CARE OF THE EARS.

Never attempt to apply a poultice to the inside or the canal of the ear.
Never drop anything into the ear until it has been previously warmed.
Never wet the hair if you have any tendency to deafness. Wear an oiled cap when bathing and refrain from diving.
Never scratch the ears with anything but the finger if they itch. Do not use the head of a pin, hairpin, pencil tips or anything of that nature.
Never put milk, fat or any oily substance into the ear for the relief of pain, for it soon becomes rancid and tends to excite inflammation. Simple warm water will answer the purpose better than anything else.
Never be alarmed if a living insect enters the ear. Pouring warm water into the canal will drown it, when it will generally come to the surface and can easily be removed with the fingers. A few puffs of tobacco smoke blown into the ear will stupefy the insect.

READING.

David Pryde once gave some good advice to readers:
First.—Read first the one or two great standard works in each department of literature. Confine then your reading to that department which suits the particular bent of your mind.
Second.—Before you begin to peruse a book know something about the author. Read the preface carefully.
Third.—Take a comprehensive survey of the table of contents.
Fourth.—Give your whole attention to whatever you read.
Fifth.—Be sure to note the most valuable passages.
Sixth.—Write out in your own language a summary of the facts you have noted.
Seventh.—Apply the results of your reading to your everyday duties.
Old fashioned advices, these, but advantageous to the training mind all the same.

THE EARTH.

The astronomers say the earth is a ring of matter which was "shot off" by the sun 66,000,000 years ago and which gradually worked itself into a ball or globe.
It is believed that when the earth was at its maximum heat, say soon after parting with the sun, its bulk was 445 times greater than at present.
According to the astronomical, geological and anthropological evidence, man first appeared upon the earth 650,000 years ago.
The mean temperature of the earth, taken as a whole, is 50 degrees F., and the average annual rainfall is 30 inches.
The landed surface of the globe contains, as near as it is possible to ascertain, 83,600,000,000 acres.
Three-fourths of the landed area is unfit for cultivation on account of mountains, deserts, swamps, etc.
The earth rotates from west to east, but all of the astronomers in the world are not equal to the task of telling why.
Some geologists and astronomers profess to believe that the earth is solid. Others say that it is a molten mass enveloped in a pellicle of land.
Lord Kelvin, a noted authority, rejects the views of Ball, Langley et al. and declares that the earth is 100,000,000 years old.
The velocity of the earth's rotation on its axis at the equator is 1,440 feet per second, or nearly 25,000 miles a day.
Careful measurements prove that the average curvature of the earth is 6.99 inches to the statute mile.

FRIENDSHIP.

Friendship, of itself a holy tie, is made more sacred by adversity.—Dryden.
Communicating of man's self to his friend works two contrary effects, for it redoubleth joys and cutteth griefs in halves.—Bacon.
That part of our noble friends that we love is not that part that we embrace, but that insensible part that our arms cannot embrace.—Sir Thomas Browne.
What is a friend? One who supports you and comforts you while others do not. Friendship is the cordial drop "to make the nauseous draft of life go down."—Boswell.
Time draweth wrinkles in a faire face, but addeth fresh colors to a fast friend, which neither heate nor cold nor miserie nor place nor destinie can alter or diminish.—John Lilly.
When all things else are equal, prefer an old friend before a new. An old friend is like old wine, which, when a man hath drunk, he doeth not desire new, because he saith, "the old is better," but every old friend was new once, and if he be worthy keep the new one till he become old.—Jeremy Taylor.

IF YOUR LUNGS ARE WEAK.

Adopt an out of doors occupation, so as to live in the open air.
Do not live in a house with defective plumbing or bad drainage.
Do not frequent crowded or badly ventilated assembly rooms or sleep in close apartments.
Do not live in a damp locality, in a damp house or in a house with damp or foul cellar or surroundings.
Avoid as much as possible everything that tends to depress. All excesses should be avoided, and keep free from anxiety and mental and physical overwork.
These causes, by placing the system below par, render the persons less capable of resisting the disease, if exposed to the germs, in such a way as to bring about the development of consumption.
