Now a franchise, if you can buy one, costs $50,000 and a prospective purchaser needs another $375,000 to $570,000 to the NHL reserve fund and $318,000 working capital. When New York Rangers face off against the Red Wings at Detroit and Montreal plays host to Chicago in the 1953-54 opener, President Clarence Campbell figures each club in the league will need at least $600,000 to break even over the 70-game schedule.

was the end of the Korean war. Hockey crowds dropped, especially in the United States, when the Korean conflict started.

Sees No Menace In TV

And Campbell sees no "menace" from television, blamed for smaller attendance figures in various other sports. "TV broadcasts of hockey will not hurt the NHL at any time," he said. "TV is promotionally good for hockey. Other programs may affect the attendance but television hockey will attract new fans for the NHL."

Here is the order the teams finished last spring: Detroit, Montreal, Boston, Chicago, Toronto and New York. With the Rangers and Toronto on the playoff sidelines, Montreal swept through Detroit, then polished off Boston Bruins victors over Chicago in the semifinals for the Stanley Cup.

Canada Uneasy Over U.S. Gov't Trade Policies

OTTAWA, (CP)—Canada has been showing considerable uneasiness in recent months over what policies the United States government will follow in international trade.

This feeling stems from two things—the apparent increase in activity by U.S. groups anxious to limit imports of Canadian agricultural, mineral and fisheries products and the prevalent suspicion that the Republicans are a party of protection.

Prime Minister St. Laurent underlined the worry in the minds of Canadian traders in a recent speech, heard by Douglas Stuart, the new U.S. ambassador to Canada.

Gets Permission To Remain In Canada

HAMILTON, (CP)—Frank Jenisch, escaped German prisoner of war has been granted permission to stay in Canada.

Jenisch, a German merchant seaman, escaped in 1946 at Cooksville, Ont., from a camp where he had been interned.

He said Friday that in 1946 he applied for permission to stay in Canada and then did "a very foolish thing." The camp was lightly guarded so he went for a walk and didn't come back.

Ottawa Tests Show Effects Of Potato Handling

OTTAWA — Rough handling of potatoes while moving them to storage, or putting them through the grader, may cause more injury to the tubers than the actual digging. Some farmers carefully supervise the operation of the digger but neglect to check on later operations.

In a test at the Central Experimental Farm in Ottawa, the potato digger caused major injuries to 2.4 per cent of the potatoes. The amount of injury was increased to 4.6 per cent by picking and storing operations. After the potatoes were put through the grader, the total damage caused by all operations amounted to 8.9 per cent, indicating it is important to guard against injury during storing and grading as well as digging.

Agitation In U.S.

These statements come against a background of agitation in the U.S. against Canadian oats, ground-fish fillets, lead and zinc. Investigations are either under way or pending by U.S. tariff bodies on the effect these products are having on price support programs or agricultural and mining in the U.S.

A report of the U.S. tariff commission is expected in a few months on its investigation into the effect Canadian oats imports

To Investigate

The commission will start an investigation into lead and zinc mining, producing and consuming in the U.S. this fall. The commission also has been asked to include a special investigation of lead and zinc imports to see whether tariff rates should be boosted.

Present tariffs on lead are about 1 1/2-16 cents a pound and on zinc about 7-10 cent a pound. These are guaranteed by GATT but President Eisenhower could withdraw them, paving the way for an increase, if they were found to be
