If you can't be aisy, Be as aisy as you can. Don't catch the filigets; you have found your place...

A Kentucky Belle's Talk Upon Love-Making.

According to the professed belief of a noted belle of this city who is now a round and rosy matron with children at her knee...

"A score of men made love to me," said the excellent lady above referred to, "and any one of them might have had me if he had studied the art of love-making with the same care he would give any time to a game of chess."

"I hold that love-making is an art. There is no such thing as love at first sight. We may admire each other in the beginning, but immediate affection is out of the question. First impressions, no matter how favorable, must be strengthened by artful cultivation."

Then love comes, and if the man who sues makes no mistake, he is sure to win, no matter what his condition may be. Of course he must talk well, dress respectably, and, above all wear clean linen and keep his face free from dirt.

If he does all this and sues judiciously no arrow or misfortune can keep the victor's wreath from off his crown. I might add that one of the requisites in personal appearance is clean teeth. A man may have a nose like a pumpkin, or a mouth like a mammoth cave, or eyes like a jay bird, a hand like a ham, or a foot as big as a canoe, and he can win, but if his teeth are not what a gentleman's teeth ought to be he will rue the day he gave his heart to a well-bred woman.

He may be tall or short, stout or lean, with a voice like a fog-horn and a carriage as ungraceful as the amble of a camel, and he may yet win any woman in the world, if he studies her with care and keeps his teeth clean.

"More women are won by judicious flattery than by any other means, for every woman is more or less vain, and she is naturally fond of the man who finds her weakness and handles it with skill. Let a woman once imagine that she has pretty eyes, and if a man will tell her so constantly and artfully, she is certain to have a weakness for him, which may be easily fanned into a flame of love, an ardent love at that. This is merely an example.

"All women profess to hate men who are jealous, but in this, they belie themselves extravagantly. No woman ever loved a man violently, when she was unable to infest with a sting of the green-eyed monster. It is true that some women are fond of complacent, easy-going and impassionate men, but as a rule such fellows can never inspire the genuine emotion. It is your hot-headed, passionate and impulsive man who can drive a woman to destruction. All women are more or less sentimental, and so are all good men for that matter. Sentiment has nothing to do with complacency. Therefore you can understand the drift of my argument.

"A man must be more or less jealous-headed; he must be more or less jealous and more or less passionate to inspire a woman with the love that burns. The man who wouldn't kiss a woman when she tells him with her eyes that her lips are yearning is an idiot. I don't mean by this that kissing is at all necessary, or even proper, but it is certainly a part and parcel of the art of love-making.

"I heard a pretty girl from Cleveland say once that she had been devotedly sought by young Mr. L. for four years. She was fond of him and admired him for many excellent qualities, but she finally let him go, because, as she put it, he never had the courage to once squeeze her hand. To my knowledge there never was a purer or better girl than that one, but she was too full of mercury to ever wed a man who lacked the spirit to at least squeeze her hand in a loveable way. Real women, I protest, care nothing for milk-and-water men, nor do they always worship heroes, but, as I have said, if any intelligent man, with clean linen and clean teeth, will make a judicious combination of flattery and ardent devotion, he can win any woman in the world who doesn't hate him for a cause in the beginning of the affair."—Cor. Louisville Commercial.

A Female Engineer.

Miss Mary Margin, a seventeen-year-old Georgia girl, has for several winters acted as engineer, running her father's engine to gin cotton, using her books, even while at the engine, for self-improvement. By her application, energy, and industry, she has made money enough to educate herself, first teaching, then attending school. She is now in the graduating class of the Columbian Female College, has been elected to write the class valedictory address, and holds the position of first honor in her class.

Man while he lives is never quite depraved, And woman's triumph is a lover saved. —Lamb.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE. KNOW THYSELF. A Great Medical Work on Manhood. Exhausted Vitality, Nervous and Physical Debility, Premature Decline in Men, Errors of Youth, and the untold miseries resulting from indigestion or excess. A book for every man, young, middle-aged and old. It contains 125 prescriptions for all acute and chronic diseases, each one of which is invaluable. So found by the Author, whose experience for 23 years is such as probably never before fell to the lot of any physician. 300 pages, bound in beautiful French muslin, embossed covers, full gilt, guaranteed to be a finer work in every sense—mechanical, literary and professional—than any other work sold in this country for $2.50, or the money will be refunded in every instance. Price only $1.00 by mail, post-paid. Illustrative sample 6 cents. Send now. Gold medal awarded the author by the National Medical Association, to the officers of which he refers. This book should be read by the young for instruction, and by the afflicted for relief. It will benefit all.—London Lancet. There is no member of society to whom this book will not be useful, whether youth, parent, guardian, instructor or clergyman.—Argonaut. Address the Peabody Medical Institute, or Dr. W. H. Parker, No. 4 Bullfinch Street, Boston, Mass., who may be consulted on all diseases requiring skill and experience. Chronic and obstinate diseases that have baffled the skill of all other physicians a specialty. Such treated successfully without an instant of failure. THYSELF
