3 Sows Get High Scores In Advanced Registry

Three slaughter test scores of more than 90 in advanced registry was the splendid record achieved by three more Island sows in the latest report issued by the R.O.P. board for swine. E.B. Carrier and N.W. MacLeod and Sons, Bridgetown had animals registering tests scores of 92. Col. F.I. Andrew, Charlottetown had one with a score of 91. The slaughter test score is based on the dam's ability to produce offspring that measure up to strict grading requirements and her ability to farrow and save a good sized litter. The animals, their owner, and the test scores are as follows with the first figures indicating the number in the litter, the second the number of days it took the test pigs to reach maturity and the final figures the actual slaughter test score: Cherry View View Susan 10M, E.B.
