

THE DAILY EXAMINER, SEPTEMBER 2, 1881.

What They Say of Us.

The Montreal Gazette's "own correspondent" has written some excellent letters descriptive of the visit to this Province of Sir Leonard Tilley...

"I have never seen a more attentive or appreciative audience, or one more likely to challenge the best effort of a speaker to appeal to its intelligence."

Regarding Georgetown, the correspondent of the Gazette is highly and justly complimentary. He does the people of King's County the honor of republishing their address to Sir Leonard in full...

"The address presented to Sir Leonard was the best and most comprehensive it has ever been my fortune to read. It dwelt with almost every subject of public policy, and was a complete text for the speakers."

Referring to Georgetown Harbor and the important subject of "Winter Communication, he says:

"It is a beautifully land-locked harbor, in which the whole Channel fleet could ride in safety. Georgetown is the point from which the Northern Light makes, or attempts to make, her winter passage to the mainland at Pictou. With the exception of the month of February, when great difficulties occur in crossing, I am informed that the steamer keeps up a tolerably fair communication during the winter months..."

"The address presented to Sir Leonard was the best and most comprehensive it has ever been my fortune to read. It dwelt with almost every subject of public policy, and was a complete text for the speakers." (Continuation of the quote from the Montreal Gazette)

Summing up the results of "the August campaign," the correspondent writes:—

"Thus ended the series of Ministerial meetings in Prince Edward Island, and certainly the friends of the Government have no reason to complain of the result of the August campaign. It has left the Conservative party strong, compact and enthusiastic, confident in the goodness of their cause and in the certainty of its being sustained at the polls. It has left the Grits disappointed and apologetic and feeling that whatever were their chances of success before Mr. Blake's visit, by the fact that he had no policy to offer them, he had almost destroyed them, and that the visit of Sir Leonard Tilley and Mr. Caron has completed the work."

The Asylum Commission.

The Commissioners appointed to investigate with regard to the conduct of officials of the Hospital for the Insane, viz., Rev. George W. Hodgson, Hon. A. A. McDonald, and C. C. Gardiner, Esq., met in the Legislative Assembly Room this forenoon. The Rev. Mr. Hodgson was appointed Chairman, and D. C. Martin, Esq., Secretary. The witnesses examined up to one o'clock were Dr. Blanchard, George R. Beer, Esq., Mrs. Darrach, Mrs. John Currie, and Dr. Beer.

So far, there have been no "startling developments."

The Deaf and Dumb Institution.

THERE WAS a very fair attendance at the Y. M. C. A. Hall last evening. Judge Hensley presided and made a short address.

Mr. Woodbridge, Principal of the Institution, submitted statistics of schools for the Deaf and Dumb both in England and America, and explained the disabilities under which uneducated deaf mutes live and labor. This was illustrated by an essay, written by one who had been a pupil, which he read to the audience.

Mr. Woodbridge made a statement as to the amount contributed to the Halifax Institution by Government and by private subscriptions (the latter including the fees paid by the parents), amounting altogether to upwards of $6,000. The cost of the scholars during the same period was upwards of $13,000, showing a balance against the Island of upwards of $7,000. The Government, which for several years gave an annual grant of $500, last year contributed but $300.

The number of scholars at present in the institution is 61, of whom 28 belong to Nova Scotia, 25 to New Brunswick, 3 to Newfoundland, and 5 to P. E. Island. Two of the three who took part in the exercises last evening belong to the Island.

Exercises in writing and arithmetic were done with great celerity and accuracy, and the pupils seemed to have a thorough knowledge of Scripture History. A large number of well-finished drawings in water colors and crayons—the work of the students—were exhibited. Mr. Woodbridge says that the deaf mutes excel in drawing, Geography and History; but they found some difficulty in mastering arithmetic and the idioms of language. The two boys represented the dentist and the barber in their respective operations of tooth drawing, shaving, etc. These performances were much enjoyed by the young people present. The children were evidently intelligent and clever. In conclusion, Mr. Woodbridge thanked the people of P. E. Island for the hospitality and sympathy extended to him during his tour on the Island. A collection was taken, the amount of which we have not learned.

Movements of General Luard.

INSERTION ARTILLERY—DRIVE, PIC-NIC, AND BONNET HOY.

The Charlottetown Battery of Garrison Artillery, under command of Captain Irving, were yesterday inspected by General Luard and Lt. Col. Irwin, Inspector of Artillery. On the arrival of the Inspecting Officers, they were received with the usual salute. The General then made a critical examination of the clothing and accoutrements of the men, after which the Battery were put through a series of movements by Captain Irving, including the new attack. The inspection by the General being over, he addressed a few words to the Battery, expressing the pleasure he had in meeting them, and saying that, while he had seen some smarter batteries, yet, on the whole, he was well pleased with them.

The Battery then laid aside their packs, and fell in at the guns, and the Inspector of Artillery then commenced his inspection, which was lengthy and exhaustive. The gunners showed a thorough knowledge of the drill, and Col. Irwin, at the close, expressed himself as highly satisfied with the result. After the militia inspection at Victoria Park, the General, with Mrs. Luard and their party, accompanied by a number of friends, drove to the country, taking in their way Wyther Grange and Belmont, as well as other places of interest.

