried a basket of mixed flowers.

Mr. John MacLellan, brother of Mr. Charles MacLellan was groomsman. Miss Clarice MacGuigan wore a gown of pale green velvet with a corsage of sweet peas and Miss Imelda wore a gown of dusky pink velvet with a corsage of garden flowers. Mrs. MacLellan mother of the groom wore a gown of black velvet with a corsage of pink roses. Miss Presce MacLellan sister of the groom wore blue net with a corsage of sweet peas.

The ushers were Mr. William MacGuigan, Mr. Joseph McLaughlin, Mr. Wilfred Gormley and Mr. Lloyd Mulrhead.

Musical during the Mass was played by Miss Jos. Dougan and Miss Bernadette Gaudet sang several appropriate hymns.

Immediately after the ceremony of the bride and a delicious buffet luncheon was served. Tea was poured by Mrs. (D-) J. E. Blanchard and Mrs. Gerald E. Hatters. The bridesmaids were assisted by Mrs. Nell Nolan, Mrs. John MacLellan, Mrs. Orville Derrach, Misses Clarice MacGuigan, Norah MacLellan, Margaret Prowse, Ellen MacPherson, Margaret McDonald, Letitia Bernard, Dorothy Hennessey, Isabel McDonald, Peggy McLellan.

The toast to the bride was given by Rev. Gavin Monaghan, D.D., to which the groom responded fittingly.

During the reception music was played by Miss Alex McLean and solos were sung by Mr. Fred Mullins of Halifax.

The bride's going away costume was a mustard wool crepe with brown crepe and a delicate, comfortable left by meter on a honeymoon trip through eastern Canada and United States.

Many beautiful gifts testified to the popularity of the young couple.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Jas. E. MacLellan and Mrs. John MacLellan, Mrs. Presce MacLellan, Mr. Cyril MacLellan and Mrs. McKinnon of Sydney, N.S., Mr. Fred Mullins of Halifax, Mr. and Mrs. Mark J. Demore of St. John's, Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Derrach, Mr. James Higgins of Kensington, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon MacGuigan, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Haslam, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Haslam, Mr. and Mrs. P. E. I. McLean and Mrs. R. B. Reeves and Mr. Russell Burns, Charlottetown, Mrs. Letitia Bernard of Foxton, Mass. (Patriot Please Copy)

Heroic Life Of Nurse Unfolded In New Picture

"Four Girls in White" Companion Piece to Famous "Men in White"

"Four Girls in White," opening at the Prince Edward Theatre today pays a tribute to the great profession of nursing. Featuring a cast of five principals, comprising Florence Rice, Una Merkel, Ann Rutherford, Mary Howard and Alan Marshal, with Kent Taylor, Buddy Ebsen and Jessie Ralph in support, the picture comes as a companion piece to the notable "Men in White" of several years ago, and the more recent "Young Dr. Kildare."

"Four Girls in White" is the story of four girls who enter upon nursing with different purposes. It treats mainly with Norma Page, played by Florence Rice, whose real purpose is in embracing the noble calling to win a rich doctor or patient for a husband. Unscrupulously she schemes to gain her end. When she comes in contact with Alan Marshal, she seems more interested in his work as a career than for money. Norma discards him and turns her attention to Robert Melford, a rich playboy, played by Kent Taylor.

Her scheming results in the death of a fellow nurse at the hands of a doctor, and when she resigns the hospital from a yacht-trip she finds herself shunned by fellow nurses. Before she can resign the dreaded "distress" call comes in. Norma joins the other nurses and risks her life to return a heroine, with the respect of the girls and the love of Dr. Melford as a reward.

More like that, to send them along. Two new members were elected—Miss Jessie Fullerton and Mrs. H. A. C. Scarth. Registration Blanks will be ready at noon Wednesday, in the general assembly hall of the Canadian Legion Building 57 Grafton St. City.

POLICE COURT—Four drunks were fined at the police court yesterday; others had their bail estreated or were handed over to the military authorities. There were two fines of $25 for Prohibition offences and one Prohibition information was withdrawn by the Crown. A man charged with assault causing actual bodily harm was remanded till Saturday. A Prohibition case was adjourned one week.

