THOUGHTS FOR OUR TIME
BY HIS EMINENCE CARDINAL MCGUIGAN

SIGN OF MATURITY TO FACE DIFFICULTIES
"Alchemy" is the name given to the study, that once occupied many men's minds, of how to turn base metals into gold. On a scientific level, this study was the forerunner of modern chemistry. It was also, in some men's hands, what we would call today a very good racket. There will probably always be people who want to get rich quickly and easily.
We smile today at the ambitions, doomed to failure, of the alchemists. We tend to find in their researches a waste of energy, a waste of time, but most of all an element of self-deception: they thought they would be able to "make gold," but we know, of course, that they would not.
We have our own equivalent of alchemy today. This is the immense effort that goes into the search for an easy life. But there is no such thing, and never will be.
Look at the lives of the people that you know. Can you find a single person, whose life you know well enough to judge, of whom you can say that he has an easy life?
DIFFICULTIES VARY
It is true, of course, that we do not all have the same difficulties, so often one man seems to have the things that would make life easy for someone else. It is also true that difficulties can be overcome, so that in any particular respect, life may become easier for us.
But taking life as a whole, it is the conclusion of every one's experience that there is no such thing as "an easy life."

It is a curious fact, however, that while no one has the thing itself, a great many people have the dream of such a life as the impelling force behind many of their decisions.
Some of the effects of alchemy were very profitable for mankind. Similarly, some of the effects of the dream of an easy life are profitable for men. It is, after all, human to try to improve our lot; it is part of the pursuit of happiness.
CAN BE DAMAGING
But just as alchemy deceived some of the people who came under its spell, so also this dream can have a damaging effect on men. If difficulty of one kind or another is a constant component of our lives, we do ourselves no service by refusing to face the facts, by always seeking for an easier way.
If it is carried too far, the dream of an easy life can lead to a refusal to face the real world in which we live. Those who make this refusal enter a closed world of mental suffering, and their lives, at least in this life, are of no value even to themselves.
It is not mere fatalism that tells us the value of facing the difficulties of life squarely. Nor do we do this merely to avoid dreams. The fact is, that this is the life that we have been created to face.
As we grow from childhood, we learn to turn from the imaginary of adult life. An important part of reaching maturity is simply the matter of facing difficulties with a good heart.

We are, everyone of us, square pegs in round holes. We will not learn to "fit in better" by dreaming or pretending that we are round. We will fit in better, on the other hand, by embracing without discouragement, the real conditions of our lives.

British Plan For Cyprus Is Opposed
By SHAHE GUEBENLIAN
NICOSIA (Reuters) — Troubles mounted Thursday as 700 Greek Cypriots went on a hunger strike to protest their imprisonment in British detention camps.
They are among 2,000 islanders held without trial for suspicion of terrorism.
In a letter to governor Sir Hugh Foot, the strikers protested their arrest and rejected Britain's partnership plan for the future of the island.
The British plan also ran afoul of underground and labor groups Thursday.
The Greek Cypriot organization EOKA urged Greek Cypriots "to be ready for a big battle against the British plan for Cyprus."
EOKA leaflets added that "450,000 Greeks are determined to resist Anglo-Turkish collusion by every means."
The leftwing Pan-Cyprian Labor Federation, the island's largest labor group, also joined in rejecting the British proposal.
Britain has suggested joint Anglo-Greek-Turkish control of the island for a trial period of seven years.
But the Greeks turned down the plan and continued to demand union of the island with Greece. The 100,000 Turkish Cypriots demand partition into Greek and Turkish zones.
Bitter fighting between the two communities has cost more than 1,000 lives in the last 40 months.
The Cyprus government announced Wednesday that 1,442 Greek Cypriots rounded up by British forces will be detained indefinitely under an emergency law. Another 550 arrested at the same time have been released. The emergency law requires that suspects may be detained without legal action for 28 days after which they must either be released, charged or served with detention orders.

BLOCK THAT STAIN!

You never hear a woman complaining about the gay, social whirl being too gay or too social, but a lot of women often wish that getting ready to go out wasn't such a whirl!

If you're a housewife who always seems to be in a rush whenever you're going out for a social evening, remember that it is better to be a little late than it would be to use cosmetics so hastily that you accidentally stain one of your best dresses.

Perhaps you know already that perfume or cologne should never be applied to any garment. You can get the same effect by using the perfume behind the ears or at the hairline—where there's no danger of a ruinous stain.

But when you quickly go to work with your nail polish, you may not remember that it, too, can ruin your clothes. Be careful not to have any spills, and do not try to continue dressing while your nail polish is still wet.

And when you have your lipstick on, place a facial tissue between your lips before drawing your dress over your head. You may have to touch up the lipstick again, but at least your dress will be safe from the disastrous effects of a lipstick stain.

And one more pointer: If you do get a stain on any garment, don't try to remove it yourself unless you are absolutely sure of what you're doing. Bring or send the garment in to us promptly. Given a chance with a spot or stain that hasn't been allowed to set or been tampered with, our expert spotter will be able to return you your dress with every trace of the stain removed, as if by magic.
