Report British Stevedores May Resume Work Monday

LONDON (Reuters)—Leaders of Britain's 44,000 striking stevedores were reported Friday night ready to advise the men to return to their jobs Monday and end the walkout that has shut down eight of the country's key ports.

After hours of wrangling among themselves, the strike leaders were said to be willing to tell the strikers at mass meetings today to go back with the understanding that the strike would resume if any cases of "victimization" by employers was reported.

The strike leaders said the men could take "any action they desire."

Dick Barrett of the National Amalgamated Stevedore and Dockers Union said the leaders had decided on a recommendation to make at the meetings, but he refused to say what it was.

British Battery Leaves Canadian Area In Korea

OTTAWA (CP)—A British artillery unit, which has seen almost as much Canadian service as British, has left Korea for duty elsewhere. Canadian troops were sorry to see it go.

Marilyn Bell Advised To Rest

TORONTO (CP)—Marilyn Bell's physician, Dr. Bernard Willensky, said Friday the 17-year-old girl who swam across Lake Ontario last month has been advised to take a complete rest for at least a week.

He said after examining her this week that she should take "a holiday from all excitement."

He denied a Montreal report Miss Bell is suffering from any kind of paralysis of her left side. He added, however, that she is so tired she has been yawning continuously and falling asleep in school.

Otherwise, he said, she is in good condition.

Her coach, Gus Ryder, said she complained of a sore arm after a heavy workout at the Lakeshore Swimming Club Monday night.

Planes Have Diving
Rods To Spot Subs

BURBANK, Calif. (AP)—The new tail of United States Navy Neptune airplanes contains "diving rods" that can spot underwater submarines, Lockheed Aircraft Corp. disclosed Friday.

The long, pointed tail appeared a few months ago on the Lockheed-built P-2V Neptunes.

The plane is called the "MAD-Bird," MAD standing for magnetic airborne detector. The Neptune does its aerial detective work by registering disturbances in the earth's magnetic field, Lockheed said.

Similar equipment was used in military operations during the Second World War and in oil and other mineral exploration since then, Lockheed said. New refinements permit it to be incorporated within the plane; formerly the magnetic device was towed far behind.

Widespread Search For 4 School Children Missing At Urbanville

A Big Night Shaping Up

With two pumpkin lanterns already in his credit—the little one for little sister, the middle sized one for himself—Robert, 11, begins to fashion a big one for the front window. Sister Lynette, 5, is an interested observer. Incidentally, Robert raised the pumpkin in his own garden

Four children lost in heavy rain and darkness in dense woods near Wellington, about 15 miles west of Summerside, last night were the object of a search by about 125 local men under direction of R.C.M.P. officers from Summerside and Charlottetown.

Three of the missing youngsters, Roger Arsenault, age 14, and his younger sisters, Yvonne, 9, and Louise, 7, are children of Mr. and Mrs. Alyre C. Arsenault of Urbanville; the fourth child, Reggie Hitchcox, 12, is the son of Mrs. Lucky Hitchcox, also of Urbanville.

They disappeared yesterday afternoon after school when they set out to visit some rabbit snares which had been set in the woods. It is believed that they became lost while attempting to travel through a narrower part of this dense wood and swamp area between Urbanville and Wellington, which extends some five or six miles to Cape Egmont.

Concern was expressed when they failed to return home by dark, and in the face of pouring rain and a strong breeze, men from the surrounding areas joined the search under direction of the R.C.M.P. who used lights and loud hailers in an effort to give confidence to the children and direct them to safety.

An aircraft from R.C.A.F. Station Summerside joined the search but was forced to return to base due to poor visibility.

The search continued until about 1 o'clock this morning, and then was discontinued with plans to resume at about 7. Efforts were being made to secure as many men as possible. Last night the men searched in a wide chain through the woods, but the heavy growth in places and the darkness made the job a very difficult one.

It was also expected that aircraft from Summerside Station would assist with the search today if weather conditions permit.

See New Dairy Products Answer

FREDERICTON (CP)—The best way for dairymen to combat the effects of butter substitutes on their industry lies in development of a new dairy product, in the opinion of J. K. King, deputy minister of agriculture for New Brunswick.

Several federal research projects were outlined Friday by Mr. King at the joint convention of the New Brunswick Dairymen's and Butter-makers' Association.

Powdered milk, instantly soluble in water and tasting the same as fluid milk, was under development, Mr. King said, this would revolutionize the milk industry.

New methods of ensuring the flavor of freshly churned butter, even though long storage, also were being worked out.

MAU MAU HOUDINI KILLED

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuters)—Terrorist leader Ewan Kinyanjui, known as the "Mau Mau Houdini" because of 11 successful escapes from security forces, was killed Friday making his 12th escape bid. Offering to take police to his gang's hideout, he was allowed to lead them there, with a policeman hanging on to a chain attached to his handcuffs. As they neared the supposed lair, he grabbed the chain, ran and was shot dead.

