Nuclear Criticism Said No Surprise To Kennedy

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP) — The Washington Post says the Jan. 30 state department public criticism of Canadian nuclear policy was not concocted on the spur of the moment nor was it a surprise to the White House.

Saying diplomacy requires that the state department take the "rap" for the public criticism, The Post suggests that President Kennedy and his administration were well aware of all the Canada-U.S. nuclear developments.

This follows a report by Washington Star columnist Doris Fleeson suggesting that the public criticism, which Prime Minister Diefenbaker described as an unwarranted intrusion in Canadian affairs, was designed to help Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson in his fight against Diefenbaker.

Without mentioning any names, the columnist said a "rather important name" is linked to the speculation that "some well-meaning friend here decided to give Mr. Pearson a hand."

RUSK TAKES BLAME

State Secretary Rusk has taken personal responsibility for the statement and has maintained that President Kennedy did not see it before it was issued. The White House takes a similar position. An informant said the final draft was sent to the White House but it apparently ended up on the desk of an official in the office of McGeorge Bundy, Kennedy's national security adviser.

However, on the night the statement was issued, a White House informant said the president was well aware of the statement and the decision to issue it. The following day White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger confirmed that the president was kept abreast of all the developments but he did not say specifically that the president had seen the final draft of the statement.

The Post said the Kennedy administration decided to make the statement public because Diefenbaker, in his Jan. 25 speech in the House of Commons, had "distorted" the results of the Anglo-American Polaris deal at Nassau to a point where his remarks could cause confusion for the whole North Atlantic alliance.

"American diplomatic and military planners for several days debated what to do to try to set the record straight. One school of thought argued for sending a strong private diplomatic note to Canada. Another group maintained that this would only get buried in the Canadian files and that some public statement was necessary.

"The U.S. embassy in Canada urged a clarifying statement as did others in the state and defence departments."

PROTEST PACT

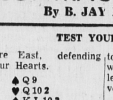
MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko called in the French and West German ambassadors Tuesday and handed them notes protesting the recent French-West German friendship pact.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By B. JAY BECKER

TEST YOUR PLAY

1. You are East, defending against Four Hearts.

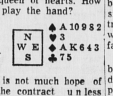


The bidding has been:

East	South	West	North
1♠	2♥	Pass	3♥
Pass	4♥

The bidding has been: West leads the four of spades which you win with the ten. South playing the five, and continue with the ace. South playing the eight and West the two. What would you play now?

2. You are declarer with the West hand at Six Clubs. North leads the queen of hearts. How would you play the hand?



1. There is not much hope of defeating the contract unless your partner has a trick in one of the minor suits, so you have to play on that basis, even this will not be enough, though, unless a fourth trick can be developed.

It is clear that declarer has the three of spades. (If West had the 4- 3- 2 originally, he would play the three on the second spade lead, not the two.)

You can therefore develop a trump trick for your side by leading another spade at this point. When partner ruffs and forces the ten from dummy, your K- 9-8 guarantee a trump trick regardless of what declarer does.

Declarer's hand may be something like this: Spades 853 Hearts AJ764 Diamonds AQ2 Clubs KJ. The spade continuation defeats the contract if West cooperates by ruffing it. It would not be wise to bank everything on a 2- 2 division of the spades. To draw trumps and rely solely on that would be pushing your luck too far.

There is a far better chance by playing for a 4- 3 break in diamonds (which occurs in 62 per cent of deals, as opposed to the 2-2 spade break which occurs in only 40 per cent of deals).

Win the ace of hearts and play a diamond to the ace and ruff a diamond. Then trump the king of hearts in dummy and ruff another low diamond.

If both opponents have followed each time, the last two diamonds in dummy are tricks on which two spades can be discarded after trumps are drawn.

If it turns out that the diamonds are not divided 4- 3, there is still a chance of making the hand by playing for the 2-2 spade break. Testing the diamonds before playing spades substantially increases the chance of making the contract.

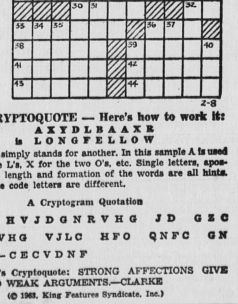
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X E is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the two O's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