NOT TO DISBAND—Lt. Col. L. J. Lowther, commanding the P. E. I. Light Horse, writes The Guardian contradicting the report that the regiment had been disbanded. He claims that the report was a reflection on some 500 citizens of this Province who have worked hard for years building up this regiment which now has a high record at National Defence Headquarters, Ottawa. The Guardian is exceedingly pleased to learn the Light Horse is still carrying on and that the report that it was to be disbanded is without foundation.

BIRTHDAY PARTY—Family and friends gathered at the home of Mr. Benl Jenkins, Mount Abbot on Sept. 2nd, to celebrate his ninety-first birthday. Born in 1848 Mr. Jenkins is the oldest resident in the community. He enjoys good health and takes a keen interest in public affairs. Many congratulatory messages and gifts were received by Mr. Jenkins from friends in different parts of Canada and the United States. A happy evening was spent in games and music, and after a delicious supper the party concluded with "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

Mr. Ray Keenan, Charlottetown, a patient in the Prince Edward Island Hospital was much improved last night it was stated. Mr. Keenan was taken ill suddenly on Saturday.

French Army

In Closer Contact

Northern operations were believed to have brought the opposing French and German forces into more direct contact than in the south.

It was stated, however, that the activities had not advanced far enough to merit more than the official announcement that operations "develop normally."

The French action was co-ordinated with Poland's efforts against Germany.

On Eastern Front

From the eastern theatre of operations Polish dispatches reported that the "Smigly-Rydz" troops were making some slight advance in their attack on East Prussian lines, although they acknowledged "strategic" withdrawals in some sectors. (The Berlin communique reported the capture of Katowice, Silesian industrial centre, and large gains on other Polish fronts.)

The Polish counter-offensive started simultaneously with the beginning of French operations against Germany's Siegfried line of fortifications yesterday.

Important

CLAIMS AIR MASTERY

Germany's air force tonight claimed continued mastery of Poland's air while officials eyeing the western front asserted at 6 p.m. (2 hours earlier) that the single plane had been fired in the Rhineland by either Germany or France.

A supreme army command communique said the German advance was retreating in disorderly retreat before the German advance eastward also announced a British air raid on German naval bases had been repulsed.

Two more British planes were reported shot down over Hamburg today.

An official announcement said also the British lost 12 out of 20 planes which flew over Northwest Germany just before dusk last night (including the Wilhelmshaven and Cuxhaven raiders).

CONFLICTING REPORTS

The announcement said "no damage whatsoever was inflicted on German lines." It also announced two of Germany's five battleships were heavily damaged, admitting the raiders suffered "some casualties."

Seven planes were said to have been shot down between the Netherlands border and Wilhelmshaven and five more over Wilhelmshaven harbor. All the British bombs fell in the water, it was stated.

Another British bomber was reported shot down over German bank, but it was possible this report concerned one of the participants in last night's battle.

The "German communique" asserted the German land forces were pushing ahead through Poland.

Reichswehr Hitler was announced to be personally observing the spectacle of a German army column crossing the Vistula River just south of Kholm. "The Polish city of Kholm is the largest of the border province... and carrying its advance onward from the east bank of the river."

Northern Poland was described as "Poland, the communique stating—"Since yesterday, indications point to a growing recognition by the German army of their hopeless situation and they are trying desperate individual operations to force open the iron ring."

Eleven Polish planes were reported shot down today between Warsaw and Lodz, making a total of 42 reported destroyed since the start of the campaign and 65 in the last 48 hours. The Poles, taken by surprise, it was stated, gave up Katowice and Chorzow without a struggle, the mines placed under their great industrial plants, leaving the greater part of the industrial equipment intact.

Gamelin's Problem

The problem which General Maurice Gamelin's general staff confronts was, in the broadest terms, no secret. It is one of delivering a sufficiently hard blow against Germany in the west to result in effective aid to Poland by forcing the Nazis to withdraw a substantial portion of their forces from the eastern front.

Hitler announced the German army's intention to clean up Poland quickly while holding on to France and Britain behind the Siegfried line with a minimum of effectives so that almost the full German force would be used in the east.

Since Hitler has chosen to remain on the defensive in the west, France was left to take the initial offensive. Gamelin thus is the first French commander since Napoleon to be faced with such a problem.

Problem In Strategy

This apparently means the elimination of the salient created by the frontiers which swing into Germany just north of the Siegfried line. The main attack is delivered in the centre line study of a map shows it to be obvious that the German army might close in with a sinner movement endangering French success.

