Tariff Isolation Of Economy Seen Real Canadian Problem

By KEN SMITH
Canadian Press Business Editor

TORONTO (CP) — The real problem facing Canada today is not foreign ownership, but rather the way its economy is being isolated from the rest of the world, John E. Brent, president of IBM of Canada Ltd., said here.

He told the annual meeting of the Canadian Importers' Association that to tackle Canada's problems by "the so-called Canadianization of foreign subsidiaries" is the wrong solution to the wrong problem at the wrong time.

Canada's difficulties lie in such areas as high tariffs on manufactured goods and a small domestic market, he said. These factors were limiting Canada's performance in international trade.

"Now, our future growth depends to a large extent on the development of secondary industry, while international restraints on the flow of goods and services appear to be receding.

"Faced with these trends, Canada has only one alternative if we are to continue to move ahead.

MUST INTEGRATE

"This is, in effect, to integrate our economy with the world conomy and to rationalize our industrial structure so that it can become increasingly competitive not in a domestic but in an international setting."

Mr. Brent criicized the government for following a policy of trying to restrict the flow of foreign investment in Canada at a time the country needs all the capital it can get.

The only data available on how the current operations of foreign-owned firms have affected income and employment in Canada is contained in a U.S. department of commerce report in 1957, Mr. Brent said—something he termed a "rather strange situation."

Those figures showed that American direct investment in 1957 contributed $10,000,000,000 or about 30 per cent of Canada's gross national product to the economy that year in the form of local spending and purchases from other Canadian producers.

"In 1957 dividends paid to American investors . . . amounted to roughly $300,000,000 — $300,000,000 against $10,000,000,000. The contrast, I think, speaks for itself."

DISCUSSES CUSTOMS

The Canadian government came in for some knocks from another speaker—Murray Corlett, counsel for the association. He said the government has been becoming more and more conservative in administering its customs laws.

Such an approach can only have the effect of hindering imports of commodities into Canada and ignores the basic fact that trade has to be two-way, the Ottawa lawyer said.

A. T. Brodeur, president of the association, said the practice of the provinces in favoring their own manufactures at the expense of other Canadian firms is deplorable and must be stopped.

He said he knows what he is talking about since he comes from Quebec, but residents of other provinces should not feel self-righteous "because I believe every provincial government is guilty in varying degrees of gross discrimination in favor of local products at the expense of products from another province."

Ottawa Supports Newfoundland Town Experiment

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government is supporting financially an experimental town planning study in the Newfoundland town of Clareville which Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation said here may be of value to small communities in many parts of Canada.

CMHC announced approval of a $9,600 federal grant to the province. Total cost of the study is estimated at $12,800, the province and municipality proposing to share one-quarter of the expense.

The province is retaining Project Planning Associates Limited of Toronto as consultants.

It will be a two-party study. Part one will be used by Clarenville, on the Newfoundland East Coast 100 miles northwest of St. John's, as the basis for its municipal plan.

Part two will introduce and explain the concepts, objectives and methods of community planning in such a way as to be meaningful to those in small communities who have no previous knowledge of planning or urban development, CMHC said.

It is intended that this report stimulate the interest and participation of citizens in the orderly growth of their community. The report will consider how plans can best be implemented in small communities and what role is appropriate for local and provincial officials.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By B. JAY BECKER

TEST YOUR PLAY

1. You are declarer with the West hand at Three Notrump and North leads the queen of spades. If you play correctly, you can be sure of making the contract regardless of how the opponents' cards are divided. How would you play the hand?

West: ♠ 7 6 ♥ Q J 2 ♦ A K 10 9 8 6 ♣ 9 4
East: ♠ A K 3 ♥ A 10 3 ♦ Q 3 ♣ A 10 8 7 2

2. You are declarer with the West hand at Six Spades. North leads the king of diamonds, which you win with the ace. You play a club to the king, North and South following low, and finesse the queen of spades successfully, South playing the nine and North the three. How would you play the hand?

West: ♠ A Q J 7 5 ♥ K J 9 4 ♦ A 3 ♣ J 2
East: ♠ 8 6 4 2 ♥ — ♦ 10 6 5 ♣ A K 8 7 5 3

1. Win the spade with the king and play a low diamond from dummy, finessing the ten. If North wins the trick with the jack, you have nine tricks consisting of five diamonds, two spades, a heart and a club.

If the ten of diamonds wins the trick, you can be equally sure of making the contract by playing a low diamond to the queen and continuing with the ace and another heart. This method of play guarantees two spades, two hearts, a club and at least four diamond tricks. The unusual diamond finesse at trick two is a safety play to guard against every possible division of the diamonds, whether 3-2, 4-1, or 5-0.

2. By far the best play is to cash the ace of spades now. If it turns out that the spades are divided 2-2, the contract is made even if the clubs are divided 4-1. In such case, you play a club to the ace, ruff a club, ruff a heart, and then ruff another club, establishing the suit. The worst that can happen is that you lose one trick.

Now let's say that when you lead the ace of spades, North shows out. In that case you still make the hand if the clubs are divided 3-2 by playing a club to the ace, ruffing a club, ruffing a heart, and then leading the established clubs from dummy. The only trick you would lose is the king of spades.

It would be wrong to attempt a second spade finesse after the first one succeeds. The contract would become unmanageable if it turned out that South originally had three spades to the king. A vital entry to dummy would be lost and the contract would be defeated.