Having accepted an invitation from the Hon. Mr. Carleton to a picnic and bonnet hoy, their return to Charlottetown was delayed until a late hour in the evening.

The General's party left this morning for Ottawa.

An Attempt to Shoot Mr. John Doull by a Man in Delirium Tremens.

(From the Halifax Herald, Sept. 1.)

At a quarter to three yesterday afternoon a man named Huggins, about 50 years of age, went into Messrs. Doull & Miller's office, and commenced abusing the senior partner—Mr. John Doull—in reference to certain business transactions. Mr. Doull very properly and promptly conducted Mr. Huggins to the door. Ten minutes later Mr. Doull left the warehouse to go to the Post Office, and when outside of Forsythe & Sutcliffe's drug store, Huggins presented himself and mumbled a few words, brandishing a revolver at Mr. Doull's breast. Quick as lightning Mr. Doull grabbed his wrist, and threw him on his back. In the scuffle that ensued the pistol disappeared. A number of cartridges were found in his pocket. A crowd collected, and Huggins was taken to the station, where the pistol was found in his pocket, with more cartridges. Huggins had evidently been drinking, or is crazy. Mr. Doull acted with admirable composure, and his quickness in getting hold of Huggins' wrist, doubtless prevented a terrible tragedy.

A Great Cattle Raiser.

Mr. J. P. Wiser, M. P., of Prescott, is one of the great cattle raisers of the Dominion. The result of his visit to the North West was the selection of 100,000 acres of grazing land on the side of Fort McLeod, at the junction of the Old Man, St. Mary, and the Belly Rivers, about 800 miles from Winnipeg, on which to establish a large cattle rancho. The Cochrane Rancho Company, under the direction of Senator Cochrane, have also secured 100,000 acres at the junction of Jumping Pound creek, and Bow River. The company will put in about 6,000 head of cattle this fall, but Mr. Wiser will not begin work before next year. The honorable gentleman has a few objections to the locality—the scarcity of grass during the winter season, and the existence on the American side of the line of bad water, being the principal difficulties. He has every confidence, however, in the success of his enterprise.

The Prince of Wales and the President.

It may help to keep up the hopes of those low-spirited if we bear in mind that it was not until after the Prince of Wales had been given over by his physicians that he began to mend. For a week the English nation had watched the bulletins with ever increasing anxiety. On Sunday, the 10th day of December, 1871—the day set apart for national prayer for his recovery—the doctors fairly gave the Prince up. From that hour he began to improve. On the Monday morning the bulletin which it was expected would quench the last ray of hope, gave tidings of slight amendment, and in a week the patient was pronounced out of danger. The recollection of this event should remind us that while there's life there's hope.—N. Y. Tribune.

British Farmers Suffering.

London, Aug. 26.—The Times, in a leading article, says:—With each day there is less hope of a good harvest. The weather has turned against us at the critical moment. The loss to the country from the late rains is to be reckoned by millions. It is impossible to gather in the corn, and it will soon cease to be worth gathering. The situation of our farmers is dismal. For many of them a bad harvest must mean absolute ruin. Farming is a highly skilled enterprise, and if the present race of farmers succumb and are driven out of their business, there will be no others capable of succeeding them.

Overwhelmed.

LAVA POURING OVER THE ISLAND OF HILO. A Victoria, B. C., despatch states that an arrival from Honolulu reports that the Island of Hilo, Sandwich Island group, is in danger of being overwhelmed by lava from the volcano Manna Loa. The lava moves at the rate of a sixteenth of a mile daily. It is slowly advancing on the town of Hilo, which will shortly be overwhelmed. The people are fleeing before the lava in great consternation.

Location of the Canada Pacific Railway Shops.

It having been rumored that the Syndicate had already purchased land for the erection of their shops in the west end of this city, our reporter called upon Mr. Drinkwater, and learned from him that the Syndicate were negotiating for a tract of land on which to erect machine shops and locomotive works. They had received offers of land both in the east and west end of the city, but had not yet decided which to accept. It is understood that negotiations will be closed at an early date, and that the erection of the shops will be proceeded with this fall.—Montreal Witness.

Throughout his long suffering nothing has been more marked than the tender tone in which the President has invariably, even in moments of the greatest agony, greeted his wife. During Thursday night's weary vigil, Mrs. Dr. Edson and Mrs. Garfield were sitting together in the sick room, when the sufferer awoke, and recognizing his wife's presence, suggested to her in a feeble voice that she should go and get some sleep. Mrs. Garfield gently insisted on remaining, when the President, in a tremulous voice, said, "Well, dear, if it is true that we must soon be parted, perhaps you had better stay with me." These touching words brought the tears involuntarily to the eyes of the patient's wife, nor could Mrs. Edson restrain her emotion. The President soon after fell into another nap, and thus another of the many pathetic episodes of this sad case ended.

Mr. Gladstone, amid all the worry to which he has been subjected during the last six months, has found time to prepare a work for the press. He is about to publish a new edition of his first work, not "Church and State," but "A Manual of Prayers, arranged for Family Use," a pamphlet of 120 pages, which Mr. Murray published in 1845.
