A MEETING of Liberal-Conservatives will be held a New Dominion, Lot 65, on Monday, 11th day of October, inst., to transact such business as is required, in the interest and welfare of the people of this section and Province generally. By order L. C. C. ALEX. C. SHAW.

ABOUT eleven o'clock last (Wednesday) night, as policeman Doyle was wending his way along upper Pownall Street, he heard shots fired from a carriage a short distance ahead of him. The horse was going at a lively pace, and he could not overhaul it. A few minutes after the first carriage passed the officer's attention was attracted to another carriage coming along the street at a breakneck pace and from which shots were also being fired. He at once determined to stop the horse. As it came flying past he caught hold of the rein, but was knocked down and run over in his attempts to stop the horse's speed. He was fortunately not much injured, and thinks that he will be able to identify the shooters.

The Court Musicians and Mr. Walter Pelham gave their inaugural concert in the Province at the Lyceum Hall last evening, to a very large and fashionable audience—amongst those present being his Hon. Lieut. Governor A. A. Macdonald and Mrs. Macdonald, Sir Charles Tupper, Chief Justice Palmer, etc. Mr. Chas. Abercrombie, who was for ten years solo tenor to Her Most Gracious Majesty, Queen Victoria—was especially well received. Mr. Jos. Leach's fine and highly cultivated voice won rounds of applause even between the verses of his songs. Miss Taunton's rendering of the "Moon Song" from the "Mikado" was especially pleasing. Mr. Hopper's pianoforte solos exhibited wonderful technique and brilliant execution. Miss Zetema's pretty little ways and songs also added to the evening's pleasure. Mr. Walter Pelham's refined humor kept the audience in roars of laughter, and won deservedly several encores. The concert will be repeated to-night with an entire change of programme, and we trust the Hall will be well filled on the occasion.

GRAVE-OPENERS AT WORK AT VERNON RIVER BRIDGE.—There is an old grave-yard between the houses of Mr. Thomas Furness and Mr. James Ross. Altogether, about thirty persons are buried in it. It is forty-five years since the last interment took place. A few days ago Mrs. Ross noticed one of her cows sink, when stopping on one of the graves; who also noticed that the earth was fresh looking around it. That day she did nothing but talk about the affair; but on the 30th ult. Messrs. John and Thomas Furness, T. Furness, Jun., and James Ross, proceeded to open the graves of Mr. Laird, where the earth had been recently moved. On reaching the coffin they found that it had been pilfered of all its body bones. The grave had been opened by sharp-edged tools, and by persons who knew how to use them. All are agreed that no strangers did it; but the wonder is that the neighbors—Messrs. T. Furness and J. Ross were not attracted, either by the light or the ghost of the body-snatchers. Surely it was a ghastly undertaking for the young men to put the old man's bones into a bag and carry them away. Evidently they knew what they were doing, for Mr. Laird's was the last interment in this ground. Then it is supposed that Mr. Laird's skull was well worth studying, as he was a man of more than average mental ability. It is conjectured that some medical student wanted Mr. Laird to be in a snatching anatomy; and it is further conjectured that as he did not care to have a stranger, and possibly an ill-omened corpse snatcher's hand, he made choice of Mr. Laird, as he was personally kind in his day. A short time ago, some young men were noticed making a particular examination of the spot. At the time nothing was divine of the spot, but since then, their visit and the removal of the old man's bones have been connected. There is general indignation at what has been done.
