By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

This year's topic is The New Europe, and the place, as for the last 30 summer meetings, is Geneva Park, Lake Couchiching, Ont.

CMA Is Planning Hands-Off Stand In Medicare Issue

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. A. D. Kelly, general secretary of the Canadian Medical Association, said in a statement here his group would bring no pressure to bear against doctors going to Saskatchewan to help out in that province's medical crisis.

At the same time, he pleaded for assurance that none would be instituted against striking doctors.

He gave reporters a copy of a telegram he sent to Premier Lloyd of Saskatchewan, whose province is involved in a strike of doctors who refuse to work under the CCF-NDP medical plan which went into effect Sunday.

His telegram was in reply to one received from the premier asking assurances that doctors from outside the province who go into Saskatchewan to provide temporary medical service would not be penalized when they return to their home practices.

Dr. Kelly said Monday night the CMA would not force a viewpoint on any doctor.

onto: Eric W. Kierans, Montreal Stock Exchange; Henry A. Mhun, Montreal economist; M. A. Crowe, Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, Toronto; A. W. Gillespie, W. J. Gage Ltd., Toronto; Prof. James Eayrs, University of Toronto.

No resolutions are passed at the Institute's conference and no attempt is made to arrive at a consensus.

Opening lead—king of clubs.

If you're on the way to the slaughterhouse, you might just as well fight back because the worst that can happen either way is that you will wind up dead. This principle has its analogy in bridge, where you sometimes find yourself on the edge of a precipice and should do all you can to avoid being pushed over the cliff.

Take this hand, for example. West opened the king of clubs and South knew that East would trump the ace if it was played. It was dollars to doughnuts that West had a five - card suit for his vulnerable overcall.

So he applied his maxim of self - preservation referred to before. He ducked the king. East, as anticipated, showed out and discarded a diamond.

West couldn't afford to continue with a low club, because declarer would finesse the nine. So he led the queen of clubs. Again declarer ducked and again East discarded.

When West then played the five of clubs, East ruffed the ace to bring the third trick to the defense. East returned a low heart.

Finally coming into his own, South won the heart with the ace, drew a round of spades, and led the ten of clubs from his 10 - 8 combination. West, with only the J- 7 left, did as well as he could by covering with the jack.

Declarer ruffed in dummy, came back to his hand with a trump, and then discarded dummy's heart loser on the eight of clubs. As a result, he made four spades.

But suppose South had played the ace of clubs from dummy on the opening lead, or even on the second trick. Then he would have been defeated when East ruffed and returned a heart. He would have lost all three of dummy's clubs and a heart trick as well.

The hand shows once more that you can't play bridge automatically. The temptation to reach for the ace of clubs on the opening play is almost irresistible, but you have to learn to curb your reflexes when there's danger ahead.

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
