A SUBTLE TREK.

HOW BOERS WITHDRAW BRITISH GUNS AND PRISONERS FROM KOORN SPRUIT

A despatch to the London Morning post from Bloemfontein, dated April 9, gives a description by Mr. F. R. Burnham, the American scout with Gen. Roberts, of the Boer trek from Koorn spruit, Mr. Burnham says:—

"Owing to a report that the British had occupied Brantford, and were moving to Wynberg, the course of the convoy was altered, and the Boers pushed forward with increased speed toward Wynberg. They expected cavalry pursuit every hour, and the convoy was protected with the greatest care and subtlety, the road taken being between kopjes held and evacuated in succession by rear guards. The trek proceeded throughout Sunday, and on Monday morning the convoy was 10 miles from Wynberg."

Mr. Burnham, explaining the Boer method of obtaining the range for rifle, says:—

"One man fired successive shots and watched the dust raised by the bullets until accuracy was obtained, and he then communicated the range to his comrades."

Mr. Burnham also mentions the way in which work entrusted to men with tired horses was immediately taken up by others with animals, if occasion offered, the newcomers being given instructions, and the range of men whose places they took.

He was also struck by the extraordinary fullness of the instructions given by the commander to the men before the movement was begun. These included information as to the route to be followed, the intention of the movement, and the different rendezvous in the case of either victory or defeat. Another thing that impressed him greatly was the "total absence of leading," in some instances every man having received instructions, and carrying them out independently and as speedily as possible.

AMERICA'S Greatest Medicine is Hood's Sarsaparilla, because it possesses unequalled curative powers and its record of cures is GREATEST.
