Icebreaker Back From Arctic Cruise

QUEBEC, Nov. 12 — (CP) — The ice-breaker N. B. McLean returned today from a four-month trip to Northern Canadian outposts and some 300 relatives and friends of crew members cheered from a harbor pier as the tubby black vessel came into sight. Captain Charles-Antoine Caron said the 9,600-mile trip went well. Main job was supplying missionaries working in the north, escorting vessels through ice floes in the area and inspecting radio equipment at Federal Government stations. Rev. Lucien Schneider of Paris, a member of the Oblate Order, said he is returning to France after 12 years of missionary work among Eskimos. He said he could not get accustomed to Eskimo living habits. Three Eskimos suffering from tuberculosis were aboard the vessel. They were taken to a Federal Government hospital here.
