School Board Freedom Facing Threat From Education Costs

By ALEXANDER FARRELL

MONTREAL (CP)—The Quebec Federation of Catholic School Boards said here the rising costs of education threaten to destroy the freedom of local school boards.

The federation told Quebec's royal commission on education that local autonomy should be preserved because it is the parents, not the state, who have the main responsibility for education of their children and the local school board is the only body that adequately represents the parents.

Because the province is paying an ever bigger share of the education bill, however, "the hand of the provincial government is gradually spreading over the whole administration of local school boards," said Federation President Paul Desrochers.

The federation recommended that the provincial income tax be increased and the extra revenue allocated to education. To compensate the Quebec taxpayer, a corresponding decrease in his federal income tax should be sought.

Mr. Desrochers said total expenditures by the 1,489 local Catholic school boards in the province have reached $240,000,000 annually and probably will amount to $500,000,000 by 1970. Government grants already provided nearly one - third of the revenue and the proportion would inevitably increase.

To prevent the government's major financial role from leading to domination of local school boards, the federation proposed that responsibility for the pedagogical and financial aspects of education be split at the provincial level.

Authority in pedagogical matters — what is taught, who teaches it, how it is taught—would remain with the council of public instruction, a non-government body that runs Quebec's divided public school system through separate Roman Catholic and Protestant committees.

Money matters would be the responsibility of an entirely new body, to be called the "Executive Service," that would be responsible to both the cabinet and the council of public instruction. The federation proposed that it be an eight - member body, the cabinet and council each naming four members.

The Council of Public Instruction is made up 22 Catholic laymen and 22 Protestant representatives, named by the cabinet for life on recommendation of various education bodies, and the province's Catholic bishops are also members.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
2 NT	Pass	3 ♥	Pass
3 NT	Pass	4 ♥

Opening lead — ten of spades.

This hand occurred in a duplicate pair game. It is of interest chiefly because South wound up making twelve tricks, whereas other North-South pairs made, at most, only seven tricks. The extra trick, so important in many forms of duplicate play, came as a result of an unusual squeeze situation.

West led the ten of spades. South naturally feared that the lead was a singleton, so he won it in his hand with the queen, played a heart to the ace, and returned to jack. Declarer was trying to reduce the possibility of one or more spade ruffs which might defeat the contract.

West took the king of hearts and returned the three of spades. Of course, West could have cashed the ace of clubs instead of returning a spade, but if he had, South would have made only eleven tricks and we would have had no story.

Declarer took the spade with the jack and played three rounds of trumps, discarding three clubs from dummy. After he then led a spade to the king, this became the position:

North

South

Declarer now cashed the ace of spades and discarded a club. West was hard pressed for a discard and, in fact, could do nothing to prevent South from winning the rest of the tricks.

He could not afford to discard a diamond because declarer would cash the A-K of diamonds to establish the jack as a trick. Nor could West spare a club because declarer would then trump the ten of clubs, felling the ace, and dummy would win the last three tricks.

West was caught in a criss-cross squeeze.
