Steelworkers Oppose 5-Year Contract Offer

SYDNEY, Sept. 30 (CP)—Previously-rejected proposals worth nearly $15,000,000 to Sydney's 5,000 steelworkers were entered into conciliation board records today by president Lionel A. Forsyth of the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation.

The proposals which included a five-year contract with a total hourly increase of 44 cents and a formula providing full protection against cost of living increases, were rejected at a recent company-union meeting in Montreal.

And labor was still adamant today. William Mahoney, assistant national director of the United Steelworkers of America, said the five-year contract would tie the workers down too long. He suggested that the company and union "take another look at prospects for working out a two-year agreement."

"Canada's two other basic steel plants are now working under a two-year agreement. At the end of that time there may be changed conditions that would widen the gap to disadvantage of Sydney workers and which might result at the end of two years in having a very dissatisfied group of workers."

Expect Philip

Royal Highness," on his marriage Nov. 20, 1947.

Since the Queen's accession, their son, Prince Charles, the heir-apparent who will be four-years-old in November, has technically been first gentleman. Now his father the Duke holds that position only while the Queen lives. When she dies Prince Charles will automatically become king in direct line of succession.

If the Duke is still alive when his son ascends the throne, his position will once again need to be officially defined.

Cyril Hankinson, editor of DeWitt's Magazine, the 3,000-page guide to Britain's nobility, said tonight the Queen was doing the same thing as Britain's last Queen, Queen Victoria, who issued a similar warrant for her husband, Prince Albert.

Albert, however, was not a royal duke and 17 years after their marriage Queen Victoria gave him the title of Prince Consort.

"In my personal opinion Queen Elizabeth might not make Philip Prince Consort because he is already a royal duke," Hankinson said.

The Duke is a great-grandson of Queen Victoria. He gave up his title of Prince Philip of Greece and became a commoner when he married the British nationality in 1947.

He is the only son of the late Prince Andrew of Greece. He went to school in England and Scotland and was brought up in England spending most holidays with his uncle and aunt, the Earl and Countess Mountbatten.

rates. He said that since the end of the past war the railways had received increases amounting to 70 percent and agriculture, with its income tending to steadily decrease, could not stand continued increases in costs.

Briefly touching on the appeal of the Potato Board to the Supreme Court of Canada he said that this Province had helped the farmers of all Canada to the realization that they can regulate their own business. He traced the marketing legislation for the past 17 years and said "when your program was challenged in the courts you had farmers all over Canada with you." He also noted that this Province was the first to get funds from the central organization to aid in the court fight.

Referring again to the railways application for an increase in freight rates he told the meeting that if they heard that the application was refused then they might consider that the Canadian Federation of Agriculture was responsible in some measure for the decision. He did not see that labor was taking an attitude of friendship when they went after everything they can get regardless of the farmers.

Dr. Hannam thought that the recent canning of pork, even at a high price level, had maintained a balance for producers because there was available storage space for the canned product not available for hogs. Though the price of lamb is not what it should be, he said it was still higher than the prices offered in Chicago.

The speaker admitted that food prices were high, but said that if they were to be lowered then all other prices should be lowered as well.

Superforts Blast Red Chemical Plant

SEOUL, Oct. 1 — (Wednesday) — (AP)—U.S. Superforts from Japan and Okinawa pounded a prime Red Korean chemical plant on the Manchurian frontier for 2 1/2 hours early today and left it in flaming ruin.

Forty-eight of the big Superforts made their runs single file on the target through a web of searchlight beams and blossoming clusters of anti-aircraft fire. Tokyo head-quarters said all planes returned to their bases.

The Far East Air Forces said B-29s hit the sprawling Namsam plant in Northwest Korea, 27 miles northeast of Antung for the first time in the war. About 400 tons of high explosives were dumped on the target. Civilians had been given an Allied warning to flee the area.

Viscount Astor, Famous British Publisher Dies

CLIVEDEN, Buckinghamshire, England, Sept. 30 — (Reuters)—Viscount Astor, 73, millionaire publisher, racehorse owner and descendant of a German immigrant who founded the family fortune in the United States more than a century ago, died at his famed country home here today.