On the other hand, there are specific advantages to attacking either or both flanks without the aid of a frontal attack. If such an operation were successful it would mean the German flank would have to swing back on Germany as a most straitening out the line so that the French would be in a position to deliver a frontal attack.

INCREASE IS SHOWN

MONTREAL, Que. Sept. 5.—The gross revenues of the all inclusive Canadian National Railway system for the 10 day period ending August 31, 1939 were $3,878,388 as compared with $7,702,514 for the corresponding period of 1938 an increase of $175,874.

for about a week and that the coast guard had been asked to supply it with food and water.)

As officials sought to ascertain the total number of lives lost in the attack, the first on a passenger liner in the new war, a grim company of survivors who landed at the Scottish and Irish ports declared the liner was not only sunk by a torpedo but also shelled by a submarine.

Grime faced, hollow-eyed and ragged, the survivors looked the tragedy they had been through and talked about it in quiet but bitter tones. Their stories were similar—of heroism, of the brutality of the attack, of miraculous escapes, of tragic partings and of happy reunions.

They looked the tragedy they had been through and talked about it in quiet but bitter tones. Their stories were similar—of heroism, of the brutality of the attack, of miraculous escapes, of tragic partings and of happy reunions.

They ridiculed assertions put forward in Berlin that no German submarine was in the vicinity and that the liner must have struck a mine.

There was agreement between the captain of the steamship and other officers and passengers that the liner had been sunk by a torpedo from a German submarine. They said the enemy craft had afterwards boldly come to the surface and fired at the sinking hulk in an effort put the wireless out of commission to prevent an SOS from being dispatched.

Shelled by Submarine

The number of dead had not been determined tonight. About 200 were injured and many suffered from exposure. The vessel had 434 Canadian passengers and 300 Americans. Her total complement of passengers and crew numbered 1,347.

About 1,000 survivors were landed at Greenock and Galway by rescue vessels.

Surviving Canadian passengers told of narrow escapes. Mrs. Elizabeth Turner of Toronto recovered consciousness after the explosion and found herself lying close to several dead men. John Bigelow of Sibleald, Alta., described how he dived into water in his cabin to save his five-year-old son.

Rescue 169

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—(AP)—The Maritime Commission said today its cargo vessel City of Flint had rescued 169 United States citizens who were aboard the British liner Athenia when it was sunk off the coast of Scotland. It was believed a number of Canadians were also aboard.

Officials said the City of Flint was en route to the United States but declined to give the vessel's exact whereabouts or where it planned to dock.

The City of Flint also has aboard an undetermined number of persons living in other countries. No list of these persons has been prepared.

Pathetic Scenes

Pathetic scenes occurred as survivors were landed at Galway and Greenock uniting families who had been separated as they crowded into lifeboats.

Children who had lost their parents were carried weeping from the rescue ships to hotels or hospitals.

Evelyn Moore, 39, of Regina, Sask., and Dorothy Moore, 12, of (164 Boothtown Road), Halifax, were among a group of 12 survivors sent to the western infirmary at Glasgow greater.

Most of the rescued were scantily clad in pajamas or other light clothing and many of them were without shoes. They had spent hours in open boats—some as long as 12 hours.

McEwan, describing the ordeal, said:—

"I had a terrible time, and we knew at once what it was. We all put on our lifebelts and went to our stations. The submarine then dived out of sight and several times during the night when we were in the lifeboats we heard the submarine passing below us."

"One member of the rescue crew related:—

"I saw a group of five boats and in the water a number of young children who had been drowned. The boats were full, some of them badly flooded, and some had people clinging to their sides."

Robert Gillan, Glasgow, member of the Athenia's crew, said he saw a 12-year-old girl lying dead in a deck chair, her body torn by shell splinters.

A Mrs. Fisher of New York, too distraught to take any food, sat in a hotel at Glasgow asking for news of her six-year-old son.

"When the Athenia was struck" she said, "I rushed out of my cabin calling for my son. I saw him at one of the companionways but before I got to him everything was plunged into darkness."

"I never saw my boy again. I distinctly saw the German submarine come to the surface after it had torpedoed us."

Crew member Donald McMillan of Stornoway ridiculed the suggestion the Athenia had struck a British mine. "There is no doubt it was a submarine," he said. "Several sailors saw her. The torpedo struck her when it was quite clear. No warning of any kind was given."
