METHODIST HYMNS

THE NEW HYMN BOOK, in great variety of styles and binding, just received at HARVIE'S BOOKSTORE,
Aug. 17—1f

Winnipeg.
Lots to the right of them,
Lots to the left of them,
Lots all around them,
Countless in numbers.
See the proud land shark there,
With men so debonnaire,
Making his thousands, while
All the world wonders.
Oh, what a glorious place,
Poverty one cannot trace,
Gold, gold, a splendid race,
Lots the sole basis
Perhaps we may climb too high,
Lots may yet pine and die,
Tumble from out the sky,
My! what long faces.

THE WAR-TRAIL!

Oh! refusal and flattery in the same breath! No, mam'selle, I am sure your face will never be the means of your losing a partner. Come? let me beg of you to remove that envious counterfeit. Let us converse freely face to face. I am not masked, as you see."

"In truth, sir, you have no reason to hide your face, which is mere than I can say for many other men in this room."

"Quick-witted milliner," thought I, "Bravo, Ranelagh! Vive la Mabelle!" "Thanks, amiable masker!" I replied. "But you are too generous: you flatter me—"

"It is worth while," rejoined she, interrupting me; "it improves your cheek; blushes become you, ha, ha, ha!" "The deuce!" I ejaculated half aloud, this dame du Boulevard is laughing at me!"

"But what are you?" she continued, suddenly changing her tone. "You are not a Mexican? Are you soldier or civilian?"

"What would you take me for?" "A poet, from your pale face, but more from the manner in which I have heard you sigh."

"I have not sighed since we sat down."

"No—before we sat down."

"What! in the dance?"

"No—before the dance."

"Ha! then you observed me before?"

"O yes; your plain dress rendered you conspicuous among so many uniforms; besides your manner—"

"What manner?" I asked, with some degree of confusion, fearing that in my search after Isolina I had committed some stupid piece of left-handedness.

"Your abstraction; and, by the way, had you not a little penchant for a yellow domino?"

"A yellow domino?" repeated I, raising my hand to my head, as though it cost me an effort to remember it—"a yellow domino?"

"Ay, ay—a yellow dom-in-o," rejoined my companion with sarcastic emphasis—"a yellow domino, who waltzed with a young officer—not bad-looking, by the way."

"Ah! I think I do remember—"

"Well, I think you ought," rejoined my tormentor, "and well too: you took sufficient pains to observe."

"Ah—aw—yes," stammered I.

"I thought you were conning verses to her, and as you had not the advantage of seeing her face were making them to her feet!"

"Ha, ha!—what an idea of yours, mad'm'selle!"

"In the end, she was not ungenerous—she let you see the face?"

"The devil!" exclaimed I starting: "you saw the denouement then?"

"Ha, ha, ha!" laughed she; "of course I saw the denouement, ha, ha, ha, ha!"

"Very," replied I, not much relishing the joke, but endeavoring to join my companion in the laugh.

"How silly the spark looked?—ha, ha!"

"Very silly indeed—ha, ha, ha!"

"And how disappointed—"

"Eh?"

"How disappointed you looked, monsieur?"

"Oh—ah—I—no—I assure you—I had no interest in the affair. I was not disappointed—at least not as you imagine."

"Ah!"

"The feeling uppermost in my mind was pity—pity for the poor girl."

"And you really did pity her?"

This question was put with an earnestness that sounded somewhat strange at the moment.

"I really did. The creature seemed so mortified—"

"She seemed mortified, did she?"

"Of course. She left the room immediately after, and has not returned since. No doubt she had gone home, poor devil!"

"What?"
"Una negrilla!"
"I fear, monsieur, you Americans are not very gallant towards the ladies of color. It is different here in Mexico, which you term despotie."

I felt the rebuke.

"To change the subject," continued she; are you not a poet?"

"I do not deserve the name of poet, yet I will not deny that I have made verses."

"I thought as much. What an instinct I have! O that I could prevail upon you to write some verses to me!"

"What! without knowing either your name or having looked upon your face. Mam'selle, I must at least see the features I am called upon to praise."

"Ah, monsieur, you little know: were I to unmask those features, I should stand but a poor chance of getting the verses. My plain face would counteract all your poetic inspirations."

"Shade of Lacerda! this is no needle-woman, though dealing in weapons quite as sharp. Modeste, indeed! I have been laboring under a mistake. This is some dame spirituelle, some grand lady."

I had now grown more than curious to look upon the face of my companion. Her conversation had won me: a woman who could talk so, I fancied, could not be ill-looking. Such an enchanting spirit could not be hidden behind a plain face; besides, there was the gracefulness of form, the small gloved hand, the dainty foot and ankle demonstrated in the dance, a voice that rang like music, and the flash of a superb eye, which I could perceive even through the mask. Beyond a doubt, she was beautiful.

"I entreat you to unmask yourself. Were it not in a ball-room, I should beg the favor upon my knees."

TO BE CONTINUED.

NEWS NOTES.

Bismarck is said to be rather seriously ill. The missing ocean steamship "Bath City" has been given up for lost.

Some fine Polled Aberdeen cattle are being sent out from England to Hon. J. H. Pope.

Several hundred tenant farmers recently ploughed Mr. Parnell's farm at Wicklow and did other necessary work about the place.

The Lord Mayor of Dublin has declined to call a meeting of the corporation to consider a proposal to confer the freedom of the city on Messrs. Parnell and Dillon.

An Englishman has been shot by a sentry on the fortifications at Malaga, having failed to answer to five challenges. The military authorities are holding an investigation.

Washington is just now the scene of a shameless scramble for office, in which even the so-called most earnest advocates of civil service reform occupy the most prominent positions.

The late census of Japan shows a total population of nearly 36,000,000. Males are more numerous than females in the proportion of 28 per 1,000—that is, there are 1,028 men for every 1,000 women.

The Indian branch of the Department of the Interior has received a number of specimens of grain from the North-West. All the specimens are good, but decidedly the best are barley and oats from Strike Hill, on the Buck's farm at Battle River.

Each year on the Prince of Wales' birthday his three young daughters play before him a short dramatic piece to show their progress in foreign tongues. Last year the selection was from the Gernan; this year it was French. The young Princesses Louise, Victoria, and Maud acquitted themselves admirably.

Two silver cups have been given by the Marquis of Lorne for competition amongst the Curling Clubs of Canada, one for iron, the other for stone playing. Competing clubs must play the match games between the second and twenty-third January inclusive, and send returns to Col. DeWinton not later than the tenth of February.

It is to be hoped that London Truth will contain the published apology Labouchere is reported to have made to Lord Lorne for the publication of the wretched slander of Princess Louise—a vile production, which, it is said, moved the Princess to womanly tears when she read it. Chivalry must be fast dying out of England's upper classes, when an English M. P. permits such a miserable attack upon a woman without the power to retort.

The undergraduates of Queen's University, Kingston, are at war with the university authorities. They petitioned the Senate for an extension of the Christmas holidays, were refused, and inconspicuously decided to take the term they desired. This declaration of independence was met by the Senate with a manifesto announcing that all students who overstayed the prescribed holiday limit would lose their session. This took the rebels considerably by surprise, but it is understood that they intend holding out.

The legacy which Sir Richard Cartwright left was a terrible deficit. So soon as Sir Leonard Tilley was appointed to his place he not only wiped out the deficit, but piled up a surplus of $5,000,000. The Grits will move "heaven and earth" to get hold of the surplus as they did before. They like to tamper with the people's wealth, which others have amassed in the national interest. If they did get hold of it, there would soon be more squandering and more deficits. However, it is hardly probable that the opportunity will be afforded to them.
