Health Consultant Describes Secret Of T.B. Control

The secret of tuberculosis control was described as keeping infectious persons where they cannot infect others by Miss Anna Grant, Health Education Consultant for the Canadian Tuberculosis Association, Ottawa, in Charlottetown Tuesday.

She added however, that this was not always easy to do. Some patients she described as "staying home" will refuse to admit to themselves that they have the disease and refuse to admit the danger to others.

Such persons sometimes refuse treatment in a sanitarium and insist on living at home with their families.

Miss Grant was on the Island on a weekend visit, taking time out from a series of talks she is giving in New Brunswick centres.

BID ADVANCE She said that one of the biggest advances made in the fight against TB on the Island was the amount of knowledge owned by the average citizen of the work being done here.

She added that, "when you know what you are doing and why it is to be done, you are really on the way to wiping out the disease."

Miss Grant first visited the Island 15 years ago and noted great strides taken in the work of battling the disease. Although she noted that in the interim new drugs and surgical methods have made a vast difference in control of the disease, she still believes that the education of the people has been the greatest help.

She said that on a recent visit to Abraham's Village a group of average women working there arranged tuberculosis tests, all returned.

Jury Returns "True Bill" Against Roger MacLean

Twenty-two year old Roger Clarence MacLean or Orwell, charged with the murder of his step-father, Walter Ross, will appear before a petite jury in Supreme Court this morning.

A "True Bill" was returned yesterday at the opening sitting of the Grand Jury. "True Bill" was returned in all three cases that appeared on the docket that faced the presiding judge, the Hon. Mark R. MacGuigan.

Others to appear at this sitting of Supreme Court include 42-year old Alfred Bernard, charged with bigamy and John William Lavelle, 24, charged with break, entry and theft.

Members of the Grand Jury included Preston Beck, foreman, of Mt. Edward Road; Milton Jenkins of Millview; John Docherty, Harrington; Wallace Douglas of Mt. Edward Road; J.W. Patterson Hunter River; Emmett Weisner Waterville; James Allen, Covehead; Andrew MacRae of Union Road; Arthur G. Hogan, Charlottetown; Lewis Howatt of Central Royalty and Joseph Nantes of Kelly's Cross. Absent for jurist's call this morning was Thomas Johnston of North Rustico.

Judge MacGuigan, in his address to the jurists, told them that a Grand Jury member's functions were to investigate indictable offences and to inspect government buildings, especially those frequented by the public.

He added that if any of the jurists felt that improvements could be made to these facilities, they should bring the matter up in their report.

The 497 cases that have been handled by the police since the last Supreme Court sitting in January, indicates that the police are still very much on the job.

He urged that although the major portion of these crimes were small, it still indicated that there was entirely too much petty work being done, calling for police investigation.