Lady Astor, his beautiful Virginia-born wife who became Britain's first woman member of Parliament, and other members of his family, had been called to his bedside when an illness of several months became critical.

The cause of death was not disclosed. His heir is the eldest of four sons, 45-year-old William Waldorf Astor Conservative member of Parliament for Wycombe, Buckinghamshire. Since the new Lord Astor will automatically move from the House of Commons to the Lords, an election for the vacant Commons seat will be necessary. The Astors also had a daughter.

Born Waldorf Astor in the U. S., the Viscount came to England at the age of 11 with his father and was educated at Eton and Oxford. Like his father, he settled in England and became a British subject.

The family fortune was founded in furs and real estate by John Jacob Astor in the early days of the 19th century. The late Viscount Astor served as influential London Sunday Observer. He was well known as a breeder of racehorses and won the famed Oaks classic at Epsom five times.

But his heart was in politics. He succeeded to the viscountcy in 1919 almost with reluctance since it removed him from the Lower to the Upper House of Parliament.

Between the two world wars, the Astor's week-end parties at their magnificent mansion on the banks of the Thames became world-famous. The parties prompted accusations that the "Cliveden Set" exerted a powerful backstage influence in British politics.

Viscount Astor denounced the rumors as "Communist fiction." They handed over their Cliveden home to the National Trust in 1942 together with an endowment for its upkeep but continued to live there. The trust is a government organization pledged to the upkeep of famous old British homes.

Fine Repair Job On Minesweeper By Local Plant

The navy tug "Glenside" is scheduled to take the minesweeper "Westmount" in tow from the Bruce Stewart Co. wharf today to go on the slip at Pictou where underwater fittings will be overhauled.

The "Westmount", along with a sister ship the "Malpeque" has been undergoing a thorough overhauling here for almost a year, although a major portion of the work has been done on the "Malpeque". Present arrangements call for the return of the "Westmount" in about three weeks, when the interior alterations will engage the attention of a working unit of approximately 150 men during the winter months.

Work on the "Malpeque", except for the underwater fittings, has proceeded at the Charlottetown plant well up to schedule and should be completed in three weeks, when she in turn will go to the Pictou slip.

In speaking of the ships which are undergoing alterations here, Lieut. Commander Thomas Barbour, naval engineer in charge of the work here and also at Pictou on several other naval vessels, was glad to express his appreciation at the quality of the work turned out locally and the speed with which the job has gone forward.

The "Malpeque", which was originally a minesweeper of the Steam Banger type, 162 feet long with a 28 foot beam and a complement of 80 men, is being converted into an escort vessel for coastal convoys and submarine detection.

The officers' cabins, crews quarters and wardroom have all been done over completely, the alterations being necessary to conform to the new status of the ship as a unit suitable for modern warfare. The main and auxiliary engines have been knocked down, thoroughly overhauled and re-assembled. When completed, the ship will be painted inside and out ready for sea when named.

The carpenter work came in for a special word of approval from Lieut. Commander Barbour, when showing the settees, tables, lockers, chairs, ship's wheels and numerous other gadgets which showed the work of competent craftsmen.

Lieut. Commander Barbour, resident naval officer, who after twenty-five years in the Royal Navy as an engineer, came to R. C. N. four years ago, has been assisted in his work at Charlottetown by former Lieut. "Bert" Campbell (R.C.N.V.R.), Chief P.O. Harry Edwards, and L. S. Cyril Pearce, overseer electrician.

Expect Shipments of Grain Via Montreal

MONTREAL, Sept. 30 — (CP) — Shipping officials said today that grain shipments through Montreal will be heavy in the two months remaining before navigation closes this season.

They said large quantities of wheat will be moved to British interests and there will be increases in shipments to European countries. More than a score of freighters were in port today, loading or waiting to take on cargoes. Prospects of a grain congestion have been reduced considerably.

Although the grain-export picture is bright, package freight had dropped off considerably. Shippers blamed this situation on lack of European buying, particularly in farm machinery.

SHEERNESSE, England — (CP) — The entertainments committee of this town on the Kentish coast has supplied 11 pensioners with free tickets, admitting them to the town pier for the rest of their life.