NEW YORK (CP)—Queen Mother Elizabeth did her Christmas shopping early during an unscheduled tour of Fifth avenue shops Friday.

Enjoying a day off from official engagements, Her Majesty visited Saks Fifth Avenue and Hammacher Schlemmer, two of New York's most expensive stores, and Schwartz' toy shop, buying a few Christmas gifts for her daughter, the Queen, and her grandchildren, Prince Charles and Princess Anne.

Hundreds milled about the entrances to the stores when word got around that the Queen had gone shopping. Regular shoppers, already in the stores were allowed to remain, but were held back from the Queen's immediate vicinity by two New York policemen.

The week-end schedule is a full one, with the high spot the Columbia University convocation at which the Queen will receive an honorary degree. The invitation from Columbia, which is celebrating the 200th anniversary of the granting of its charter by King George II in pre-revolutionary days, was the original cause of the visit.

12-Hour Cloudburst Causes Damage In Some Districts of Southern Scotland

EDINBURGH (Reuters)—Landslides blocked road and railways, bridges were washed away, and thousands of acres of farmland lay under water after a 12-hour cloudburst hit southern Scotland Friday.

The flooding was the most serious in the area for many years. Gales raged around the northern shores of the British Isles as rain lashed the countryside. Coastguards stood by on emergency duty.

Worst hit area was the Solway Firth where the village of Creeton was cut off. Mass evacuation was started after several houses were reported to have collapsed and others to be under 10 feet of water.

Four main roads were among the many highways blocked in the south of Scotland. Main line trains to London were delayed by several hours.

The visit of the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh Friday to Durham and Northumberland was carried out in torrential rain.

Seek Wonder Cure For Blindness

DETROIT (AP)—Two little Italian brothers reached Detroit Friday in search of a "wonder cure" for their blindness. Their pilgrimage of hope started Oct. 15 from Naples.

The brothers were taken to the eye clinic of Detroit's Receiving hospital, a municipally-operated institution, for a series of preliminary examinations.

But the doctor they came to be treated by was not there. He is Dr. William G. Wolfson, called to duty as a reserve army major since the boys left Naples and now stationed at Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

Dr. Gordon C. Myers, receiving's chief of medicine, promised, however, Rafael Caruzzi 11, and Giovanni, 9, would be examined and possibly treated by others experimenting in treatment of blindness with ACTH, one of the so-called miracle drugs.

Rafael and Giovanni were tired and their father, Renato, unshaven as they arrived from New York after an overnight day-coach train ride. They arrived in Halifax by ship earlier this week.

Sign Contracts For Lachine Area of Seaway Project

MONTREAL (CP)—The St. Lawrence seaway authority Friday signed the first contracts for construction of the Lachine section of the seaway.

Authority president Lionel Chevrier, speaking at the signing ceremonies, said he is "very pleased" with progress of the project and said he hopes that work programs for all five sections of the seaway will be prepared by the end of the year.

The main contract signed Friday calls for excavation work in the Montreal harbor-Lachine section where the new channel will skirt the south shore, by-passing the old Lachine canal which cuts across the island itself.

The work is to be carried out by a syndicate of three Ontario firms—the McNamara Construction Company of Toronto, the Pigott Construction Company of Toronto and Hamilton and P. Cock and McQuigg of Toronto.

Wide Search For Big Rubber Whale

FISHGUARD, Wales (Reuters)—A big artificial whale named "Moby Dick" Friday night defied capture on the open seas just as his namesake in Herman Melville's famous novel mocked Capt. Ahab and his crew.

It was not a publicity stunt. The 18-ton rubber whale, measuring 65 feet in length, presented a major hazard to ships plying the seas between the Welsh and Irish coasts. It broke away from its tow rope in a storm Thursday night episodes. He had left the Welsh coast for the comforts of London.

Assistant director Kevin McClory took over Ahab's role, as in the book, he jumped on the whale's back but instead of a harpoon, he tried to fix another towline.

For an hour, he rode the $12,000 rubber creation but was forced to jump into an accompanying launch when it floundered off into open sea. It was last seen more than 20 miles offshore.

The whale has a wood frame-

U. S. Consulate At Hanoi Is Cause of Debate

HONG KONG (Reuters)—The Vietnam Communist newspaper Mhandan said Friday the continued presence of the United States consulate in Hanoi is "a flagrant contradiction of the Indo-China armistice agreement and international law."

The state department announced Thursday in Washington that the Communists would be guilty of "flagrant violation" of the Indo-China armistice if they forced the American consulate in Hanoi to close.

Vietminh radio said Thursday the Communist authorities had decided not to recognize the consulate, which stayed in Hanoi when the city was occupied by the Communists earlier this month.

The newspaper, quoted by Vietnam radio Friday, said "according to international law no nation has the right to establish a consulate in another nation without the authorization of the latter's government, and if the two nations have no relations with each other."

It said the Vietnam committee administering Hanoi would not recognize the consulate because of the "arrogant, brazen and impudent acts of the United States state department in not recognizing the democratic republic of Vietnam."
