Meeting To Seek Solution To Glover Shore Problem

SUMMERSIDE BUREAU OF THE GUARDIAN
A fast and permanent solution to the contamination problem facing residents of Glover's Shore will be sought this afternoon at a meeting of householders, property owners, community and government officials.

Many of the citizens affected are apprehensive that a number of the homes involved may be declared uninhabitable because of contaminated water supplies and inadequate sewerage disposal arrangements.

The meeting will be held at the Public Health Centre, Summerside.

situations so far as the health problem is concerned. The focal point of the problem is in the area where there has been a buildup of small homes on small lots, with each new home adding its own well and sewage system, many with only outside toilets. A steady and increasing flow of disposal into the earth for many years has saturated the ground beyond health safety level for those using water from wells described as inadequate. Officials say many of these wells show a high level of contamination, with water supplies affected below ground.

SOME CONFUSION
Some confusion exists since homes standing only a few yards apart are in altogether different from deeper, cased wells, and with underground sewage disposal systems having drainage extensions leading away from their water supply.

Among the homes that are free from the immediate health problem in this way are those of James Currie, Robert Rankin and Henry Wedge, the latter with nine cabin homes.

At the same time, concern over the problem extends beyond those directly affected by it. Owners of adjacent properties feel that their values could be affected by continuation of existing conditions at Glover's Shore.

HARD TO CONFINE
Within the Wilmet district there is some feeling, too, that it is hard to confine health problems, since children from Glover's Shore travel to school in Summerside each day with their children.

It was on the basis of the community health problem that town planning officials of the provincial government, together with those from the department of health, indicated earlier this week that unless something is done quickly most Glover's Shore residents face the prospect of leaving their homes declared uninhabitable.

Today's meeting will discuss whether to relocate many of these houses on larger lots capable of supporting both sewage and water systems on a private basis or to seek some other approach to the water contamination problem.

The community, located at Summerside East, is reached by Glover's Shore Road, paved with asphalt this year, which extends to the shore from the main highway into Summerside.

Wheatley River District Discusses Rural High Plan

An enthusiastic and capacity crowd showing keen interest in proceedings jammed Wheatley River Hall Thursday night for the third in a series of meetings scheduled to discuss the establishment of a rural high school in Central Queens County.

Before opening the meeting to discussion Rev. Foster Hall of Hunter River, an advocate of the school plan, asked the audience to consider two points:

(1) That higher education was the right of the country child and the facilities should be available for him as they are for urban children.

(2) That the scheme suggested by the sponsoring committee offered a practical and economical way of realizing this.

"Unless assent is given to the first point the second is not worth discussing," said Mr. Hall.

WASTE OF TIME
Those present raised many practical questions which indicated an interest in the project. Problems of finance, the type and quality of the proposed school, the difficulties of transportation in bad weather were thoroughly aired.

The chairman pointed out that problems of a technical nature were to be expected but there was plenty of experience gained by other provinces in this field to be drawn upon.

Couple Sees 'Moon' Object

ALBERTON—A round moon-like object was sighted in the sky near Shediac, New Brunswick early yesterday morning by an Alberton couple Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Myrick.

Returning from Waban, Mass., the Myricks were proceeding toward the Tormentine ferry via Shediac when they sighted the object which they watched for about half an hour before it was obscured by clouds.

In a vivid description it was said to be larger than the moon owing to its low height and appeared to have a shiny surface which reflected the sunlight before daylight. Although seeming to be stationary it was difficult to judge owing to the movement of the car.

There was some speculation that it might be the American space balloon released Wednesday in Virginia.
