Don't Write Off Dief, Is Advice Of British Paper

LONDON (CP) — British interest in the Canadian election was maintained here with an editorial in The Evening Standard and a special article in The Daily Mail.

The Evening Standard, published by Lord Beaverbrook, implies that Prime Minister Diefenbaker should not be lightly dismissed.

"Mr. Diefenbaker has been written off by many Canadians," it says. "They should remember that Harry Truman was dismissed with equal certainty, and survived to send Thomas Dewey into a long, dark, political night."

Diefenbaker's opponents should remember, the paper adds, that Opposition Leader Pearson is by no means sure of a clear majority. The difference between success and failure for Pearson might well lie in Quebec, "where the Social Credit party will make further gains."

Don Iddon, The Daily Mail's correspondent in the United States, crosses the border to report on the political situation and reports from Montreal that everyone there is turning more and more toward Britain.

CALLS IT PUZZLER

Iddon says he has covered Canadian elections for a quarter of a century—"but I confess this one is a puzzler."

The Sunday Telegraph, in an editorial, discounted the idea that anti-Americanism is likely to be the main theme of the hustings. Diefenbaker might sound like General de Gaulle or "when he really gets going" like Fidel Castro.

"But he only really does it because he knows it teases, and the more irritable the Americans get, the more he knows it teases, which makes him redouble his efforts."

The paper also carries a lengthy article from Washington analysing the state of Canadian-American relations.

Paris Trip Cancellation Discussed

LONDON (Reuters) —Prime Minister Macmillan said his government recommended cancellation of Princess Margaret's trip to Paris and meeting with President de Gaulle because "so soon after recent events" the royal visit "seemed hardly right."

His statement touched off a row in the House of Commons, where he was speaking at the opening of a debate on Britain's future following the breakdown of Brussels talks Jan. 29 on British entry into the European Common Market.

Margaret and her husband, the Earl of Snowdon, had been scheduled to visit Paris last weekend.

The visit was cancelled after an announcement last Thursday that the government had advised against it because of the need to keep a member of the Royal Family at home while the Queen is away in Australasia.

Macmillan said there was no doubt that foreign countries regarded royal visits as having political significance and admitted that although Princess Margaret's visit was unofficial, it was bound to have assumed a semi-official character.

"So soon after recent events," he added, "a royal visit and entertainment at the Elysee seemed hardly right."

SC Leader To Prepare Platform

REGINA (CP) — Robert Thompson, Social Credit party leader, flew into Regina Monday to hammer out with provincial and federal party officials what he said will be a strong prairie farm platform.

Mr. Thompson said at a press conference that present arrangements offer no security for the western farmer.

"The farmers will not be fooled again if I heard correctly the rumblings across the Prairies" he said.

The party leader said details of the Social Credit farm platform will not be announced until this morning at the earliest.

Mr. Thompson said the Social Credit party will field about 240 candidates in the federal election April 8 and expects to form a minority government. "I've heard a number of Conservatives say they won't get more than 40 seats."

He said the New Democratic Party will lose seats in the election. "They're so badly split themselves it is hard to see where they're going."

On Social Credit nuclear weapons policy Mr. Thompson said "we must differentiate between offensive and defensive weapons. On offensive weapons—Canada wants no part of them," he said.

He said that politicans and the electorate can not make a decision on whether the nation should have defensive nuclear weapons. It was largely a matter of "military necessity."

DROP ABANDONMENT PLAN

OTTAWA (CP) — The CNR has withdrawn its application for permission to discontinue passenger service on three lines in western Ontario, Transport Minister Balcer announced Friday. The lines run between Guelph and Owen Sound; Palmerston and Southampton; and Stratford and Kincardine.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 N.T.	Pass	3 N.T.

Opening lead—six of spades.

I ran into Sylvia the other day and she told me I was slipping. As proof of this she cited a hand that appeared in this space recently. Sylvia wanted to know why I had not mentioned a simple play that would have defeated the contract.

Sylvia has a point, so here is the hand again. West leads a spade and declarer ducks in both hands, permitting East to win with the queen. This is the holdup play which declarer employs to break communication between the adverse hands.

Note what happens if East continues with a spade. South wins and leads a club. If East takes the club, he has no spade to return and declarer eventually makes nine tricks by leading a club again towards dummy. If West takes the club, he can establish his spades but then has no entry left to cash them.

If declarer takes the queen of spades immediately, he is defeated. As soon as East gets in on the first club lead, he returns a spade and South goes down one.

Let's say that East, after winning the queen of spades at trick one, shifts to the queen of diamonds. Declarer ducks again —once more making use of the holdup play— and for exactly the same reasons previously given.

It would now appear that the defense is completely bottled up, whether East reverts to spades or continues with diamonds. With defensive communications broken and with the club entries divided, it would seem that whichever suit East plays at trick three, the cause is lost, since the player whose suit gets established has no entry card to cash them.

However, as Sylvia points out, East can beat the hand by playing another diamond. South wins and leads a club. East takes the jack with the king and plays still another diamond —on which West discards the ace of clubs! This extraordinary discard puts South out of commission. He cannot escape defeat.

Obviously, Sylvia hasn't mellowed over the years. She is still the same delightful and irrepressible Sylvia.

British Gov't Apologizes To Windsor

LONDON (AP) — The British government has apologized to the Duke of Windsor for not informing him in advance about controversial references to him in recently-published captured German archives.

Peter Thomas, undersecretary of state at the foreign office, told Parliament here.

"It is true that the attention of His Royal Highness would normally have been drawn to the contents of the proposed text before publication. It is regretted that due to an administrative oversight His Royal Highness was not so informed in advance in this case, and an apology has been made."

The captured archives contained a report, apparently from the Duke of Coburg, telling Hitler in 1936 that the Duke of Windsor, then King Edward VIII, strongly favored a British alliance with Nazi Germany. The king was said to be ready to meet Hitler personally in Britain or Germany—regardless of what the British government of the day, led by Stanley Baldwin, might think.

In another document, Leopold von Hoesche, the German ambassador to Britain at that time, reported King Edward's "friendly attitude toward Germany might at time come to exercise a certain amount of influence on the shaping of British foreign policy."

The Duke of Windsor said immediately after publication of the documents in December that they gave "a generally false impression."

Thomas revealed the government apology when questioned by members of Parliament.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X E
L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophics, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
