Miss Grey Cup Finalist Has Close Island Ties

After two and a half hours of judging and a 36-minute verdict deciding time the judges returned, and it was announced to a breath - holding audience that Noreen Stead had been chosen as Miss Ottawa Rough Rider for 1964.

Noreen, a student at Ottawa Teachers' College, is the neice of Mrs. Louis Gaudet, 215 Belvedere Ave., Sherwood, and her mother is the former Evelyn MacInnis of Charlottetown.

As trumpets blared a fanfare and the 400-strong audience applauded, the nine other semi-finalists in the pageant rushed on stage to congratulate the winner.

NOREEN STEAD

Sheira Crepin, Miss Ottawa Rough Rider 1963, placed a crown of white and red flowers on Noreen's Head, amidst the popping of flashbulbs and the whining of movie cameras.

"I'm so thrilled, it's too wonderful, too wonderful," the auburn-haired, green eyed student blurted.

It had been a long and trying night for Noreen and the other girls.

They had to parade twice in shorts and tops, be interviewed, and make an appearance in cocktail dresses.

As the girls stood on stage the five judges checked them off as to poise, beauty, and personality.

Besides her new title, Noreen will receive $100 cash, two tickets to the Grey Cup game in Toronto with all expenses paid, a model's finishing course, a complete wardrobe, luggage and jewelry.

An accomplished pianist, Noreen is very versatile, and has been singing and playing the piano for 10 years.

The five-foot five-inch, 110 pound, 34-24-34 Miss Ottawa Rough Rider is also interested in aquatic ballet and of course is an Ottawa Rough Rider Majorette.

"I never thought it would be me — me out of all these girls," the excited Noreen stammered, "I'll do my best to represent Ottawa."

With the winning of the pageant, Noreen becomes one of the nine contestants for the Miss Grey Cup title, the winner of which will be announced preceding the Grey Cup Game this weekend.

matter first was raised in the Commons.

He said he won't be satisfied until the government empowers Mr. Justice Dorion to learn whether due process of law was followed and whether proper practices were respected in the handling of the case.

Mr. Nielsen's original charges Monday were that ministerial assistant Lucien Denis offered Montreal lawyer Pierre Lamontagne a $20,000 bribe in an effort to have the lawyer drop his opposition to bail for Lucien Rivard, arrested in Montreal last June on charges of narcotics smuggling to the United States. Court proceedings are still under way in the matter of extradition of Rivard to the United States.

Mr. Nielsen also said Guy Lord, former executive assistant to the justice minister, attempted to coerce Mr. Lamontagne in the same matter by mentioning possible loss of government legal business.

DIEF SEES A LIE

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said Mr. Favreau had lied to the Commons initially when he denied there was any truth in the charges by Mr. Nielsen.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the order - in - council establishing the inquiry "is one that pretends to be general but it is in fact so restrictive many of the things which will come out, in the event we have an opportunity of presenting them, cannot be brought before the commission."

Mr. Nielsen wondered why Prime Minister Pearson was not in Ottawa when a question of "such seriousness" was being debated. Mr. Pearson is in Western Canada.

Mr. Nielsen said he has been careful about the accuracy of his statements and said Mr Favreau "can't deny them because the minister knows these facts are in the police report."

He said Mr. Favreau also knows there are additional facts.

Labor Minister MacEachen challenged him to reveal whether he has seen the report and how he obtained it.

"Can you state you haven't seen the report?" asked the minister after Mr. Nielsen said the minister couldn't be serious.

CAN'T BE DENIED

"The minister cannot deny my facts," Mr. Nielsen replied.

"The minister of labor can draw his own conclusions."

When Mr. Nielsen asked Mr. Tremblay to tell what he knows and asked whether he was in his office when the bribe was offered, Richard Cashin (L—St John's West) jumped to his feet and accused the member of "McCarthyism and extremism."

Mr. Cashin objected to Mr. Nielsen's tactics for almost a minute — with Deputy Speaker Lucien Lamoureux vainly shouting for order.

Just before the day's sitting ended, Arnold Peters (NDP—Timiskaming) suggested that a small committee of lawyer-MPs be set up to help the government revise the inquiry's terms of reference.

Mr. Peters said the group should be composed of "outstanding lawyers" and suggested Larry Pennell (L—Brant - Haldimand), R. G. L. Fairweather (PC—Royal), Andrew Brewin (NDP — Toronto Greenwood) and Gilles Gregoire (Creditiste—Lapointe).

Transport minister Pickersgill, senior cabinet member in the house at the time, said he could not commit the government to such a decision but would take it up with his colleagues in the morning.

Development Officer Urged For W. Prince

ALBERTON BUREAU OF THE GUARDIAN

A meeting of interested farmers in the West Prince area was held Tuesday evening in the United Church hall in Alberton under the sponsorship of Alberton and West Prince Board of Trade.

The meeting was called to order by the president of the board, Fred Peters who called on J.W. Don Campbell to outline the recent activities of the West Prince Development Foundation.

Mr. Campbell, who was co-chairman of the foundation, explained that he felt the experimental growing of five field crops by 26 farmers had been a highly successful venture.

Following these remarks there was a general discussion and display of interest by the more than 40 farmers who were present.

As a result of some discussion a resolution was passed urging the provincial government to locate a development officer for the county at the earliest possible date and make a special effort to locate this rural development officer in the area of greatest need—the West Prince area.

The meeting also strongly urged that the department of agriculture appoint a full time director for their resources development program in the province.

A motion of gratitude and confidence was unanimously passed on behalf of Charles Thibert who acted as fieldman for the experimental crops program last season. It was considered imperative that Mr. Thibert be retained for the second phase of the program in 1965.

PROVISIONAL SLATE

It was decided to constitute a provisional executive to formulate a comprehensive organization that would tackle key areas of development. Special committees will be set up to deal with marketing, research, industry, field crops, pasture, dairying, packaging etc.

Walter Christopher was elected chairman, Lloyd Wilkie, vice-chairman; Everett Cahill, secretary and Heber Profitt, treasurer. The new executive will hold its first meeting Friday evening.

During the meeting great stress was placed over the amount of preparation that would be necessary this winter. Such things as soil samples, construction of green houses, silos and the ordering and organizing of seed and machinery. It is expected that anywhere from 50 to 200 farmers will be involved in the second phase of the agricultural development program.

Appreciation was expressed to the provincial government for considerable support received for the program and also to the group of five men who acted as the executive for the first phase of the project.

Both accused failed to answer summonses to be present in court, and following proving of the serving of summonses, the charges against them were proceeded with in their absence.

The charge against Richard Charles Green, Morell, of causing a disturbance by fighting, was dismissed following evidence by one crown witness.

Carl David Nicholson of Montague was fined $10 and costs for assaulting Lloyd Samms by striking him in the face with his fist.

Missing Man Found Safe

ALBERTON — Phillip Kinch, owner and manager of Alberton Industries boat building plant, was the cause of some concern Tuesday when he failed to arrive at New London after leaving Alberton about noon in a new fishing boat.

When he failed to arrive on schedule the fisheries patrol boat Howe Point left Alberton and located the missing boat about eight o'clock Wednesday morning on a sand bar near Hardy's Channel about 10 miles east of Alberton.

Except for a cold night in the unheated cabin on the boat Mr. Kinch was reported none the worse from his experience and returned to work immediately on return.

The cause of mishap was an engine failure.
