Kensington Club Has Goodwill Ambassador

SUMMERSIDE BUREAU OF THE GUARDIAN

A Montreal native, Swen Jonsson, has been appointed goodwill ambassador for the Kensington Lions' Club.

Mr. Jonsson, an employee of the Canadian Steamship Lines for the past 30 years, was inducted "in absentia" on Saturday and becomes a member at large of the Island Club.

In his capacity as ambassador, Mr. Jonsson, who travels the world on Canadian Steamships, will call on Lions' Clubs in England, Europe and South Americea, where he will carry greetings from the Kensington club and bring back with him tidings from clubs visited.

It is felt that this will put the Kensington Club in a position of gaining personal contact with other Lions' clubs throughout the world.

Mr. Jonsson will visit his home club at least once a year and bring with him a personal message from Lionism.

The new ambassador, who speaks eight languages has attended meetings of the Kensington club and has kept well informed of its activities.

In speaking with Eric Jessome on Friday evening, Mr. Jonsson asked that he be admitted to membership to the club with the result that he was immediately appointed ambassador by the board of directors.

He informed the club that his first port of call will be England and the Scandanivian countries. The club is looking forward to his return from these countries and his personal visit.

When asked why he chose to be a member of the Kensington Club, Mr. Jonsson replied that he considered the Kensington club to be one of the more aggressive and hard working clubs and that was his reason for requesting membership.

Company Official Says Tape Legal

Alan H. Holman, president of R.T. Holman Ltd., said Saturday that the firm which he heads had never knowingly contravened any laws. Mr. Holman was commenting on reports that the province was considering action on the issue of "so-called trading stamps and similar devices."

Holman's recently began offering premiums on the basis of "goldy tapes" issued at the firm's Charlottetown and Summerside Foodland stores.

Representatives of the Canadian Association of Consumers are scheduled to meet Attorney General R.R. Bell this week to register the group's opposition to trading stamp plans. Representations also are in prospect from retail merchant groups.

In discussing these developments Mr. Holman made the following statement:

"For 102 years Holman's have been the leading retailers of Prince Edward Island and have never knowingly contravened the laws of our country.

"Before embarking on this broad project, legal counsel was obtained. The advice we have received is that we are in no way contravening the criminal code of Canada and that the 'goldy tape' plan is perfectly legal."

Paper-Backed Pocketbook Finally Gains Respectability

By BERNARD DUFRESNE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The popular but sometimes maligned paperback pocketbook has finally attained respectability.

Once found almost solely on news stands, it now has found it was onto the shelves of public libraries. Apparently, it is proving to be more popular than ever.

The move of the low-price paperback to the right of the tracks in the book world has even received the recognition of the bureau of statistics, whose survey of libraries for 1957 was released Thursday.

The report mentions in its section on special collections "one collection of pocket books" but gives no details.

THREE LIBRARIES

A check with the Canadian Library Association brought out the fact that there now are pocketbook sections in three public libraries. They are in London, Ont., Westmount, Que., and Fredericton.

"Circulation is very heavy, though this development still is in the experimental stage," said Elizabeth H. Morton, executive secretary of the association.

Miss Morton said that only the best titles, among paperback editions, get onto public library shelves. Many borrowers are helping build up the collections by handing in pocketbooks of their own when they return borrowed books.

"Librarians are often kept busy sifting through the donated titles to discard the undesirable ones for general circulation," she said.

She said the first recorded pocketbook collection was set up about six years ago at the London public library. It now has about 1,500 titles. The next one was established at the Westmount public library.
